

HELL'S CANYON
FEDERAL DAM
BILL KILLED BY SENATE, 51 TO 41Southern Democrats
Join Republicans in Defeating Measure—Major Victory for Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The Senate today killed a bill to authorize a $485,000,000 federal dam in the Snake river at Hell's Canyon on the Idaho-Oregon border.

A roll call on the question of passing it brought 51 votes against and 41 in favor. Two Republicans and 39 Democrats voted for the bill and eight Democrats and 43 Republicans voted against it. The two Republican Senators who voted for it are Wiley, Wisconsin and Langer, North Dakota. The eight Democrats who voted against it are: Robertson and Byrd, both of Virginia, Eastland of Mississippi, Ervin of North Carolina, Frear of Delaware, Long of Louisiana, Russell of Georgia, and Smathers of Florida.

The vote, marking a major victory for the Eisenhower Administration, climaxed a hot debate which went far to build up public-private power as an election year campaign issue. In the end, Southern Democrats joined Republicans to defeat the bill, tagged by Western Democrats as a symbol of their fight against what they call "resources giveaways" by the Eisenhower Administration. Republicans presented an almost solid front against the bill. Democrats charged in debate that intensive White House pressure had been exerted on G.O.P. members.

Work Already Begun.

Private development of Hell's Canyon has already begun with planned construction of three dams by the Idaho Power Co., under license by the Republican-dominated Federal Power Commission.

Idaho Power has started work although public power groups are challenging the validity of its license in the United States Court of Appeals and have asked the Supreme Court to stop the construction.

The Senate bill would have ordered the private development halted. A similar bill is pending in the House Rules Committee, but the Senate action apparently dooms any such legislation in this Congress.

(Later the United Press quoted Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem., Texas, as saying he expects no further action in the House on this session on the Hell's Canyon dam issue.)

Long a Potent Issue. The Hell's Canyon controversy, long a potent political issue in the Northwest, became national several months ago when Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler urged party leaders in Congress to press for passage of the bill. Butler said the legislation was "vital" to prospects of Democratic candidates in the Pacific Northwest and had to be passed to bolster the giveaway charges against the Administration.

Political overtones ran through much of the Senate debate.

Shortly before the roll call, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyoming, linked the scrap directly with the election in Oregon.

O'Mahoney said White House "subordinates" had been "marshaling their forces" against the bill, apparently on the theory that "if Hell's Canyon can be defeated, Wayne Morse can be defeated."

Electrical storms struck the St. Louis area last night, centering in University City and the West End. Lightning and rain came at 10:35 and 12:35 o'clock, disrupting electrical service in scattered neighborhoods and bringing precipitation that varied considerably from one locality to another.

Rainfall was recorded at 2.63 inches in University City, 1.28 downtown and 1.04 at Lambert-St. Louis Field, Assistant Meteorologist Arthur A. Rausch announced.

ATOM SHELL SAID
TO KILL 50 PCT.
IN A MILE RADIUS

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The death-dealing radius of an atomic shell today was estimated at more than a mile, dwarfing the power of conventional World War II shells.

Information was given by Assistant Secretary of Defense, Robert T. Ross in a letter to Representative Homer (Rep., California, which Homer included in a House speech. Ross said the thermal effect of a 280 millimeter (11-inch) artillery shell with an atomic warhead, under normal weather conditions, would produce 50 per cent fatalities among exposed persons "at ranges up to slightly more than a mile from the point of burst."

By contrast, Ross said, a conventional eight-inch howitzer shell would cause 50 per cent casualties (not necessarily fatalities) in an area about 20 by 80 yards.

Ross said further, without amplification, that "the projected lead time for the intercontinental ballistic missile, guided missiles and nuclear air propulsion has shrunk, and it is considered that these projects are nearer than once thought."

BALL OF FLAMES,
SIGHTED IN KANSAS

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., July 19 (AP)—The Kansas highway patrol said early today "A ball of fire traveling east at a high rate of speed has been picked up by radar at the Hutchinson (Kan.) Naval Air Station." The patrol said it had been asked to try and observe the "phenomena" near El Dorado in south central Kansas.

City Editor Brian Coyne of the Arkansas City Daily Traveler said, "A brilliantly lighted, tear-shaped object with prongs or streams of light spraying downward was sighted shortly after midnight." A second "flying object" was sighted around 1 a.m.

A P-47, sent into the air by the 48th Tactical Fighter Wing at Fort Belvoir, Mo., was sent to investigate the reports, centering around Arkansas City, Wellington and El Dorado, Kan., found only waste gas burning in the oil field. The pilot thought reflections of the flickering flames might have appeared to be flying objects. The patrol said it had been informed one object disappeared about 5:15 a.m., and the other a few minutes later.

Hot-Headed York (Pa.) Police
Balk at Wearing Pith Helmets

YORK, Pa., July 19 (AP)—York policemen became so indignant yesterday over an order telling them to wear pith helmets that 26 men on the day shift refused to work for more than two hours.

"We look silly in those sun hats," said one.

"Bernie shorts will be next," said another.

The chief directed his men to wear the helmets in observance of Soap Box Derby Day in York. City officials said it was a kind of experiment, too, and if it worked out, then the policemen would wear the helmets all summer.

It took two hours and 20 minutes for a lawyer representing the Fraternal Order of Police to convince the mayor and other officials that it would be best to give up the idea of making the helmet part of the summer uniform.

The policemen said they'd go along with the derby day stunt.

Until the question was settled this city of about 60,000 had decidedly limited police protection—the chief, a sanitation officer, a sergeant, a relief policeman and a few plainclothesmen.

Maj. Thomas J. Murphy, assistant chief of detectives in the St. Louis Police department, and William S. Smith, chief St. Louis county deputy sheriff, were charged with careless and reckless driving in separate indictments returned last night by the county grand jury.

The charge, a misdemeanor, has a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and two years in the county jail. The jury voted no true bills in each case on driving while intoxicated charges, thus, in effect, refusing to return felony indictments.

The indictments were ordered suppressed last night by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller pending apprehension of the persons named. Murphy was arrested by a state trooper who reported the officers' car had been weaving, traveling on the wrong side of the road and had failed to observe a stop sign. Smith was arrested after his car sped past another state trooper early Sunday.

Convalescence Due to Run Into August—Little Concern Over
His Weight.By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON, July 19 (UP)—President Eisenhower is convinced that he has the physical stamina to carry on a vigorous re-election campaign and serve another four years in office.

That is the consensus of a United Press survey of persons who have talked with the President since he returned to the White House from Gettysburg, Pa., last Sunday.

The White House plans to issue no new medical bulletins on the President's condition. It is possible, however, to give this up-to-date report.

Mr. Eisenhower weighs 163½ pounds. Prior to his heart attack last Sept. 24 he weighed 178. About the time he underwent surgery on June 9 for ileitis, he weighed just under 170 pounds.

Following his heart attack he was placed on a reduced diet of 1800 calories a day. Since his more recent illness, his calorie intake has been boosted to 2500 calories a day, but this has not produced much increase in weight. Shortly after his operation, Mr. Eisenhower's weight went down to 161 pounds.

The President has changed to shirts a size smaller.

The President's physicians are not particularly concerned about his weight. They say that Mr. Eisenhower's basic period of convalescence will run about 12 weeks from the date of operation. This means he will be classified medically as a convalescent patient until sometime in late August.

His muscle tone is more than the doctors expected at this point.

As of last night, Mr. Eisenhower's blood pressure was normal for a man of his age and the prothrombin time (the blood clotting rate) was normal. Mr. Eisenhower recently has resumed taking an anti-coagulant medicine.

Concern Over Congress.

The Chief Executive's associates appeared to be more concerned about his reaction to the wind-up of Congress late next week than the rigors of his immediate schedule.

He will fly to Panama Friday night for a weekend conference of American presidents.

Friends familiar with the President's recent thinking thought the Chief Executive might be deeply concerned over the fate of some of his proposals in Congress and that he would be subject to emotional pressures during the waning days of the House and Senate.

"If we get by the next week, everything will be fine," said one of the President's best friends.

After the congressional adjournment, Mr. Eisenhower probably will spend some time in Gettysburg before going to San Francisco about Aug. 23 to accept the Republican nomination.

Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19—First steps to recover "an estimated $800,000" in state funds involved in the scandal in former Illinois State Auditor Orville E. Hodge's office were taken today by State Attorney General Latham Castle.

Castle, who made the estimate of the amount of state money paid out in "fraudulent or forged warrants," turned over to State Treasurer Warren Wright six affidavits signed by two Springfield business men that six checks, or warrants in official state terminology, for $107,902 were issued in their names and are forgeries.

Officials previously had estimated total amount involved at $547,000.

For Smith as Candidate.

Gov. William G. Stratton announced at the capitol today that he would recommend State Senator Elbert S. Smith (Rep., Decatur), to the Republican State Central Committee as a candidate for state auditor. Committee approval of Smith is virtually certain.

Asked at Decatur to comment on the Governor's announcement, Smith said: "I will accept if the state committee designates me."

Smith, a 45-year-old lawyer, is completing his second term as state Senator from the Republican eighth district. He is married and has two children. He was graduated from James Millikin University and the University of Alabama. During World War II he served in the Navy.

Meanwhile, State's Attorney George P. Coutrakon, who questioned Hodge for four hours and 40 minutes yesterday, said he planned to question Hodge's executive assistant, Edward A. Epping, today. Hodge resigned Monday after fire last Monday at the insistence of Gov. Stratton.

Expects Indictments.

Coutrakon said he would turn Hodge's and Epping's statements over to a county grand jury Monday and that he expects the jury will return some indictments by the end of next week.

The affidavits given to Wright stated that the two business men, Elmer J. Bretz, a contractor, and Clarence J. Reuter, head of a business systems company here, did not intend to sue Hodge and the state did not owe them any money, nor did they receive any.

Five of the checks for a total of $97,537 were made out to Bretz and the other for $10,365 to Reuter. Investigators said they were cashed under "questionable" circumstances, which included cashing by persons other than the payees named and indorsing some of the checks by typewriter rather than the usual handwritten signature.

Castle, chief law enforcement officer of the state, said he instructed Wright to demand reimbursement from the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago, the last indorser of the warrants.

The attorney general said similar action would be taken for recovery of state money when additional affidavits are obtained. Hodge has said he would make restitution to the full extent of his resources. It was reported he told authorities he could raise about $400,000.

U.S. Senate Inquiry.

United States Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.), today ordered Senate Banking Committee investigators to conduct a preliminary investigation in the Illinois check scandals to determine whether a full-scale committee investigation is warranted.

The request for the preliminary inquiry came from United States Senator Paul Douglas, (Dem., Ill.), who said the situation in his home state "looks pretty bad." Asked if the scandals would be good for the Democrats politically, he replied that he was not so much concerned about the political welfare of the Democrats as he was to seeing that the public is protected.

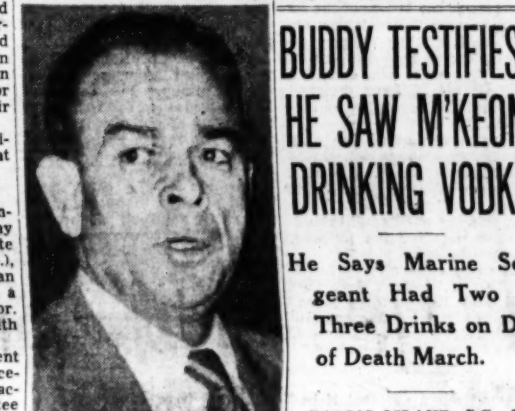

Fulbright said he had asked Robert Wallace, the committee's chief of staff, and Don Rogers, a professional staff member, to conduct the inquiry here and in Chicago. They will determine whether interests of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

A stray dog whose head became caught in a hole in an abandoned oil drum on a lot in St. Charles was freed today by agents of the Animal Protective Association of Missouri.

James Ray, field officer for the association, said the dog, a female, apparently poked its head through the hole last night, attracted by the smell of food mixed with trash in the drum.

A passerby today heard the dog's yelps and notified the association. The dog and the 110-gallon drum were brought by truck to the association shelter at 1705 South Hanley road, Brentwood, where agents freed the animal in a few minutes.

The dog, which recently had a litter of puppies, will be kept at the shelter for treatment while the agents search in St. Charles for its puppies.

Orville E. Hodge, Illinois State Auditor who resigned under fire in the $800,000 warrant scandal in his office, has had business associations with Frank (Buster) Wortman, hoodlum gang boss, and other east side gangsters and gamblers, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

In addition to Wortman, it was reported, Hodge has been in business deals with Thomas Berry, former Belleville gambler and slot machine king, and Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, close associate with Wortman.

This information, developed over a period of years by federal agents, is in the hands of investigators for State's Attorney George F. Coutrakon of Sangamon county, who is making one of three investigations into charges that warrants in the amount of $800,000 were made out by Hodge's office and cashed by persons other than those named.

Investments in Florida.

Federal agents have learned that Hodge and Wortman jointly were interested in Florida investments. Hodge is part owner of the $600,000 Esquire Apartment Hotel at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Berry and Wortman are reported to have had a financial interest in the place at one time.

The investments by the three reportedly were made several years ago when Wortman was considering a number of gambling ventures in Florida's east coast and in Havana, Cuba. Most of these plans were discarded after the Kefauver Senate Committee, which investigated the situation and Florida authorities cracked down on gambling and vice.

Wortman, however, is said to still have an interest in a gambling casino in Havana.

Police here today reported that when Joseph Costello, ex-convict who was the Ace Cab Co., was arrested last Feb. 27 and found to have two pistols in his possession, he said he and other members of his family had just returned from Fort Lauderdale where they had been looking for a place to gamble.

Also with them, he said, was Costello's aunt, Mrs. May Traylor, a long-time operator of disorderly houses.

$30,000 Advance Reported.

Of particular interest to Coutrakon's men is the report that $30,000 was advanced to Hodge by Berry and other gamblers and gangsters in central Illinois last year at a time when the scenes boom for Hodge for governor was in the making.

It has been known that Hodge's ambition was to become governor of Illinois. In 1952, he was ready to run for the post, but agreed to step aside for Gov. William G. Stratton and accept the candidacy for state auditor.

When the Hodge boom was at its peak, he gave lavish parties at his Granite City home and at his estate at Lake Springfield on the outskirts of Springfield, Ill. Among the guests were Republican and Democratic politicians and usually a sprinkling of the gambling element.

The Hodge boom, however, was short-lived. Stratton gained suddenly in popularity and emerged as the undisputed lead of the Republican party in Illinois.

Casino in Nevada.

Prior to the time the $30,000 loan reportedly was made to Hodge, Wortman, Berry and Dowling are said to have invested in a gambling casino at Las Vegas, Nev. Agents of the Nevada Gambling Commission attempted to prove the three were financially interested in the place, but straw parties were listed as the investors.

The casino subsequently was sold to San Francisco investors, records showed. Wortman and Dowling got their money out of the place, but Berry did not. He was forced to go to Las Vegas, where he now lives, to collect his money in weekly payments.

Before going west, however, Berry is said to have asked Hodge to repay the $30,000. Reportedly, Hodge could not do it.

Hodge, a tall, personable man, known as a "free spender" and "gracious host," began developing

PRESIDENT HAILS U.N.'S 10 YEARS AS INCREASINGLY VITAL, EFFECTIVE

Praises U.S. Participation as Move to Keep World at Peace—No Withdrawals From Membership.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower today praised 10 years of United States participation in the United Nations as "a record of substantial evolution in man's efforts to live at peace."

Mr. Eisenhower submitted the annual report, along with a special message, to Congress. The President said the record for 1955 shows that the U.N. now entering its second decade, is "increasingly vital and effective."

He listed developments in five fields:

1. "Important strides," he said, have been made toward converting the atom to peaceful uses in "the face of what might seem insurmountable obstacles." But Mr. Eisenhower said disarmament "remains one of the most vital unsolved problems facing the world."

Will Obey Mandate.

2. The dispelling of "paralyzing distrust" was his main purpose, the President said, in proposing at Geneva last July mutual United States-Soviet aerial inspection of military installations. He said this country will continue to obey the mandate of the U.N. to give his proposal priority consideration as a step toward arms reduction and continue "our search until we have found the answer to this awesome problem."

3. Measured against the tragic alternative of open war, Mr. Eisenhower said, maintenance of the uneasy armistice between Arab states and Israel "ranks as a substantial accomplishment." He said the U.N. exerted a stabilizing influence in the Near East and this was "one of the best proofs of the sheer necessity of the United Nations."

4. The release of 15 illegally imprisoned American flyers who fought in the Korean war, Mr. Eisenhower said, followed a trip by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to Peiping with a General Assembly mandate. This, he said, "proves with dramatic force the power of the United Nations to influence events through its impact on world opinion."

5. Sixteen members were added to the U.N. in 1955, bringing the total to 75. The President said not a member has withdrawn in the first decade, most outsiders seek to join, and nothing could prove more clearly the "vitality and influence" of the organization.

Mr. Eisenhower said now that pressure of world opinion has opened up membership to other countries, after years of Soviet vetoes, additional nations should be admitted without delay as they become qualified.

"I am glad to note," Mr. Eisenhower said, "that the Sudan, which achieved independence late in 1955, already has been recommended for admission by the Security Council. Certainly, the unjust exclusion of Japan, by repeated Soviet vetoes, should be promptly rectified. The Republic of Korea and Viet Nam are likewise fully eligible for membership."

U.S. AIR FORCE MOVES OUT OF DOWNTOWN TOKYO

TOKYO, July 19—The Stars and Stripes came down yesterday and the Rising Sun flag of Japan went up on the flagstaff of the Meiji building in downtown Tokyo for the first time in almost 11 years.

A ceremony on top of the seven-story building marked the final move-out of the United States Far East Air Force from the center of Tokyo. It now is based on suburban Fuchu Air Base and retains only a small office in the city. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, commander of the Far East Air Force, turned over a big symbolic key to the president of the Meiji Life Insurance Co. At the same time, he gave keys to the new Kajo building and to the University Club to their managing directors.

United States military forces now occupy only four buildings in the center of the city. Two of these are fairly minor buildings. The sight of armed Air Force police guarding the three buildings returned yesterday and denying entrance to all those without military accreditation has irritated the Japanese in recent years.

JOINED TWINS SEPARATED AND EXPECTED TO SURVIVE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 19 (AP)—Surgeons separated the Hutchens' joined twins today and said that, despite complications, they should survive.

The principal complication was discovery that the 1½ inch of tissue joining the twins at the base of their spines included a spinal fluid duct and a nerve. The nerve was believed to be a minor one.

Gary Neil and Larry Dale Hutchens were born July 2 to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hutchens of El Cajon. The American Medical Association says there have been four authentic cases of both separated twins surviving surgery.

Buddy Testifies He Saw McKeon Drinking Vodka

King said he saw McKeon taking two or three drinks on cross-examination he couldn't recall if it was one, two or three drinks.

King's testimony came after that of Master Sgt. John E. Clement Jr. and 18-year veteran in the Marines, who said he had never heard of anyone drowning in Ribbon Creek.

Clement, appearing as an expert witness for the government, told the court he was present when a skin diver found the last of the bodies in the creek.

Earlier in the day the government presented in evidence pictures of the bodies of the six recruits over the strenuous objection of civilian defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City, who conceded that all the Marines drowned on the night march led by McKeon.

Berman contended the only purpose the pictures served was to inflame the court.

The law officer, Navy Capt. Irving M. Klein, of New York City, said the photographs could be used only for the purpose of identification.

His ruling came after Berman said that if McKeon took the stand and the pictures were shown to him, he would submit a motion for mistrial.

Klein said, "for the purposes of shaking the accused."

Berman asked Clement if he had ever heard of any Marines being marched through the marshes, swamps and creeks surrounding Parris Island.

Mr. Seivers objected to the question.

"That is the only issue in this case," Berman retorted.

"The Government will continue to object," Seiver said.

Navy Capt. Klein, the court's law officer, corresponding to the judge in civilian courts, overruled the government's objection to the question about marches through the swamps.

Counsel for both sides agreed to debate the point again tomorrow.

Klein had overruled a government objection earlier to the question as to whether Clement had heard of any drownings in Ribbon Creek. Clement then said he had heard of none.

Describes Tides.

Clement said he was familiar generally with the tides in this area and that the average was about six feet. He said that at low tide it was possible for a man to walk across the creek.

It is a defense contention that on the night of the fatal march the tide was two hours from low. That night the tide crested at seven feet, three inches.

The tides around this 41-year-old island training base, Clement continued, range from about five feet to a maximum of 11. The marshland bordering the Ribbon Creek banks, he added, is not covered by water at low tide.

Berman told the court he expected to prove from other witnesses that not in the memory of local residents on and off the island training center prior to the ill-fated march, had anyone drowned in the creek.

(The United Press learned that 63 of the 68 survivors of platoon 71 have been transferred back to Parris Island to stand by as possible witnesses. Two of them have been since last Friday it was learned, two more are A.W.O.L. from Camp Lejeune, N.C., where the platoon went from there, another is in the brig at Lejeune, and a sixth is "awaiting trial.")

HENNINGS ASKS PLAN FOR RIGHTS IN EMERGENCIES

Urges Blueprint to Preserve Traditional Freedoms in Event of Atom Attack.

By SAM J. SHELTON JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 19—Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri, asked federal officials today what steps will be taken to preserve American freedoms in event of a national emergency such as an atomic attack.

"We consider it of utmost importance that full and adequate plans be made now to assure our citizens of the maximum protection of their constitutional rights in the event of such a national emergency, which all of us hope and pray will never occur," said Hennings, chairman of the subcommittee on constitutional rights.

Hennings, in a letter to Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson, observed that last year during Operation Alert, President Eisenhower, in an "apparently spur of the moment decision" declared a state of limited martial law, suspended the writ of habeas corpus with respect to federal offenses and in effect placed the country under the command of the military.

"Example of Danger." This action, which the Missouri Senator called a "glaring example of the danger to our traditional freedoms," apparently was done without advance notice even to the top officials of the Civil Defense Administration.

"Without regard to whether a declaration of limited martial law was justified under the hypothetical circumstance of Operation Alert 1955," Hennings wrote, "it seems obvious that freedom and constitutional rights must eventually suffer where such a drastic step is taken hastily without warning and without weighing with extreme care whether it is actually necessary."

Hennings said the subcommittee believes the citizens have the right to know of what plans, if any, are being considered to suspend traditional rights during such an emergency.

"We feel that if the American people will be called upon to surrender even temporarily some of their liberties, the Congress, the press and the people should have an opportunity to share in the advance planning," he said.

Test Tomorrow.

The nationwide civil defense test "Operation Alert 1956" is scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Hennings noted that he was in agreement with advance planning against an atomic attack and taking every necessary step to protect the nation and to preserve order under the extreme conditions that would occur in the event of an attack.

"But this does not mean that our plan should not include proper precautions to preserve constitutional rights," Hennings said.

Over-All U.S. Air Power Ahead Of Russia's, Wilson Declares

Secretary in Reply to Symington Says 'We Intend to Maintain Strength' to Deter War.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (UP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson insisted today that the United States now was ahead of Russia in over-all air strength. He said it intended to maintain sufficient strength to deter war.

He made the statement in a letter to Chairman Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, of a Senate Arms Services subcommittee which is investigating complaints that the United States is losing air supremacy to Russia.

The letter was in reply to Symington's charges that Wilson's earlier testimony was in direct conflict and inconsistent with that presented by high-ranking military leaders.

Wilson did not deal specifically with the testimony of his military leaders. But he told Symington that "after a careful review of my testimony and that of others, I must state that I disagree with the conclusions in your statement."

It is his belief, he said, "based upon evaluation of the facts, that in our over-all air strength we are ahead of the Russians at today and we intend in the future to build and maintain total air strength capable of preserving the security of the United States, and as a visible deterrent to wars of any kind."

If there were any inconsistency in testimony, he said, it was due to differences of opinion rather than differences in fact.

With regard to the extra $800,000,000 of air funds which Congress voted partly on the basis of needs reported by air generals, Wilson said it would be helpful to let the American people know that "I do not propose to impound" the funds.

There had been some talk at the Capitol that the extra cash might be left idle.

"I propose to carry out the intent of Congress, subject to the limiting factors proposed by the Congress itself and to the recommendations of the Secretary of the Air Force and to my own best judgment as to the security needs of the nation," Wilson said.

proper precautions to preserve constitutional rights," Hennings said.

In another letter to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Hennings requested a copy of a study Brownell was directed by President Eisenhower to make to see what could be done in an emergency which would protect the population, protect the nation, and at the same time do the least violence to our form of government.

HAVANA, July 19 (UP)—A light plane landing at the Camp Columbia airstrip outside Havana yesterday hit a truck parked at the end of the runway, killing the truck driver. The pilot of the plane escaped injury.

PLAN TO WEAKEN CIVIL RIGHTS BILL BEATEN IN HOUSE

First of a Series of Amendments Offered by Southerners Is Shouted Down.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (UP)—The House today shouted down a Southern effort to water down the Eisenhower Administration's civil rights bill.

It defeated an amendment offered by Representative Edwin E. Willis (Dem.), Louisiana, which would have removed all provisions of the measure except creation of a bi-partisan civil rights commission.

Willis' amendment would also have sharply curtailed the power of the proposed commission by denying it subpoena power and requiring it to consult with state officials. Willis' proposal would also have prohibited payment to volunteer consultants of the commission.

The amendment would have removed from the bill provisions setting up a civil rights division within the Department of Justice and authorizing the Attorney General to bring civil rights actions directly in federal courts.

The amendment was the first of a series that Southern opponents of the measure planned to offer.

The House began acting on amendments after Southern "filibuster" tactics forced the Democratic leadership to abandon its plans for a final vote on the bill today.

The Southerners agreed to call off their "filibuster" temporarily after the leadership agreed not to push for a final vote today.

The agreement came after Southern parliamentary tactics succeeded in blocking all House business for almost an hour. The House agreed to quit work on the bill at 5 p.m. and to resume consideration tomorrow.

The Southerners won the delay by barely tapping the parliamentary tricks they had planned to use. For one thing, they had planned to force a reading of the journal of yesterday's activities—which would have consumed about two hours.

House passage, which might come tomorrow, does not mean the measure will become law. The bill is given no chance of passage in the Senate, where a filibuster could kill it even if it survives committee action.

U.S. JURY REPORT URGES EXTENSION OF INQUIRY INTO TAX SCANDALS

Original Panel Is Dismissed After Serving 18 Months — Calls Many Phases 'Still Incomplete.'

Continued investigation of tax scandals in the Truman Administration was recommended today by the federal grand jury, which has been conducting the inquiry for 18 months, in a brief final report to United States District Judge George H. Moore. The judge discharged the jury after complimenting the members for their service.

After ordering the outgoing jury's report read to the newly-impaneled grand jury, which he instructed May 2 to inquire into expenditures of candidates for federal offices in election campaigns, Judge Moore emphasized the importance of the investigation of election campaign expenses. He said:

"Honesty and integrity in elections are more important even than the prosecution of corrupt officials, racketeers who extort money at the point of a gun, or tax-evaders. It is far more serious, it is a greater threat to continuity in government."

"Sooner or later," he said, "we are going to see to it that the use of vast sums of money, the use of great industrial prestige to control elections, is corrected. And we will see an end to the time when the voice of the people and selections of the people are dominated by corrupt and improper influences."

Two Convictions.
In recommending continuation of the tax scandal investigation, which so far has resulted in the indictment and conviction of two former Truman Administration officials, Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, the jury reported:

"We believe the record will show that some results have been achieved. However, there are many phases of this investigation which still are incomplete."

Wyllis S. Newcomb, special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of the tax scandal investigation, in his report to the Justice Department intended to continue the investigation of tax scandals and the conspiracy to obstruct justice.

"It has been our experience, and past records verify, that the direction taken and the policies followed by a grand jury in this tax investigation are originated and dictated by the Justice Department in Washington."

Major changes of such policy and direction are not in most instances discussed with or agreed to by the grand jury, or we assume, by the court.

Evaluation Sought.
"Since the present policies and intentions of the Justice Department have been presented in Mr. Newcomb's report to us yesterday, we feel that this record should be read to the present grand jury for their evaluation. In order to carry out the original charge to investigate the administration of tax laws and best serve the interests of justice, we are making these recommendations."

Some disagreement among members of the grand jury had been reported over the type of report which should be submitted to the court. Some of the panel members felt strong criticism of the handling of the investigation by the Justice Department was called for, while others believed the inquiry has disclosed all the criminal prosecutions warranted and should be closed, it was learned.

In discharging the jury, Judge Moore commented that there seems to be a difference of opinion as to the propriety of a jury making reports other than those pertaining to the voting of indictments, or no true bills.

'Strong Belief.'
He said that he "has a strong belief" in the jury system and the value of a grand jury and said he felt it was proper for a grand jury to make reports on matters other than true and no true bills.

his associations with gangsters and gamblers in East St. Louis and Chicago in 1938, it was learned. He was a close friend of the late Willie Heene, St. Louis gangster, who went to Chicago and finally became the third most wanted man of the Federal Bureau of Investigation list.

Hodge liked nothing better than a party, friends said. He was a frequent visitor to night clubs and was never known to let anyone else pay the bill. He entertained Illinois political greats and near-greats. He had music piped into his lavishly furnished home near Springfield for the enjoyment of guests.

In addition to four automobiles and two airplanes, Hodge had a yacht, which, it was said, he bought from Berry for $10,000.

Talked of Connections.
A former friend of Hodge, who visited him socially, told the Post-Dispatch that when Hodge was a Republican member of the Illinois Legislature he frequently talked about his connections with gangsters and gamblers.

He is said to have had a financial interest with Berry in an electrical appliance store in Granite City several years ago. Much of Hodge's political support has come not only from Republicans, but from elements in the Democratic party with the backing of gamblers on the East Side and in southern Illinois. Political observers pointed out that he hired some Democratic politicians or their relatives when he was auditor.

ST. LOUIS SAILOR KILLED AS CAR HITS TREE IN ILLINOIS

Otto L. Carver Jr., 2716 South Seventh street, was killed Tuesday night when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a tree off U.S. Highway 41, near Waukegan, Ill., his parents were notified yesterday. He was an apprentice seaman at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Another sailor from the training center, Bobbie L. McMillin, driver of the machine, also was killed. Police said McMillin's car apparently went out of control after he sideswiped another machine in an attempt to pass. The other driver was uninjured.

Carver, 18 years old, enlisted in the Navy in March 1955. He had been stationed at Great Lakes since being inducted.

everything that we expected or thought we could in these tax inquiries," Judge Moore said, "but the investigation has had a great effect. It has brought to the Government payment of income taxes from people who had never paid them before. It has brought conviction to many who held trusted positions, only to betray their trust."

The judge recalled that the original grand jury instructed by him to investigate tax matters returned a partial report after a few days study in which it found "everything letter-perfect." However, he said that when the jury found out that they had been misled by the men "whose duty it was to assist them," the jurors "got to work with a will."

Newcomb told the Post-Dispatch: "There is no question about the investigation of tax scandals continuing."

Meanwhile, United States District Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye of Minneapolis, who was named to take charge of the final phases of the Connelly-Caudle case here following the death of Judge Ruben M. Hulén, conferred with attorneys for the Government and defense today.

Connelly and Caudle were scheduled to be sentenced today after having been found guilty last month of charges of conspiring to defraud the government. Both had motions for a new trial pending.

Judge Nordbye, following his conference with the attorneys, announced that it will be Oct. 1, or later, before he will be able to hear arguments on any pending, or proposed, motions.

Filing Dates Set.
The judge gave defense attorneys until Aug. 2 to file any additional motions they might contemplate and fixed Aug. 23 for filing of defense briefs in support of pending motions. He set Sept. 6 as the final date for filing of Government briefs in opposition to defense motions.

Judge Nordbye pointed out that he presently knows nothing about the Connelly-Caudle case and said he plans to review the 2100-page transcript of testimony at the trial and study the 500 exhibits offered in evidence before taking any action.

CHARGE AGAINST PAIR IN CHILD WHIPPINGS

Bruises and Scratches Found on Boy, Girl—Complaint by Grandparents.

Warrants charging Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Moynahan, 3404 South Second street, with mistreatment of children were issued by the circuit attorney's office today.

They were arrested last night on a complaint that they had whipped their two children with a belt and struck one with a board.

The case is to be presented to the grand jury next Wednesday. The maximum penalty is three years imprisonment or a $1000 fine, or both.

The children, by her previous marriage, Glenda Lee, 9 years old, and Larry Allen, 8, were taken by police to City Hospital yesterday for examination, after complaint had been made by the grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Anderson, 2154 Stansbury avenue, the hospital reported the children had multiple bruises and scratches, which appeared to be old.

Mrs. Moynahan's brother, Louis Anderson Jr., told police he saw Moynahan, a painter, whip the children hard with a belt on several occasions. The foster father admitted he spanked the two recently after they built a fire with tooth picks in their basement home, police said.

The mother told police she accidentally hit her son in the head with a board last May 1, when attempting to get him to come out from under a bed where he had hidden to avoid punishment. She said she took him to a physician after the boy's head started bleeding.

Mrs. Moynahan said she wanted to punish the children because they had spent 50 cents, which they found at home, on cakes and candy. In juvenile court yesterday, Circuit Judge Waldo C. Mayfield awarded temporary custody of the children to the grandparents.

Brinkman, a 60-year-old carpenter, was hit by a machine driven by Robert Schremp, 16-year-old student of 332 Tacoma drive, Lemay, who told police he did not see Brinkman until too late to avoid striking him.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 19 — Petitions seeking a redetermination of alleged income tax deficiencies totaling $1,616,646 against Fred M. Saigh, former president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and six St. Louis associates have been filed with the United States Tax Court here.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Russell C. Harrington sent letters last April 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Saigh; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Salomon Jr.; Mrs. Robert E. Hannegan, widow of the late Postmaster General and former Democratic National Committee chairman; and A. L. Watson and R. Vernon Clark, real estate operators, advising each that the Government was claiming deficiencies, interest and penalties as a result of their ownership and subsequent sale of the Railway Exchange Building.

Breakdown of Liability. Harrington said the total deficiency amounted to $2,198,302, but that limitations of liability of the individuals reduce the sum the Government sought to $1,616,646. Individual liability, Harrington added, was as follows:

Saigh, $902,428; Mrs. Saigh, $159,251; Salomon, $30,161; Mrs. Salomon, $90,483; Mrs. Hannegan, $174,695; the Hannegan estate, $73,352; Watson and Clark, $95,138 each.

DRIVE RENEWED AGAINST ILLEGAL PARKING IN PLAZA

Motorists unable to resist the temptation to park in the wide-open spaces of the Plaza area, where ground has been cleared for a housing project, found warning notices stuck on their windshields today.

The Land Clearance Authority announced a renewed drive against illegal parking in the area, and said police will make arrests if the notices go unheeded.

The authority has posted no-trespassing signs, but in some cases drivers have been parking beside the signs. Illegal parking, curtailed some months ago, has become widespread once more, and the municipal agency has asked police to step in.

Three private parking lots operating in the Plaza area under temporary leases were ordered to close last October. The Land Clearance Authority felt that it would be "bad psychology" to permit parking on ground cleared for an entirely different purpose. They did not want anyone to get the impression that the Plaza project, like the Mississippi riverfront memorial, might be delayed for many years.

HEARING ON MILK HANDLING ORDER SET FOR THURSDAY

A public hearing on proposed amendments to the Agricultural Marketing Act and on an order regulating the handling of milk in the St. Louis area will be held at 10 a.m. next Thursday at the Melbourne Hotel, it was announced today.

Purpose of the hearing is to receive evidence relating to emergency conditions and other economic factors which may affect the proposed new regulations.

Copies of the amendments may be obtained at the office of the market administrator, 4030 Chouteau avenue.

The Government's claim is based, Harrington declared, on the alleged tax liability of Investment Realty Corp., 411 North Seventh street, through which the Saigh group purchased the stock of the Railway Exchange Building in 1946. The assessment, Harrington explained, represents the Government's computation of the value of the assets transferred by the realty corporation to the individuals in 1951, when the Railway Exchange Building was sold.

In their petitions for redetermination of the deficiencies Saigh and his associates cited numerous alleged errors in the Internal Revenue Service's case, adding that the claims were not brought "in good faith."

The taxpayers' petitions charged the Government's action is "improper and erroneous."

An effort by the Internal Revenue Service to set aside a tax settlement with Saigh was rejected by the Tax Court last April. The Government contended it had agreed to the settlement without taking into account the Railway Exchange Building transaction.

Investigation indicated, the Government reported, that the stock in the building was acquired with corporate funds, which for tax purposes constituted a dividend to the stockholders.

Saigh's previous tax troubles resulted from his ownership of

SIX-DAY CIVILIAN DEFENSE TEST Begins Tomorrow for Nation

Top Washington Officials, Federal Workers to Leave Capital in 'Operation Alert 1956.'

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—"Operation Alert 1956," a six-day civilian war game, starts tomorrow.

During the day make-believe atomic assault will wipe out 76 United States industrial and military centers and some Canadian cities.

Top Washington officials and hundreds of other federal workers will leave the "doped" capital by automobile for secret relocation centers in six states.

President Eisenhower, however, will not go with them. He is flying to Panama tomorrow night for a meeting of the presidents of the American republics. But he will be back in time to participate in the last two days of the civil defense exercise.

Unlike the two previous test alerts in past years, the armed forces will take part in this one, to an undisclosed extent. The 1956 operation also will afford a nation-wide daytime test of the Conrail emergency radio network.

Radio, TV Stations Here to Go Off Air in Tests.
All radio and television stations in the St. Louis area will go off the air for 15 minutes tomorrow as part of the nationwide Conrail test of emergency broadcasting. The "black-out" will be from 3:10 to 3:25 p.m.

During that time, nine St. Louis radio stations will change their broadcasting frequency to 640 or 1240 kilocycles, sending civil defense news and instructions. All FM and television stations in the area will remain silent during the exercise known as Operation Alert, 1956.

Four stations, KSD, KXOK, KSTL and KFUP will form a cluster in the 640 range and stations KMOX, KXLW, KWK and WIBW (Belleville) will form a cluster in the 1240 range. They will broadcast a common program with each of the cluster stations on the air for only a few seconds at a time. The frequent switching from one station to another makes it difficult for a bomber pilot to use radio signals for navigational aid.

About 1250 standard broadcast stations in the country will participate in the test, conducted by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, the Department of Defense and the Office of Defense Mobilization.

JUDGE FREES MAN CHARGED WITH STORING EXPLOSIVES

Robert E. Chisholm, a construction worker, charged with violation of the city's building code by illegal storage of explosives in his home was discharged today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd.

When arrested Tuesday night, Chisholm told police he had been keeping 85 sticks of dynamite and four boxes of percussion caps in his apartment in a 51-family building at 4132 Washington boulevard.

However, at the time of his arrest, after a complaint by another tenant of the building, Chisholm led police to his automobile where he had placed the explosives. He said he had taken them from a construction job on which he was employed near a school because he did not want any of the children to get hold of them.

STORE IS ROBBED OF $72
James R. Taylor, proprietor of a liquor store at 721 North Kingshighway, was robbed of $72 and his wristwatch, valued at $15, last night by two men, he reported to police.

The robbers, Negroes, entered the store and one of them asked for a bottle of beer, Taylor said. When he turned to get the beer, the other man drew a revolver from his pocket. They took $60 from the cash register and $12 from Taylor's billfold.

SIX-DAY CIVILIAN DEFENSE TEST Begins Tomorrow for Nation

Top Washington Officials, Federal Workers to Leave Capital in 'Operation Alert 1956.'

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—"Operation Alert 1956," a six-day civilian war game, starts tomorrow.

During the day make-believe atomic assault will wipe out 76 United States industrial and military centers and some Canadian cities.

Top Washington officials and hundreds of other federal workers will leave the "doped" capital by automobile for secret relocation centers in six states.

President Eisenhower, however, will not go with them. He is flying to Panama tomorrow night for a meeting of the presidents of the American republics. But he will be back in time to participate in the last two days of the civil defense exercise.

Unlike the two previous test alerts in past years, the armed forces will take part in this one, to an undisclosed extent. The 1956 operation also will afford a nation-wide daytime test of the Conrail emergency radio network.

Radio, TV Stations Here to Go Off Air in Tests.
All radio and television stations in the St. Louis area will go off the air for 15 minutes tomorrow as part of the nationwide Conrail test of emergency broadcasting. The "black-out" will be from 3:10 to 3:25 p.m.

During that time, nine St. Louis radio stations will change their broadcasting frequency to 640 or 1240 kilocycles, sending civil defense news and instructions. All FM and television stations in the area will remain silent during the exercise known as Operation Alert, 1956.

Four stations, KSD, KXOK, KSTL and KFUP will form a cluster in the 640 range and stations KMOX, KXLW, KWK and WIBW (Belleville) will form a cluster in the 1240 range. They will broadcast a common program with each of the cluster stations on the air for only a few seconds at a time. The frequent switching from one station to another makes it difficult for a bomber pilot to use radio signals for navigational aid.

About 1250 standard broadcast stations in the country will participate in the test, conducted by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, the Department of Defense and the Office of Defense Mobilization.

SEVERAL DENIALS OF WHITE HOUSE STEEL DEMAND

No Ultimatum to End Strike, Press Aid Says Negotiations Are Resumed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 19 (AP)—Negotiations for a new steel wage contract were resumed between United Steelworkers and industry representatives.

Meanwhile there were emphatic denials from several sources to published reports that President Eisenhower had demanded after a White House meeting yesterday that the 19-day-old steel strike be settled within a week.

Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder said at Washington today "there was no such action" at the meeting, and there was "no ultimatum, no warning."

McDonald Confident.

Union president David J. McDonald issued a statement from his headquarters that he had seen press reports that the President might invoke a Taft-Hartley law injunction if no settlement is reached within the week. McDonald said "President Eisenhower in 1952 told the AFL convention that injunctions do not settle the underlying cause of strikes. I have every confidence in the President and no reason whatsoever to believe that he has changed his mind."

Snyder also told reporters in Washington, in response to questions, that he knew of no plans for federal intervention and no discussion of applying a Taft-Hartley injunction to the steel dispute. He said he did not know whether there might be another review in Washington of the situation within another week.

Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan had attended the White House session where the President is said to have reviewed the steel situation with his economic advisers.

No Sign of Progress.

There had been no indications of progress in the negotiations session that ended last evening after about two hours. A terse joint statement said the negotiators would meet again today, at a time to be arranged by McDonald and John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel vice president and chief industry negotiator.

The strike is now in its nineteenth day, and inventories of steel gathered in anticipation of the shutdown are dwindling rapidly.

Finnegan said he did not know of "anyone" setting an arbitrary deadline for settlement, adding:

"The whole tenor of the talks (at the White House) was toward solving the difficulty under normal collective bargaining procedure." Finnegan said Mr. Eisenhower sent an identical message to both the union and industry. He said the message expressed concern about economic effects of the strike "but more important, for the 650,000 workers who are on strike."

Before yesterday's session Stephens said: "We have not changed our offer..."

Union 'Ready and Able.'

McDonald parried a question on whether the union had moved from its position, saying: "The United Steelworkers are ready, willing and able to make a contract."

The union has rejected the industry offer as "too little, too late and too long." It would provide a 52-month contract which, the industry says, would give a 17 1/2 cent hourly package boost in the first year. McDonald, who has not revealed his demands, valued the offer at 14 cents an hour. Wages under the old contract averaged $2.46 hourly.

In addition to the 650,000 strikers, some 103,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off. Trade circles say the long-phase effects of the strike may be worse than some people realize.

DEMOCRATS HONOR SENATOR GEORGE AT $100,000 DINNER

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Democrats paid more than $100,000 today to honor Walter F. George and replenish the party's senatorial campaign chest.

All avowed candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination planned to be on hand for the dinner tonight, but the star of the show was the 78-year-old retiring Senator from Georgia.

Tickets cost $100 apiece, including those bought by Adlai Stevenson, Estes Kefauver, Averell Harriman and Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, the latest entrant into the race for the nomination.

Whatever is left over after paying for the dinner and for a present for George and his wife will go to the Senate Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee to help try to elect Democratic candidates this year.

The ticket sale already has topped 1000, double the number first expected.

Former President Truman will not attend, but he sent money for two tickets and his own personal tribute to George, who is rounding out his thirty-fourth year in the Senate.

The presidential candidates will talk briefly, and only to praise George. The Senator himself will be the principal speaker.

Clock Strikes Out. SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UP)—Townfolk here called it "a striking example of mechanical failure" when the old courthouse clock got stuck and bonked 299 times.

PRESIDENT SURE
HE HAS STRENGTH FOR CAMPAIGN

"Hagerty curtain" stirred a bitter argument in the Senate last night.

The charge was made by Senator Pat McNamara (Dem.), Michigan, who asserted much of the press was at fault. He said it failed to tell the people that, at a time when Mr. Eisenhower was represented as making important decisions, he was "under sedatives."

Senator William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader, said he was "greatly shocked" by McNamara's accusations, which he interpreted as an attack on the integrity of Mr. Eisenhower.

He said McNamara had sought to create the impression the President "had deliberately set out to mislead" the American people about his capacity to serve another term. He denied American newspapers had entered any "conspiracy" to suppress facts.

Noting that McNamara was sitting temporarily in the chair of Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, Knowland said he hoped the remarks were "purely personal" and that McNamara was not speaking as "acting majority leader."

Demand for Evidence.

Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, challenged McNamara to produce any evidence that the press has been "covering up" for Mr. Eisenhower. He said he deplored the level of politics to which, he asserted, McNamara's speech had sunk.

Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, arose to say he wanted to "associate myself with the remarks" of McNamara. He said he resented any effort to impugn McNamara's "sincerity of purpose."

McNamara attacked what he called "apparent manipulation of facts" in newspapers.

Referring to Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, he said a "Hagerty curtain" had been erected to keep the public "from the truth in one of the most masterful suppressions of the facts ever put across by the advertising techniques of Madison Avenue."

In criticizing the press, McNamara made several exceptions. He said publisher John S. Knight "has had the courage to publish the truth." Columnist Doris Fleeson, he said, has tried "to skim the whipped cream off the propaganda." And he said James E. Reston of the New York Times has been "forthright" in reporting on the President's sickness and subsequent events. He also praised columnist Drew Pearson and Tom Donnelly, a writer for the Washington Daily News.

"Few Write About It," McNamara said reporters in the Capital have been talking about what he termed Hagerty's "skillful coverup," adding: "but few of them have been writing about it. The only conclusion I can draw is that they are not allowed to."

McNamara said he was sure Mr. Eisenhower "has not been a party to the shotgun medical bulletins and the hucksters' propaganda barrage from Madison Avenue that has been fired at the American public from his bedside."

He contended, however, that for a month Hagerty has given out announcements saying Mr. Eisenhower "is making important decisions" and asked:

"But does any newspaper man point out that those decisions are made—if they actually were made—when the President was still under sedatives, when he could not be making decisions or should not be if he really was?"

At the White House, acting Press Secretary Murray Snyder said McNamara's speech "is unworthy of comment." Hagerty had left in midmorning for Panama City in connection with the President's trip there next weekend.

The President put in two work sessions in his office yesterday and wound up the day with a walk on the White House grounds.

He went to his office at 8:45 a.m. and left for lunch and a nap at 12:23. In the afternoon, he was in his office from 2:15 until 4:20.

HELL'S CANYON

gon, author of the bill, is running for re-election. His Republican opponent is Douglas McKay, former Secretary of the Interior and frequent target of Democratic charges of "give-away."

Both sides cry "steal." Both sides cried "giveaway and steal" in the debate.

Replying to Democratic arguments it would be a "giveaway" to let private interests develop the Snake river gorge, Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep.), Vermont, said the real "giveaway" would come from construction of a federal dam.

"No public benefit would be derived from this steal," Flanders said.

He said it would not only be "a steal" of the taxpayer's dollar, but would mean the loss of 52 per cent of net revenue that private industry would pay in taxes.

Opponents of the federal project argued the main beneficiaries would be big industrial corporations in the northwest. They said such firms would be able to buy federal power at below cost and in effect would be subsidized by taxpayers throughout the country.

On the other side, the argument ran that a federal project would be to the interest of all the people as compared to what backers of the bill termed "exploitation" by private interests.

Senator James E. Murray (Dem.), Montana, was first up in favor of the bill as the Senate met early after a short overnight recess.

The Senate met 14 hours yesterday, recessed at 11:46 last night and went back to work at 9:30 this morning.

Compares Power Output.

Murray, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said the proposed federal project would produce twice as much power as three private utility dams to be built by Idaho Power. The proposed federal dam would have cost an estimated $308,000,000 with related work another $176,000,000. Idaho Power estimates its three dams would cost $133,000,000.

The federal power, Murray said, would sell at one-third the cost of the private power. He said the big project also would provide superior flood control and other benefits.

"The issue here," Murray asserted, "resolves itself into a single question: Shall Congress surrender its prerogatives to an independent agency (the FPC) that is the creature of the Congress?"

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, said the private vs. public power issue "is going to be one of the biggest issues in the next few months and Hell's Canyon will top the list."

"The basic issue in the Hell's Canyon controversy," Mansfield said, "is whether a public resource will be fully developed or whether a part of it will be wasted."

Charge of Smokescreen.

Senator Arthur V. Watkins (Rep.), Utah, opposing the federal dam plan, took the floor to answer Democratic charges that the licensing of the Idaho Power Co. dams added up to a "giveaway" of river resources.

He termed such charges a propaganda smokescreen.

Actually, Watkins said, the proposed federal dam itself "represents a tremendous giveaway of federally financed hydropower, below actual costs of generation and transmission, to large industrial corporations operating in the Pacific Northwest."

Watkins said nearly half of the power sales made by the Bonneville Power Administration, which would handle Hell's Canyon energy, are made to industries, "most of them large industrial users."

Politics a Factor.

Politics figured in yesterday's debate, with Republican Senators denouncing Democratic "give-away" charges as a "baseless, election-year smear attempt" and Democrats accusing the White House of exerting heavy "pressure" against the Hell's Canyon bill.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem.), Washington, contended the FPC decision made a "mockery of the law and of Congress" in licensing the Idaho Power Co. dams. Jackson argued it made a "political decision" after previously finding the federal one-dam plan would be superior to a three-dam plan.

Watkins defended the FPC, saying it acted by unanimous vote "after the most extensive investigation ever."

Watkins contended the three-dam project would do practically everything the high federal dam would do, and at no expense to the federal taxpayers.

He said also the private development would provide power for the Northwest by 1958, several years ahead of deliveries from a single high dam.

Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, accused the Eisenhower Administration of "leaving no stone unturned in its fight to turn over Hell's Canyon—the finest water power site left in our country—to a private utility company for wasteful, partial exploitation."

Challenges White House.

Neuberger said: "I do not believe... the White House will deny that it is using all resources at its disposal to maintain a solid lineup of Republican Senators against the Hell's Canyon bill, whatever may be the best interests or expressed preference of their constituents... concentrating the strongest and most determined pressure of the entire congressional session... If the White House does deny this let them state publicly and authoritatively that every Republican Senator is entirely free to vote his own convictions of the national interests in this case."

He added "the unprecedented White House pressure against the Hell's Canyon bill stands in eloquent contrast to the Administration's inaction, or expressions of mild interest, when such national needs as school construction, foreign trade or the mutual security program are concerned."

Morse said the Eisenhower Administration "has consistently favored and worked for a plan that means permanent waste of Hell's Canyon."

He declared Idaho Power Co. "offers less storage, less flood control, less power, less recreation and imperils fish and wildlife conservation."

"In contrast," Morse said, "the federal project would benefit the entire nation by increasing defense strength and economic health."

"A future defense emergency, which Hell's Canyon power could avert, will be the responsibility of those who oppose the high dam," he said, adding: "Failure to develop the rich phosphate fertilizer resources of Idaho, which Hell's Canyon low-cost power alone would avert, will be the responsibility of those who oppose the high dam."

"In most cases, a bad law can be repealed. But loss of Hell's Canyon, if unreversed by the courts, cannot be repealed and the inadequate company dams will stand for at least 50 years as immovable testimony to partisanship."

"I believe that the voters will repudiate such narrow motivation. But political consequences are not the reckoning to fear. It is the dreadful physical consequences and their impact upon the potentialities of a whole region that are the true images of defeating Hell's Canyon if that is what comes to pass."

"It is history, not mere political fortune, that will inexorably judge those who decide the fate of Hell's Canyon and the Columbia basin."

Welker Attacks High Dam.

Senator Herman Welker (Rep.), Idaho, contended the proposed federal high dam would "drown out" other dam sites and handicap irrigation during low-water years. He contended there are no recreational or fish and wildlife possibilities in Hell's Canyon.

He called the bill a "monstrosity which is opposed by the Governors of the three Pacific Northwest states."

Senator Henry C. Dworshak (Rep.), Idaho, questioned whether irrigation rights of upstream farmers would be protected if a big power reservoir were built at Hell's Canyon.

Wash Day Surprise.

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Mrs. R. C. Haynes got a surprise when she started to iron a pile of freshly-washed clothes. She found two baby possums among the clothes, has no idea how they got there.

HAYES URGES ARBITRATION OF PUBLIC UTILITY STRIKES

The King-Thompson anti-utility-strike law should be amended to eliminate the provision for state seizure of properties and to provide, instead, compulsory arbitration, James P. Hayes, Clayton lawyer and candidate for the Democratic nomination for Missouri Attorney General, said yesterday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Twenty-fifth Ward Democratic Organization at the Forest Park Hotel, he said compulsory arbitration should be required "a set time preceding the expiration of an existing contract, or immediately upon a strike being called by the union, or a lockout by the utility."

"The board of arbitration," he said, "should consist of one representative of labor, one management and a third neutral party, previously appointed by law. A majority vote of the board members would be needed to make binding decisions."

FOR QUICK START

Calls for Bids on Part of Viaduct to Carry Expressway From Third and Locust.

Moving for a quick start on construction of the Mark Twain Expressway, the Missouri Highway Commission today issued a call for bids on part of the viaduct which will carry the expressway from Third and Locust streets to Fourth and O'Fallon.

Estimated cost of this work is $2,100,000. The project includes about six-tenths of a mile of bridge substructure, grading, retaining walls and concrete pavement.

Bids will be opened Aug. 2. Projects originally scheduled for this letting did not include work on the Twin Expressway, but by speeding up the processing the Highway Commission obtained a go-ahead from federal authorities and included this in a supplemental call for bids.

Another project added to the list calls for work at the western end of the expressway in St. Charles. This will include 2.6 miles of grading, bridging and paving between Cole creek and the new bridge across the Missouri river, and half a mile of grading and paving on the Fifth street connection to the expressway in St. Charles.

Demolition of 91 buildings along old Commission Row has just been completed, clearing the way for a start on the first leg of the expressway. The city and St. Louis county pay one-half of the right-of-way expense, and the remainder of the cost is borne by the state and the Federal Government.

Missouri's Highway Commission is one of the first in the country to take advantage of increased federal aid for highway construction voted by Congress.

MURPHY, SMITH ARE INDICTED ON DRIVING CHARGES

Highway 61 one mile east of Missouri Route 21.

At the intersection of U.S. Highway 61 and Missouri Route 21, Mudd said, Murphy's car made a wide sweeping left turn. The St. Louis police officer did not give a signal and failed to make a stop at the intersection, Mudd said.

While driving south on Route 21, Mudd reported, Murphy's car was "completely on the wrong side of the road just south of Baptist Church road in a no-passing zone."

It was shortly after this that Murphy stopped, the patrol report noted.

Released Without Charge.

He was released without charge. Sgt. G. H. Alkire of the patrol said that was "normal procedure under the circumstances." He pointed out that Murphy had been removed from the road as a motorist and two detectives had taken him in custody.

Further, Alkire noted, Murphy was told that the incident would be presented to the Prosecuting Attorney's office for appropriate action.

Murphy, 38 years old, was appointed assistant chief of detectives in March 1953.

He was raised to the rank of major in September 1951 in an appointment that caused surprise within the police department. He has been in the department since 1920.

TWO MEN ADMIT BEATING,
ROBBING BAR ACQUAINTANCE

Two men arrested by University City police have admitted beating and robbing James A. McManus, a steelworker, 738 West Canterbury road, University City, July 14, following a tour of taverns in St. Louis county, police reported today. A third man is being sought by police.

Those under arrest told police they are John Angelo Tucci, a cleaner of the 2900 block of Walton road, St. John, and Leroy Franklin Rowe, a cabinet maker of the 7400 block of Maple avenue, Maplewood. They have been turned over to St. Charles county authorities for prosecution, the beating and robbery having taken place there.

McManus told police he met three men in a tavern in the 7800 block of Olive boulevard, University City. After having several drinks there, he said, the four made a round of other taverns, one of his new acquaintances driving McManus' automobile.

Finally they drove him to an open area near West Alton in St. Charles county where they beat and kicked him, stripped him of most of his clothes, took his money and automobile and fled. McManus said they took nearly $400, but Tucci and Rowe told police it was only about $150.

COUNTY ELECTION OFFICIALS
GET VOTE MACHINE TRAINING

Instruction in the use of the new county voting machines for polling officials began yesterday.

Teams of representatives from the Board of Election Commissioners and the Shoup Voting Machine Co. are conducting 38 training sessions. About 45 persons are in each session.

The board announced it was placing about 50 voting machines in various county locations with heavy pedestrian traffic so that voters could familiarize themselves with the machines before the Aug. 7 primary. A short film for television and movie use also is being used.

STATE TERMINATES SEIZURE OF KANSAS CITY POWER FIRM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 19—State seizure of the Kansas City

Power & Light Co., ordered by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly last July 6 under the King-Thompson Act, was lifted late yesterday. Donnelly said the three unions involved in a dispute with the public utility had entered into an agreement with management on wages and other conditions. He sent telegrams to the company and officers of three local unions of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, formally terminating the state seizure as of yesterday.

NEUTRALIST BIG 3 WIND UP TALKS IN YUGOSLAVIA

Tito, Nasser, Nehru Exchange Views—Decision on Communique to Be Announced.

BRIONI, Yugoslavia, July 19 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia, President Nasser of Egypt and Prime Minister Nehru of India wound up a two-day exchange of views tonight.

A spokesman said a decision would be announced later as to whether there would be a communique on the talks. Earlier, Nehru described the sessions as only a friendly exchange at which no decisions were reached.

We have not settled all the questions of the world," Nehru told newsmen. "I repeat — not."

Tito termed the conference "very, very successful . . . cordial and friendly."

Bound for Cairo. Nehru was flying to Cairo with Nasser tonight.

The meetings were held on Tito's vacation island of Vanga near the Adriatic port. Reporters were barred from the island. There was no indication that a move by Algerian nationalists to draw a statement of support for their rebellion against France had succeeded. An Egyptian source said Nasser was irritated by the appearance of four Algerian leaders on Vanga and did not push the issue.

Algerian spokesmen in Tunis said the nationalists "presented a 10-point program" here, including demands for independence and freedom for all Algerians in jail or exile.

Nehru Reluctant.

An Indian informant said Nehru was cool toward the idea of a stand on Algeria by the three at their Yugoslav meetings. Nehru said in his visit to Paris that the fighting in Algeria must stop, but he added that he thought the French were "earnestly desirous" of bringing peace to Algeria.

Joint Communiques.

A joint communique summing up the week of talks Nasser and Tito held before Nehru's arrival said they had reaffirmed their support of "peaceful and active coexistence and non-attachment to blocs" on either side of the cold war.

The statement said Tito and Nasser also decided to hold joint talks at regular intervals, to begin negotiating Yugoslav-Egyptian economic and cultural agreements and to work together in atomic projects for peaceful purposes.

The communique also emphasized support for resolutions on the Middle East adopted at last year's Bandung conference of African and Asian nations.

The Bandung conference called for carrying out of United Nations resolutions on Palestine, including the return of Arab refugees, revision of borders and internationalization of Jerusalem.

A blanket indictment of colonialism also was contained in the Bandung resolutions.

The Egyptian-Yugoslav communique set forth that Egypt and Yugoslavia plan to work together in atomic-for-peace projects. Since neither nation has more than paper plans in the atomic field, the statement was not regarded as having significance.

The two countries will also exchange information on state and economic planning.

Sincere Friendship.

The communique spoke of the talks being conducted "in an atmosphere of complete mutual confidence and sincere friendship." It said there was a large similarity of views on principal problems of the contemporary world which both countries approach guarded by policies based on principles of peaceful and active coexistence and non-alignment." This was interpreted as emphasizing Nasser's present neutralist position.

Nasser was accompanied to Vanga for yesterday's conference by the entire Egyptian delegation that came with him on his state visit here.

Yugoslavia's Foreign Minister Koca Popovic and Vice Presidents Edvard Kardelj and Alexander Rankovic sat with Tito. Nehru had only a few aids with him.

EDEN, LLOYD TO VISIT PARIS

LONDON, July 19 (UP)—The British Foreign Office announced today that Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will visit Paris in September as guests of the French government.

The announcement said the exact date "is still to be fixed."

Woman Beaten by Beggar.

DETROIT, July 19 (UP)—Mrs. Elvira Pogue, 85 years old, gave a beggar who came to her door two pieces of bread and butter. Mrs. Pogue said the man gobbled the food "like a pig" then forced his way into the house, tied her to a bed and beat her while demanding that she tell him where her money was. She said he left when he found no money.

ILLINOIS ACTS TO REGAIN FUNDS PUT AT $800,000

which insures deposits in banks, has been jeopardized.
Two in Bank Posts.
Douglas pinned his request in part, he said, to the fact that two former FDIC officials had resigned their jobs and taken posts in two banks involved in the inquiry. One is John D.
Russell, former FDIC bank examiner, who is now president of the Elmwood Park State Bank, which was closed and reorganized by Hodge, and the other is Clare T. Ireland, who resigned last Friday as senior examiner in the FDIC's Chicago office to become an executive of the Southmoor Bank & Trust Co., where many of the fraudulent checks were cashed.
Hodge himself was a stockholder in the Elmwood Bank, having had 11,165 shares of its stock held for him by P. Warren Smith of Northfield, Ill., a director of the bank. The bank opened May 28, 1953, after the reorganization, with former Gov. Dwight H. Green as chairman of the board. The Green administration scandal eight years ago involved the purchase of supplies for institutions, road building kickbacks and payoffs to the administration by gamblers.

Reshuffling in Office.
Meanwhile the auditor's office had a quick reshuffling under Lloyd Morey, former president of the University of Illinois, who was appointed Tuesday by Gov. Stratton after Hodge resigned.
Morey "severed all relations" with Epping, who was not on the state payroll but worked for Hodge on a contract basis, and fired Lloyd Lane, payroll account supervisor under Hodge, and Thomas F. Shanahan, custodian of the auditor's warehouse.

Lane and Shanahan, when they appeared before the grand jury, refused to sign immunity waivers and were not permitted to testify. By signing the waivers they would have permitted their testimony to be used against them in a trial on any charges that might be filed.
Morey, who specialized in accounting as an educator, is to serve until January, when an auditor to be elected in November will take office. Hodge had been a candidate for another term, but removed himself from the Republican ticket when he quit his office.

Morey said he had agreed to lecture at the University of Kentucky next week, so "I will not be in my full working stride until the week after that." During his absence, he added, William J. Day, administrative assistant in the office, and Lyman Sorenson, chief bank examiner for the auditor, will assume "general responsibility and supervisory duties."

Bank Officer a Witness.
In Chicago, where a federal grand jury is attempting to determine whether federal banking laws were violated by officials of the Southmoor bank,
Ralph Schlitz, assistant cashier of the bank, was a witness.

Associate United States District Attorney Frank McGarr said he would ask Schlitz about his personal knowledge of the cashing of 26 state checks at the bank by persons other than the ones named as payees. A bank attorney has said that Epping had requested some of them to be cashed.

Coutrakon obtained and then withdrew warrants yesterday charging Epping with embezzling 15 state checks for a total of $180,000. The prosecutor said he dropped the warrants because the checks involved were not found in a raid on Epping's apartment Tuesday night.

Epping, a certified public accountant, is a member of the accounting firm of Illini Investment Associates, which has offices in Springfield and East St.
Louis and did work for the auditor's office. He is reported to have been paid $1000 a month by the firm. Epping formerly lived at O'Fallon, and recently acquired a new home at Lebanon.

After the long session with Hodge yesterday, Coutrakon said the former auditor did not have full knowledge of what went on in his office.

The prosecutor said he did not obtain any promise of a plea of guilty, and made no promises himself. Asked if Hodge was evasive, Coutrakon replied: "He wasn't carefree.
Some things he claimed not to remember."

The prosecutor did not make public any details of what he was told by Hodge, saying the inquiry would lead to other persons and that it would be premature to announce any of Hodge's answers before the questioning was completed.

A prospective witness before the grand jury Monday is William D. Lydon, a Chicago policeman whose drapery firm received huge contracts from Hodge. Lydon was suspended from his police job Tuesday.

The grand jury already has heard testimony by John J.
Casper, caretaker at Hodge's
Springfield Lake home.

POWER FAILS, PRISONERS HOLD NOISY DEMONSTRATION

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19
(AP)—The electrical system at the Missouri penitentiary failed last night and the 2700 convicts —all securely locked in their cells raised such a din nearby residence thought they were rioting, as they did two years ago.

profanities and rattled cell doors this time.
Officials said a cable from the prison's electrical plant shorted about 9 p.m. A few guards were held overtime.
State patrol cars occasionally cruised outside. Two National Guard searchlight crews stood by with lights and generators.

Bonn Postpones Cabinet Shift
 BONN, July 19 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer announced today that a long-expected reshuffle of his Cabinet has been postponed. He said it would be impossible to make the changes before leaving for his summer vacation on Saturday. Government authorities previously had announced that two or three ministerial changes would be made this week.

STATE HAS $2,500,000 MORE THAN YEAR AGO
 Tax Collections Rose $50,000,000—Higher Costs Cut Into Cash Balance.
 JEFFERSON CITY, July 19 (AP)—Missouri had more than $2,500,000 more in its state treasury at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, than it did a year ago, state treasurer G. H. Bates reported yesterday.
 Bates noted that tax collections increased more than $50,000,000 in the year, but he said the cash balance was kept down by increased appropriations and greater governmental costs.
 The June 30 balance this year was $145,946,182, compared with $143,251,361 at the same time a year ago.
 Bates said the July 1 figures show $27,176,551 set aside as state school aid for distribution in September, an increase of $8,695,521 over last year. That boost was the result of legislative action in allocation 37½ per cent of the state's general revenue for school aid, compared with the old one-third formula.
 Despite the increase, the state still fell about $18,000,000 short of fully financing the new "foundation" program for schools in its first year of operation.

METERS RULED OUT IF PARKING IS BARRED
 Opinion Holds Commission Exceeded Its Authority on 12th Boulevard.
 The Parking Meter Commission is without authority to place meters on streets where parking is prohibited, the City Counselor's office said yesterday. The opinion was requested by the Board of Aldermen in order to determine whether there is a conflict between ordinances outlining the commission's powers and the master traffic control ordinance which prohibits parking on certain streets.

SAYS STEVENSON HAS VOTES TO WIN ON SECOND BALLOT
 NEW YORK, July 18—Enough votes to nominate Adlai E. Stevenson for President on the second ballot at the Democratic national convention was claimed yesterday by one of Stevenson's New York supporters. The claim was based on information said to have been compiled by Stevenson's national headquarters in Chicago and distributed to key Democrats on a confidential basis. For this reason the New Yorker asked that his identity be withheld.

The request for the opinion came after traffic officials objected to the placing of meters on Twelfth boulevard between Clark street and Franklin avenue as contrary to the master traffic plan. Standards for the meters have been installed at the commission's direction. The opinion held that the commission's authority to place parking meters was limited to those streets on which the aldermen had placed a time limit on parking and that this authority does not extend to streets on which parking is prohibited. Parking on Twelfth is prohibited from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Saturdays and Sundays by the master traffic control ordinance. There is no conflict between this ordinance and that establishing the commission's powers, the opinion held. It said the commission merely exceeded its powers by directing the installation of meters on a street on which parking is prohibited.

BILL TO INCREASE
COUNTY TAX RATE
18C PROPOSED

84-Cent Levy on $100
Assessed Value of Property Introduced in Council.

A bill setting the 1956 St. Louis county tax rate at 84 cents on each $100 of assessed property valuation, an 18-cent increase over last year's levy, was introduced in the County Council yesterday.

The bill, on which the council will be able to take final action in two weeks, is intended to provide revenue for county-wide purposes and does not include additional local taxes which will be levied by municipal, school and other authorities.

Largest increase in the proposed rate over the 1955 levy is an 11-cent rise for cost of interest and retirement of bonds for public improvements, reflecting the $39,712,000 bond issue approved by voters last year.

General Revenue Rises.
Other increases in the bill are 6 cents in the rate for the county's general revenue fund and 1 cent for maintenance of the health center.

Also introduced yesterday were bills to set a 7-cent tax rate for the state of Missouri and an 18-cent library rate for those county areas which do not have separate municipal libraries. Both rates are the same as those levied last year.

No estimate was made at the meeting of the revenue the 84-cent rate would yield. However, the revenue would be substantially higher than that which an 18-cent increase normally would provide, because property assessments generally were boosted in 1955.

Items in the bill and their portions of the proposed new rate are listed as follows, with last year's levies in parentheses: County general revenue fund, 29 cents (23 cents); road and bridge tax, 21 cents (21); hospital maintenance, 13 cents (13); health center maintenance, 5 cents (4); public improvement bonds, 13 cents (2); park maintenance, 2 cents (2); and bonds for the courthouse and jail, 1 cent (1).

In other action, the council instructed county authorities to offer $200,000 to the city of St. Louis for the acquisition of Tilles Park in Ladue.

This offer, recommended by the County Park Board and the parks subcommittee of the Citizens' Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee, would be for the 53.8-acre park without improvements.

Charles R. Skow, park board secretary, said the annual cost of maintaining Tilles Park would be about $20,000.

He said the board and the citizens' subcommittee were making an inquiry to determine whether the cities of Ladue, Brentwood and Rock Hill could provide these funds.

The council voted to refer to its liaison committee a request by the County Board of Police Commissioners for $20,000 to provide new police radio broadcasting facilities. The liaison committee is to discuss the request with the police board.

The council also voted to co-operate with the Metropolitan St. Louis Survey, a study of city-county problems being conducted by research workers from Washington and St. Louis universities.

A Red Cross certificate of merit was presented at the meeting to Harry Barnfield, an Overland policeman, who used first aid to save the life of 19-year-old Charles J. Incontro, injured in an automobile accident. The presentation was made by James H. J. McNary, councilman from Barnfield's district.

435 NEW CASES OF POLIO
REPORTED IN U.S. IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The states reported 435 new cases of polio last week, the smallest number for the comparable week in six years.

Illinois, with severe localized outbreaks in sections of Chicago, had 104 cases, the only state with more than 100. A Public Health Service spokesman today said Illinois is the only state showing any considerable concentration of cases in specific areas.

Between Jan. 1 and July 14 polio cases totaled 3365 compared with 4676 in the similar 1955 span for the entire country. The Health Service spokesman did not give a credit for the reduction to use of Salk polio vaccine, but said apparently the vaccine was having an effect.

STATE FILES NEW $210,000
SUIT OVER CITY GAS STRIKE

A suit seeking an additional $210,000 in financial penalties against union locals of Laclede Gas Co. employees was filed in circuit court today by the state of Missouri.

The suit asked for the maximum penalty provided in the King-Thompson Act, under which the state seized the utility company July 5 after the employees went on strike. It sought $10,000 a day against each of the three union locals for the period from July 7 through last Friday, final day of the strike.

Earlier, the state had filed petitions asking for $35,000 in penalties against the union, the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, for July 6, the first day the strike continued after state seizure. Of this figure, $10,000 each was asked against five union officials.

The key blades of 70 years ago demanded a soft, rugged, be-mad's whiskey... a Straight Kentucky Bourbon with true barrel flavor and punch. They found it in 90.5 Barrel Whiskey. That demand has continued right down to today, and like their forefathers, he-man drinkers wouldn't trade their 90.5 Barrel Whiskey for all the "fancy brands" in the world. Try it and you'll KNOW why.
THE COOLEST DRINK OF ALL IS A SOUTHERN MINT JULEP. Make It This Way: Fill silver mug or 12 oz. Tom Collins glass with finely shaved ice. Add 2 1/2 oz. 90.5 Barrel Whiskey and stir until glass is heavily frosted. (Do not hold glass with hand while stirring.) Add 1 heaping spoon of sugar and fill with water, and stir. Decorate with 5 or 6 sprigs of fresh mint so that the tops are about 2 inches above rim of mug or glass. Use short straws so that the mint is intended to bury nose in mint. The mint is intended for odor rather than taste.

Secret German Group Warns It Will Fight to Drive Out U.S.

Letters to Conant, American Commander
Assail Foreign Control, Call
Adenauer 'Lackey.'

BONN, July 19 (AP)—A mysterious German undercover group warned United States Ambassador James B. Conant today it is prepared to fight to rid Germany of foreign troops.

The "Fighting Association for an Independent Germany" sent Conant a letter declaring: "We will no longer bear the further presence of foreign troops on our holy soil." It assailed what it called control of German policies by "Jewish money and foreign lords."

Chancellor Adenauer's government, it said, "plays the role of a willing lackey and a spineless dog which thankfully licks the hands of those who have beaten him."

The letter, printed in German, said the organization "will take over leadership in the fight for great German interests."

It claimed the group has the strength to "carry this fight through to a victorious end."

It told Conant: "In the spreading of our thought, you must and can help us. We turn to you for help which will be granted."

General Also Gets Letter. Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, the top American military official in Bonn, received a similar though differently worded letter. His was in English and identical to letters sent recently to other American generals and colonels declaring that United States forces must pull out of Germany.

United States authorities said American intelligence and the West German Secret Service are pressing for an investigation. It is not yet clear whether the undercover organization is a group of cranks or Communists or a well-organized political movement.

Meanwhile the order that all United States enlisted men must be in their quarters at midnight faced its first real test tonight. The order was revived yesterday in an effort to curb deterioration of relations between G.I.s and the German people. No arrests were made last night; military police merely herded violators back to quarters.

Germans Complain. Germans complain that Americans are raping, killing and robbing more Germans now than at any time since the end of World War II. At Bamberg, the city council demanded the withdrawal of American troops after the reported rape last week of a 15-year-old girl. The Bavarian cabinet ordered special police protection for Munich citizens in the wake of what was called a G.I. crime wave. German newspapers have splashed reports of G.I. incidents involving Germans on front pages and demanded in editorials that the soldiers go home.

An English-language editorial today on the front page of Hamburg's Bild Zeitung—circulation 2,500,000—praised Americans for the Berlin airlift and other "evidences of your friendship," but it said recent incidents have done little to promote this friendship.

"Now, fellows," the paper concluded, "we've got to work together to remove all this business that will undermine our friendship. We've got to have a meeting of the minds."

Families of G.I.s Get Letters From German Extremists. WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—United States military and diplomatic officials—and now the families of United States soldiers serving in West Germany—are being bombarded with letters demanding that United States troops be withdrawn from German territory.

Letters have been received, it was learned today, by a number of G.I. families in Pennsylvania and possibly other states. They are signed "Fight-will deal with this unbearable state of affairs."

The writers threatened "to break our chains," and went on:

"We are announcing this to you in the name of the German nation, so that even violent acts of our movement in case they will have to happen, will happen with your knowledge and consent. You are responsible for the action of your Government!"

"Americans, leave Germany as long as it is still possible!" First indications are that the organization is of an extremist nature, the State Department said, and is composed of "only a handful of men."

REDS FREE CLEMENTIS AID

VIENNA, July 19 (AP)—Reports from Prague last night said Czechoslovak Communist authorities have released Vavro Hajdu, aid of the purged late Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis.

Hajdu, a deputy foreign minister, was sentenced to life in prison for treason and espionage.

MISSIONARIES SEEN AS THREAT TO INDIA

Inquiry Group in One State Demands That Influx Be Halted.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

NEW DELHI, July 19—An official inquiry committee appointed by one of the Indian states has denounced foreign Christian missionary activity as a threat to the security of the country.

The investigation group, appointed by the state of Madhya Pradesh in central India, has demanded that "the large influx" of foreign missionaries to India should be halted. The report recommends that property held by foreign mission groups in India should be transferred to Indian Christian churches or turned over to international groups. It asks that the right of propagation be given only to Indian citizens.

In New Delhi, a spokesman for the Ministry of Home Affairs emphasized that the report just published was ordered by the state of Madhya Pradesh and not by the central government.

Government authorities here point out that since Indian independence in 1947 the number of missionaries in the country has doubled. There are now about 4,000 foreign missionaries in the country. Government policy is to discourage the entry of missionaries who come principally for evangelical work, but to welcome those who have special training in medicine, education and other fields. The government also wants foreign missionaries to be replaced whenever possible by Indian Christians.

Madhya Pradesh is one of the strongholds of Hindu orthodoxy in this country and an investigation was ordered, state officials say, after they had received many complaints against the activities of foreign missionaries.

A six-man inquiry group centered its attack on the "proselytization" activities of foreign missionaries. It said that "evangelization in India appears to be part of the uniform world policy to revive Christendom for re-establishing Western supremacy and is not prompted by spiritual motives."

There are about 8,200,000 Christians in India, or about 2.3 per cent of the total population.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO WHILE CROSSING ROAD

Mrs. Theodore Southard Is Run Over in Accident Near Fairmont City.

Mrs. Theodore T. Southard, 3049 North Sixty-first street, Fairmont City, was killed today when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed Collinsville road near Sixty-first street, near Fairmont City.

Illinois state police reported Mrs. Southard, 42 years old, apparently was crossing the road to wait for friends who take her to work at Emerson Electric Co. in East St. Louis.

Drive of the car, John J. Hanley, a jockey, told state police he had just driven away from the U.S. 40 Motel at 6016 Collinsville, where he lives, and was going east in Collinsville when he felt the machine roll over something. He said he did not see Mrs. Southard.

A passenger in the car, William E. Walsh, also a jockey who lives at the motel, said vision was impaired by condensation which had formed on the inside of the windshield during the night. He said he was wiping the windshield and Hanley was lowering the window on his side when they felt the car roll over something.

Both sets of wheels passed over Mrs. Southard, who was found lying 21 feet east of the intersection, state police said. She was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Joseph F. Toms, 123A Delaware avenue, Belleville, was killed early today in an accident on Illinois Route 158, two miles southwest of Millstadt.

State police said Toms' machine ran off the highway as he was returning from an outing given by the insurance firm for which he was a claim investigator. The car of a fellow employee who was following Toms, Richard V. Lewis, 416 Betty drive, Belleville, also ran off the highway at about the same place, police said.

Police could not determine whether Toms suffered head, chest and leg injuries as a result of being struck by a car after getting out of his machine or by the impact caused when his car ran off the road. Lewis was held under $5000 bond on a warrant charging reckless homicide while an investigation is made.

HADLEY SCHOOL TYPEWRITER AND ADDING MACHINE STOLEN

Theft of an electric adding machine and typewriter valued at $402 from the principal's office at Hadley Technical High School, 3495 Bell avenue, was reported yesterday.

Police said thieves apparently hid in an adjoining office on the second floor until after the building closed at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and then broke into the principal's office.

RUSH TOWARD ADJOURNMENT SNAGS ALIEN PROPERTY BILL

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Legislation to return German and Japanese property seized in the United States in World War II has become snagged by the congressional rush toward adjournment.

Even proponents of the bill, which would permit return of all assets of former enemy nationals, said yesterday there is no chance of passage before the end of the session. It could be introduced again in the new Congress next January and testimony taken now could be considered then.

BONN REJECTS RED PLAN FOR GERMAN UNITY

Government and Opposition Oppose Program of Russians and East Germans.

BONN, July 19 — The Government and the opposition agreed yesterday that they cannot accept the procedures laid down by the Soviet Government and the Soviet Zone regime for the reunification of Germany.

In a communique issued Tuesday in Moscow the Soviet and East German leaders insisted once again that reunification can only be brought about through bilateral discussions between the governments of the West German Federal Republic and the Soviet Zone German Democratic Republic.

The position taken yesterday by the Social Democratic party, and endorsed later by a government spokesman, was that this demand was unacceptable. The Social Democrats said the key to reunification was not in East Berlin but in negotiations between the four great powers.

The Soviet Government must clearly understand, the Social Democrats said, that they as well as the West German government insist that free all-German elections alone can provide an acceptable basis for reunification. These elections must produce a constituent assembly that should be free to prepare a constitution for the reunited German state.

The Social Democrats recalled that their seventh party Congress had taken a decision last week in Munich to oppose and reject any political discussions between Bonn and Pankow. The party was standing on that decision but they added the Adenauer government should also take a realistic view of the situation and prepare its own set of proposals on reunification and, in concert with the Western Allies, discuss reunification with the fourth power, the Soviet Union.

Despite their firm stand on the reunification issue government and opposition spokesmen failed to react with their customary vigor to the economic and military provisions in the agreement between the Soviet and East German governments. The only reaction was that the agreement confirmed the poor condition of the economy in the Soviet Zone.

HOUSE COMMITTEE KILLS PLAYFUL BID FOR TAX RELIEF

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The usually-sedate House Ways and Means Committee marched up the hill and down again yesterday in a playful test of sentiment for tax relief. Finally it killed a general tax reduction bill, 13 to 12.

The tax-writing committee met behind closed doors to consider a bill to permit employers to deduct contributions to the railroad retirement system from their taxable income. One amendment after another was proposed and approved until the measure, like a Christmas tree, had something on it for everybody.

A group of junior Democratic members, frequently aided by Republicans, were having what one of them later called "a little fun." When all the amendments were in, the bill provided for tax deductions up to $1000 on contributions to any retirement plan, public or private, including social security. If enacted, it would cost the Government more than one billion dollars in annual revenues.

Its defeat was brought about by a coalition of senior Democrats and Republicans. Members said opposing votes were cast by all of the 10 Republicans and three of the four Democrats of highest seniority. The Democrats were identified as Chairman Jere Cooper of Tennessee, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Frank J. Forand of Rhode Island.

DEADLINE FOR SOIL BANK EXTENDED THROUGH JULY 27

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — The Agriculture Department yesterday extended through July 27 the deadline for farmers to sign agreements putting their lands in the soil bank acreage reserve this year. The deadline had been July 20.

The department also gave farmers additional time to plow under or cut crops on land which they agreed to retire from production under the soil-bank agreements.

Final dates for bringing land into compliance with the agreements are set by state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees. Heretofore, those final dates could range between July 16 and July 27. Under yesterday's action they may range between July 31 and Aug. 3.

Gruenther Opposed to Slash In NATO Forces, in Variance With View Voiced by Dulles

SHAPE Commander Thinks Cut Below Minimum Would Serve as Invitation to Russia—Wants West Germans to Form Army.

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS

THE WESTERN TREND toward a reduction of ground forces, which was remarked by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington yesterday, is running counter to the views of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe.

The Paris high command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been put on record by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, its supreme commander, as opposing any cut in the ground force shield currently guarding western Europe.

Gruenther and his SHAPE advisers, including United States Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad, who is due to succeed to the supreme command before the end of the year, are said by their aids to have reached the decision after evaluating the development of nuclear weapons.

British Debate Near.
It was Dulles' opinion that the development of thermonuclear arms made consideration of manpower reductions more or less inevitable. The British Parliament, with particular attention to the immense cost of nuclear research, also is about to debate the question.

Dulles discussed at his news conference the possibility of the Federal German Republic contributing to the North Atlantic Alliance something less than the 12 divisions that it is presently committed to furnish.

Gruenther has said that even with the 12 German divisions, NATO would have no more than an "adequate minimum," instead of the "desirable maximum" on which to count in an emergency.

Invitation to Reds.
Manpower reductions below the "adequate minimum" can constitute an invitation to the Soviet Union to move into an unguarded western area SHAPE thinks.

In that event, SHAPE officers point out, the Atlantic Alliance would be forced to decide whether the area lost was worth regaining at the cost of dropping a mass-destruction weapon. If nuclear weapons were not employed, the area certainly would be lost. If used, the weapon would be falling on friendly territory.

SHAPE authorities also say

PEARSON Big Utilities Teamed Up on Hell's Canyon

$1,000,000 Spent on Ads to Urge Defeat of Federal Dam.

By DREW PEARSON

THE weighty prestige of elder statesman George of Georgia was thrown into the fight over Hell's Canyon against his old friends, the Georgia Power Co. and other utilities.

George, who retires from the Senate this year, made the proposed big federal dam on the Snake river the last senatorial battle of his career. He told desiring Democratic colleagues how important it was for them to vote solidly against the private utilities.

Senator Lyndon Johnson also threw his persuasive charm into full gear and talked to each desiring Democrat—twice.

Among the arguments George and Johnson used is the fact that the Eisenhower Administration is not against federal power in principle, but only against federal power when it comes to the good dam sites; and for federal power when it comes to the poor dam sites. Or, as Senator Neuberger of Oregon put it: "It would give the cream to the private utilities, the skimmed milk to the Government."

Utilities Team Up.

What Senators George and Johnson faced, however, was the fact that practically every big utility in the United States is teamed up with the Idaho Power Co. to defeat federal development of Hell's Canyon. When Senators who live in the Midwest or the South went home recently, they found representatives of local power companies waiting to buttonhole them at the airport or railroad station.

Approximately $1,000,000 was spent by the private utilities in leading magazines for advertisements opposing the big federal dam at Hell's Canyon. The cost of the last series of ads, published in May, was estimated at around $300,000. This cost, of course, came out of the rates paid by electricity users throughout the country.

The utility lobby even took a junket of newsmen to the Pacific Northwest earlier this year for a look at Hell's Canyon. Airplane travel was free; liquor was lavish.

Bridge That 'Doesn't' Exist.
Flying over the famous canyon, newsmen saw a bridge down below and asked about it. "That's built to carry materials across the Snake river," explained a power company official, "but as far as we're concerned it doesn't exist."

What he meant was that the Eisenhower Administration was so anxious to help speed up construction of the Idaho Power Co.'s small dam at Hell's Canyon before Congress could act, it let Idaho Power build a bridge without the OK of the Chief of Army Engineers and the Secretary of the Army—which is a criminal offense.

On Jan. 3 of this year, Idaho Power filed for permission to build the bridge. Under the law, three weeks are required for any opposition to file protests, but on Jan. 9, six days later, the power company went ahead with its bridge without a license.

When Senator Morse of Oregon wrote the Justice Department March 10, pointing out that this was subject to criminal prosecution, he did not receive a reply for two months. Those two months the bridge was completed.

Reply by Warren Olney.
Finally, on May 8, Morse received a reply from Warren Olney, chief of the Justice Department's criminal division, saying:

"As your letter states, the commencement of construction of this bridge without prior approval of the plans by the Chief of Engineers and Secretary of the Army is a violation of 33 USC 401 for which criminal sanctions are provided."

Olney went on to point out, however, that another section of the law which he quite frankly admitted was "somewhat unusual," provides that "it shall be the duty of District Attorneys of the United States to vigorously prosecute all offenders whenever requested to do so by the Secretary of the Army."

Since Secretary of the Army Brucker, a part of Charlie Wilson's Pentagon team, would not request prosecution, Olney said he could not prosecute.

NEW U.S. ENVOY AT WORK ON PHILIPPINE PROBLEMS

MANILA, July 19 (UP)—United States Ambassador Albert F. Nufier and Vice President Carlos P. Garcia of the Philippines today expressed "mutual interest in ironing out pending issues" between their countries.

Nufier paid a courtesy call on Garcia, concurrently foreign secretary, at the Foreign Office today. The new United States ambassador arrived here yesterday.

Both officials declined to elaborate on their joint statement but it was generally understood that the United States-Philippine controversy over United States military bases here had top priority on the envoy's list of activities. Nufier was expected to open talks with officials here shortly on changes in the bases treaty.

RADCLIFFE HOLDS FIRST TALK WITH A GREEK CYPRIOT

NICOSIA, Cyprus, July 19 (AP)—British Lord Radcliffe called on Nicosia's nationalist mayor today. It was the first time the expert sent out to write a new constitution for Cyprus had conferred with a Greek Cypriot leader since he arrived here six days ago.

Radcliffe went to Nicosia's municipal offices for talks with Mayor Themistocles Dervis. The city official is spokesman for other Greek Cypriot mayors on the island and a member of the inner cabinet of the Greek Ethnarchy Council, chief organization of the dominant Greek Orthodox church.

Radcliffe, a legal expert, was named by the British government to lead a commission to draft a "liberal constitution" for this island colony. Greek Cypriot leaders who are demanding self-government union with Greece, are boycotting political discussions with the visitor, contending exiled Orthodox Archbishop Makarios is the only one who can represent them in negotiations on the island's future.

Dervis announced in advance of his 35-minute session with Radcliffe that he would discuss only municipal administration.

STASSEN BACKERS ASSURED OF RIGHTS BY WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—A group of supporters of Harold E. Stassen for Vice President on the Republican ticket got White House assurance yesterday they "have every right to support whomever you wish."

H. Brooks Baker, chairman of an organization called "Young Americans for Eisenhower First and Stassen Second," had telegraphed a protest to President Eisenhower.

This message said members of the organization in Connecticut had been "threatened with expulsion from all present or future positions in the Republican party if they continued to support Harold E. Stassen for Vice President."

Howard Pyle, deputy assistant to the President, replied: "You can be certain the President has no knowledge of the threats to which you refer, nor would he approve of such tactics."

"He feels very strongly that as young Americans you have every right to support whomever you wish for President or Vice President."

E. GERMAN REDS ADMIT WORKERS DENOUNCE UNIONS

BERLIN, July 19 (UP)—Resistive East German workers are denouncing Communist trade unions as stooges for management and the government, the East German Communists admitted today.

The workers were said to be demanding that union leaders fight for a higher standard of living and better working conditions.

The new disclosure of worker discontent came in Das Gewerkschafts Aktiv, the Communist union magazine published for factory trade union officials.

East German workers have increased demands for higher pay, more food, better housing and transport in the wake of the Polish workers' revolt in Poznan last month.

Workers' protests have forced the government to back down and call off an industrial speed-up calling for more work at less pay.

FLEESON One Senator Blocks Clean Elections Bill

Goldwater Proposal on Barring Union Spending Stalls Measure.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, July 19. EIGHTY-FIVE Senators sponsored the clean elections bill in the wake of the natural gas lobby scandals and one is keeping it from reaching the floor.

Senator Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona is adamant in his determination to attach to the bill various prohibitions and restrictions on political spending by labor unions. Since the dead-broke Democrats depend on the unions to help them come within shouting distance of the well-endowed opposition, they feel they dare not risk letting the bill reach the floor.

When Goldwater gave notice of his intentions to the Senate, Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson went into a huddle with Minority Leader William F. Knowland.

Johnson told Knowland that he had no intention of snarling up adjournment with a fight forcing Senators to take what would be interpreted as pro-labor or anti-labor positions. Johnson conceded that, on a rollcall regarding union spending for political campaigns, Goldwater might win.

Cites Goldwater Views.

But Johnson reminded Knowland that Goldwater's extreme views on labor had already got him into conflict with the Eisenhower Administration.

Speaking as chairman of the Senate Republican Committee, Goldwater last winter used a G.O.P. campaign forum here to attack union political activity. He was promptly challenged by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, who said that the Administration did not share his views.

Johnson, therefore argued that since the clean elections bill was designed to help all members of Congress and clear them from any imputation of shady practice, Knowland ought to call off Goldwater and let the bill pass. The clockroom understanding is that Knowland tried but failed to do this.

Union experts, meanwhile, have studied the Goldwater proposals. They have warned friendly members of both

Minor Revolt in State Department Over Policy on Egypt, Mideast

Diplomats in Field Disagree With Washington 'Cold Shoulder' Tactics—Byroade Shift a Result.

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS

THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE has had a minor revolt arising out of disagreement between Washington and diplomats in the field over policy in the Middle East, especially in Egypt, according to diplomatic circles here.

This is the real background, it was reported, for the recent shift of United States Ambassador Henry A. Byroade from Egypt to the Union of South Africa, which has brought about a general United States diplomatic reshuffle in the area.

Byroade and a number of other key officials in the area are said to think the United States is taking a dangerous course in its decision to cold shoulder Egypt, for the present at least, just as it is decisively turning to the West rather than to Russia for help in building the high dam at Aswan.

$70,000,000 Offer.
The United States and Great Britain last December offered the Egyptians a total of $70,000,000—$50,000,000 from the United States and $20,000,000 from Britain—for preliminary work on the dam.

Suspicion of Egypt's recent activities, including its arms deal with the Soviet bloc, has caused Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to reconsider the offer.

Also, in some State Department circles the Soviet offer to build the dam is regarded as a bluff.

Byroade has consistently reported that whatever the irritations provided by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, he is sincerely anti-Communist in his domestic policies. He is viewed by the Arabs as a symbol of the Middle East's attempts to catch up economically with the Twentieth Century.

However logically Americans may be able to justify hesitations on the Aswan dam deal, it will, in the opinion of Byroade and other key American observers in the area, be taken as another case of America going back on its promises to the Arabs. If the United States withdrew from the Aswan dam project, it could worsen America's relations with the entire Arab world, Byroade has argued.

Tense Atmosphere.
The psychological atmosphere in the Middle East is particularly tense because America is largely blamed for the fact that Byroade is being replaced by an old Middle East hand and a State Department official well-stepped in the headquarters view, Raymond Arthur Hare, now director general of the Foreign Service.

As part of the reshuffle, George Allen, assistant secretary of Near East, South Asian and African Affairs, who is also well-versed in Washington viewpoints, is being sent to Athens. He is relieving Cavendish Cannon, who got in trouble with the British when he spoke of the Greek independence movement on Cyprus in terms that were construed as being pro-Greek.

Navy's Adm. Stump to Absorb Far East Command of Army

By ANTHONY LEVIERO

WASHINGTON, July 19. THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT announced last night that the Far East Command with headquarters in Tokyo will be abolished next year. The area, except Korea, will be transferred from Army to Navy jurisdiction.

The United Nations Command headquarters will be transferred from Tokyo to South Korea. It will remain under Army control, but will get its supply support from the Navy.

Less important changes in Europe, the Caribbean, North America and Alaska are being made. The Pentagon said, to provide more flexible command arrangements and economy of forces and to end divided responsibilities.

One effect of the change in the Pacific will increase the authority of Adm. Felix B. Stump, Pacific commander in chief, who will absorb the Far East Command, with headquarters in Hawaii.

Another effect is to downgrade the office of Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, commanding general of the Far East Command and of the United Nations Command. It was understood that the Army will transfer Gen. Lemnitzer, regarded as one of the most brilliant leaders, to a top command elsewhere.

No Change in Deployment.
"No major changes in the deployment of United States armed forces in this area are contemplated as the result of this action," the announcement said of the Pacific changes.

It was assumed, however, that some reduction in Army forces in the Far East would occur near if forecast cuts in military manpower are made.

The United Press reported military authorities said the move may encourage Japan to speed up its lagging rearmament efforts. The United States is pressing for a Japanese ground force of 350,000 men and 10 divisions. Japanese military leaders favor 180,000.

The United States and Japan agreed in diplomatic talks here last August that Japan would assume the main responsibility for its home defense as soon as possible. They also agreed to a "progressive withdrawal" of United States ground forces as Japanese capabilities increased.

Other Changes.
The other changes announced were:

1. The responsibilities of the United States Commander in Chief, Europe, "will be substantially unchanged." Some administrative functions of the United States Air Force, Europe, were placed under the Army commander on July 1.

2. The United States North-east Command, embracing Newfoundland and Labrador, will be "disestablished" on Sept. 1 and air defense responsibility will be placed under Gen. Earle F. Partridge, commander in chief of the Continental Air Defense Command.

3. The air defense responsibility for Alaska will be transferred from the commander in chief, Alaska, to the Continental Air Defense Command.

4. The commander in chief, Caribbean, will have enlarged responsibilities to include Cen-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

How to Like Ike

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The American people love and admire President Eisenhower as a great general, a sincere and dedicated devotee of peace and a believer, at least, in liberal and progressive legislation.

Four years ago many of us voted for Eisenhower feeling that he would be a strong and effective President who would mold the floundering and inept Republican party into his own image. We believed that his fair-mindedness and tremendous prestige would bring statesmen and progressive-minded men of the party into the forefront and bring the aims of the Republican party into line with the needs of the vast majority of the people.

We know now that we were wrong, terribly wrong, and naive to an unfortunate degree in believing such a thing to be possible. Instead the reverse has occurred: Eisenhower has been anything but a strong and effective President. Even before his heart attack, we had been repeatedly disillusioned with his lack of leadership.

The President never inspired or led the forces who tried to support him. He allowed McCarthy to bring the Executive branch into quivering numbness in the nauseating Zwickler incident and all that followed. His own appointees, such as Herbert Brownell, aped McCarthy's methods for political gain, and of course, the Vice President many times borrowed the same tar brush.

The President blindly approved the infamous Dixon-Yates deal which his Attorney-General now reveals was illegal. His appointees became involved in scandals and some of the corruption he was elected to root out. His lieutenants regularly flouted his authority and made decisions which he seemed to know nothing about.

The American people began to wonder why their Chief Executive was so often ignorant of the news of the day. It began to seem that he knew only what his close advisers wanted him to know. The disastrous results of such administration are clearly seen in Dixon-Yates.

A strong and effective President, molding the party into his image? The image has long since been obscured, if not disintegrated. It has reached the point where Ike is wanted by the Republican party only because they feel that without him they will crumble.

This brings us to the "health issue." The crassness and lack of humanity on the part of Leonard Hall, Sherman Adams, and all of the costal riders is something I hope never to see repeated in my lifetime. The facts of medical science being what they are, it is clear that the life of Mr. Eisenhower is being put on the block as the price of a Republican election victory in November.

Everybody "likes Ike"—all the Republican Congressmen who consistently vote against him and who don't stand a chance of re-election without a Republican sweep are repeating the shibboleths about the President's state of health as they drive toward the month of November. If he is re-elected they will continue to obstruct his program.

I like Ike also, so much, in fact, that I will not contribute my vote to this being sacrificed for the benefit of the self-seekers within the Republican party.

The FCC Opens Its Eyes

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Federal Communications Commission is to be commended and congratulated and urged to keep up the good work. In the floods of lotteries that ride the air waves it has discovered a lottery—a bold, bad scheme called "Play Market."

Now that the game has run a course in many cities to the disappointment of some promoters, the FCC rises up in official indignation and stops the thing.

The discovery of this lottery ought to encourage the FCC. By opening its eyes and looking about it may find other infractions going on.

Help Wanted

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I see by the papers that the St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners has been running a two-column box ad: "Wanted. Republicans to serve at the polls as judges and clerks" at the Aug. 7 primary election. Ye gods! Are Republicans that scarce in St. Louis? ART LARUE.

By Every Peaceful Means

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

On this coming Sunday occurs the 500th anniversary of the day that the heroic Hungarian troops under the general leadership of John Hunyadi defeated the fanatic Turks who were planning to march against Western Europe. Hungary's victory in defending the Western civilization is to this day commemorated by the tolling of bells at noon in churches all over the world.

Since then Hungary fought three times against another enemy, the pagan Russian Bolsheviks and is now a victim of its might. Free Americans of Hungarian origin appeal to the American people and feel that it is the moral obligation of the Western world by every peaceful means to help the Hungarian nation to restore again her political freedom and independence.

Watch Every Move!

Through the Auditor of Public Accounts, the people of Illinois exercise controls over the expenditures of State money, over the accuracy of the financial records of State agencies, the inventory of State property, and the supervision of State-chartered financial institutions holding deposits of private funds.

Orville E. Hodge in Illinois Blue Book, page 487.

The author of these words has answered "all questions" put to him in the investigation of the scandals involving about $800,000 in Illinois public funds. So says the State's Attorney of Sangamon County, George P. Coutrakon.

But even if Orville E. Hodge of Granite City has answered "all questions" this does not necessarily mean that all is going as it should in the clean-up of the scandal-ridden State Republican Administration at Springfield.

Dr. Lloyd Morey, president emeritus of the University of Illinois and an expert accountant, has been sworn in as interim State Auditor to restore confidence in an office that Hodge had to give up when it became clear that Gov. Stratton and his 1956 running mates could not ride out the mounting storm.

But the presence in the Auditor's office of a man so scrupulously honest as Dr. Morey does not mean that Illinois taxpayers have nothing further to worry about with respect to the important office for which Mr. Hodge had been renominated only last April as a key member of "the Stratton team."

Actually the reports of "complete co-operation" and the pledges of "full restitution" ought to put the people of Illinois additionally on guard. Just how can a state official get himself into a jam of more than a half million dollars and then blithely promise to make everything good, presto, as if he had a magic wand?

And how can Gov. Stratton and Attorney General Latham Castle expect the people of Illinois to regard them as knights in shining armor, directing a thorough clean-up, when they took up the scandals publicly at such a late hour?

Did Gov. Stratton and his running mates not know that they slated for re-election a State Auditor who owned four automobiles, two airplanes and a yacht?

Did they not know that Mr. Hodge had not only a large home in Granite City, but also a lavish estate on Lake Springfield and a large apartment hotel in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to which he sent guests for visits "on the house"?

Did they not know that he maintained suites at hotels in Springfield and Chicago and that for a period of 40 months his accommodations at Chicago's Drake Hotel cost an estimated $25,000?

But assume that Gov. Stratton and his colleagues on the Republican ticket were alert enough to know these facts about Orville E. Hodge. Then did the question not enter their minds as to whether a man who lived on such a lavish, spendthrift scale was the man to continue in the office of State Auditor for the next four years?

The conclusion is inescapable that not until the scandals broke upon the public did Stratton, Castle & Co., entertain even the slightest doubt as to the propriety of running Orville E. Hodge on the same ticket with President Eisenhower next November.

The people of Illinois will make no mistake if they keep the sharpest eye possible on all officials at Springfield, in Chicago and anywhere else who are engaged in getting at the facts about this far-reaching set of scandals.

Let the people of Illinois be on guard against attempted cover-ups of whatever kind or size. Let them be vigilant as to the possibility of long-term political deals.

The stakes are mighty big in the Illinois scandals. They are far bigger than the $800,000 that has come to light. The stakes include the possible defeat of every member of the "Stratton team" running for re-election.

In a situation so desperate almost anything might be attempted.

Senator Knowland of the U.N.

There is a flash of the incongruous in the President's appointment of Senator Knowland to membership in our delegation to the United Nations. The California Republican, a frequent critic of the Administration on foreign policy, now becomes a part of the apparatus by which that policy is expressed. What is more, the appointment makes him our spokesman in the very organization he once urged we quit if Red China ever were admitted.

That was back in 1953, of course, just after the great victory of the previous November. Both wings of the G.O.P., especially Mr. Knowland's, were flexing their muscles. But this is 1956 and another election is just around the corner. The party is closing ranks. The irreconcilable is being reconciled. The Senator from Formosa has a new assignment.

The Fading of the Circus

Don't kids like circuses any longer? It used to be maintained that as long as there were children, and cherished vestiges of childhood in their elders, there would be circuses. Yet Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey, "The Greatest Show on Earth," and last big circus going, has just called off its 1956 tour.

John Ringling North, its head, says there will be an eighty-seventh edition next year, but it will play in arenas around the country instead of under the big top, and in other ways also it won't be the same old circus. Twenty-five other lesser circuses have faded out in the past 16 years.

Saddest of all is the comment of an 8-year-old at Ringling Bros.' last appearance in Madison Square Garden this year, as reported by Newsweek. "Daddy," he complained to his father, "this isn't fun." What's the matter? Has the circus grown up too much for the kids? Or have the kids grown up too much for themselves?

Maybe, if tomorrow's youngster is to know at all what magic there was, an old graybeard will have to take him on a knobby knee, and tell him. But will he ever believe it? No, for it will sound like make-believe. But that is the cold, objective fact about the circus: that it was make-believe.

The long trains slithering in before daylight. The big top going up. The parade through town with the band playing marches, the callopoes piping, the huge elephants and cartwheeling clowns, all the red and gold and glitter and clatter. The menagerie which brought the wild animals of the jungle close up. The dizzy height of the big tent, the packed crowds, the spangles and tights and lemons, the many rings all going on at once, the ringmasters with their riding habits and whips and their wonderful flamboyant language, the trapeze artists who defied height, gravity and common sense, the graceful bareback riders.

And in between circuses, yesterday's youngster would read "Toby Tyler," and dream of being part of a circus himself some day. We hope that the day of the circus is not over, and that the kids of many more years to come will know that world of tanbark and tinseled which has meant so much to so many youngsters before them.

A Social Security Gain

The social security bill which passed the Senate over Administration opposition Tuesday registers a notable advance in the development of social insurance. As distinct from previous bills which merely extended the principle of contributory retirement benefits to more persons, this one introduced a new idea—the principle of paying benefits to insured persons who become totally disabled before they reach retirement age.

If the idea is new in legislation, it is not so in discussion. An advisory committee to the Senate and the Social Security Administration proposed it as long ago as 1938. The Social Security Board recommended its adoption in 1941. A second advisory committee, in 1948, voted 15 to 2 in favor of it. The House passed the bill last year and it has been subjected to exhaustive discussion in committee.

The Eisenhower Administration opposed disability insurance primarily on the ground that the lack of experience on a national scale made it difficult to forecast costs precisely. Welfare Secretary Folsom also questioned the wisdom of increasing social security taxes at this time, and suggested that abuses of the system might develop because of difficulties in making a precise medical determination of disability.

Secretary Folsom had a point. The Senate might have been wise, indeed, to start out a little less ambitiously by making disability benefits available at age 55 or 60 instead of 50, so that experience on costs could be gained in a limited area.

On the whole, however, the sponsors of the legislation made convincing replies to Secretary Folsom's objections. It was pointed out that government determination of disability is already being made in hundreds of thousands of cases, under veterans', railroad and civil service pension legislation.

There is some real doubt that the tax increase imposed by the Senate bill will meet the full ultimate cost of both disability insurance and a lower retirement age for women, another feature of the bill. The actuary for the Social Security Board estimated the cost of disability benefits in the early years at one-sixth of one per cent of the covered payroll. The Senate bill increases taxes a total of one-half of one per cent.

This would indicate sufficient margin to finance the program at least for enough time to accumulate cost experience.

For these reasons it is difficult to see how President Eisenhower could sustain a veto of the bill, even though he opposed it earlier. Although disability insurance is undeniably a Democratic measure—Republicans opposed it 38 to 6, while Democrats voted favorably 44 to 7—the crucial fight for it was led by Senator George of Georgia, whose impending retirement absolves him of political motives. The wise course for the Eisenhower Administration now is to accept the bill and make it work despite earlier misgivings.

Day of the Jinnee

Shades of the seductive Scheherazade and all other master-tellers of those bizarre and scintillating tales of the fabulous East! A dispatch from India brings memories of those old stories that began something like: "There was once a kindly and handsome young prince whose wicked uncle betrayed him."

This new version from India concerns 14 princes of the former state of Patiala who have been thrown out of the great palace that was their childhood home and are now encamped in ragged tents near the gates. Their bearded royal brother, the Maharaja Yadavindra Singh Mahendra Bahadur, who is the state's rajpramukh, or governor, evicted them, they allege, because he fell under the "excessive influence" of his wife who disliked them one and all.

And what are they doing as they sit in their tattered garments beneath their ragged tents by the majestic gate that bars them from the palace? Are they looking for some friendly slave of Aladdin's enchanted lamp, some Moorish magician or some friendly jinnee to get them back into the palace?

No, Effendi, they have filed the first papers necessary for a legal battle in the courts—and that proves that the Arabian Nights is still the most romantic reading as far as the mysterious and ancient East goes.

Action in the Steel Strike

President Eisenhower has sent a message to striking steel workers and the companies, but the White House denies that he warned them to settle within a week or face Government intervention. Whatever the precise nature of his action, it comes none too soon, and the country will hope that he gets results.

The steel strike will be three weeks old at the end of this week. It has already cost 4,400,000 tons of ingots, and will cost 2,000,000 tons for every week it continues. Some 650,000 steel workers and 100,000 workers in related industries are idle.

Yet up to now an amazing calm—not to say apathy—has hung over the scene. What a contrast to the last big steel strike in 1952!

When that strike was three weeks old, Congress was boiling with demands for presidential action to stop it. President Truman had seized the steel plants to avert a shutdown, but the Supreme Court had held the seizure invalid, and the strike then began. Almost simultaneously, an enormous clamor arose for presidential action under the Taft-Hartley law.

By the time the strike of 1952 had lasted 22 days, both branches of Congress had joined in requesting the President to break the strike by seeking an 80-day injunction under Taft-Hartley. Republicans especially were most active in demanding that the President act.

And today? What a contrast, indeed! No congressional resolutions are demanding that President Eisenhower break the strike. No prophecies of dire consequences rend the air. Government mediators meet with the disputing parties from time to time, but with no apparent sense of urgency. The companies and the union alike appear determined to maintain a granitic calm. Perhaps neither minds too much a shutdown that compels industry to work off its inventories, and so strengthens future demand for steel.

But some times it is not possible to calculate exactly just when to stop short of catastrophe. The 1952 strike cost the nation four billion dollars and 20,000,000 tons of steel. When it was finally settled—after 54 days—it was settled at a conference in the White House.

Since the White House cannot stay out of such a situation in the long run, there is no use pretending to do so in the short run. Let us hope both companies and union take heed of the public interest and buckle down to a settlement.

Missouri's Biggest Vacationland

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Lake of Ozarks, its 1372 miles of shoreline dotted with resorts and new mercantile centers, is celebrating its silver anniversary this year; said to be second largest artificial lake; it has transformed Ozark hill country into busy tourist attraction.

From The Ozarks Mountaineer, Branson, Mo.

The Lake of the Ozarks this year is celebrating its silver anniversary.

The quarter of a century has been a transforming period for it. Old communities were inundated and wiped out by its waters when Bagnell dam was finished in 1931 and with them went the old way of Ozark life, largely agricultural, that harkened back to the 1820s. Then the Osage river, daddy of the lake, was the only route into the northern Ozarks, and the settlers, working upstream, made new homes on its banks or pushed on overland into the interior. Those were the days when the flat boat and the stern-wheeler were king.

Today all of this has been changed. The lake in these 25 years has made itself the number one vacation spot of Missouri and the Middle West, with scores and scores of resorts along its extensive shore lines and in new communities that collectively total some 20,000 units, catering to visitors who aggregated last year more than 1,800,000 and spent approximately $45,000,000.

This growth, particularly since World War II, truly has been phenomenal. For this there is a four-fold reason: First, the beauty and recreational features of the lake itself. Second, ample and hospitable resort accommodations. Third, central location, close to metropolitan centers. And, fourth, the very strong organization of resort operators.

The Lake of the Ozarks is a big body of water. It has a shore line of 1372 miles and a channel of 129. Very few natural lakes outside of the Great Lakes command its size and it ranks second among those created artificially.

The dam itself is 2634 feet in length, with a height of 148. It backs up a lake of 93 square miles, going through the heart of four counties of the central Missouri Ozarks—Camden, Miller, Benton and Morgan—and touching two others. It is built across the Osage river, that old stream of pioneer travel, into which above it empty the Big Niangua, Little Niangua, Glizette, Linn and Gravois, also the makers of Ozark history, that now have become arms of the lake.

The dam was built as a hydro-electric power project by the Union Electric Co. to serve St. Louis and others of its 500,000 customers in smaller towns. It is part of the generation facilities, both hydro and steam, that are tied together in a power grid by that company.

It was started in 1929 and completed in 1931 at a cost of $36,000,000. It was built over the active opposition of many of the native people whose land, to the extent of 30,000 acres, was taken under the power of eminent domain. Scores of lawsuits were fought, and members of the Missouri legislature and other state officials as well as company executives became embroiled, some of them scandalously.

But, anyway, the dam was built and today it is generating with eight turbines (two of which were recently installed) 215,000 KW of electric energy that is carried over transmission lines to consuming centers up to 200 miles.

And, the dam (named after the old

my. The lake area has retained all of its natural beauty, but the simple way of living have had to yield to "modern America."

You find here hundreds of facilities for lodging, food and entertainment, ranging from the mediocre on up to the best, just as they are found throughout the nation in other popular resort centers, but they have a fresher, cleaner look because they all have been built within the past 20 years—principally since the end of World War II (the big depression and the war held back the development). Some of the communities such as Camden, carelessly are watching their own development, by preventing "eyesores" and undesirable types of business, while Lake Ozark, at the other extreme has the appearance of a County Island.

Figures disclose during the past six years an annual gain of 33 1/2 per cent in the number of visitors. The area has had to become commercialized to care for them.

This lake section, compared with other resort sections of the Ozarks, has the one big advantage of location—it is closer to the large metropolitan and other urban centers. From them it is only a few hours' drive.

Bagnell Dam has created this mammoth resort activity of the Lake of the Ozarks. It has not brought as dams have in the Tennessee Valley, low electric rates to industrial activity. It has created no 12 months' economy, no year-round payrolls and income. Whether such an economy could have been created and the area not limited to one single activity—intense for a few months, nil for the remainder—is today perhaps no more than a moot question.

And, there can be no doubt that this single activity will continue to gain in size and momentum as the years go by.

The One That Went to Sea

From The Louisville Times

Thomas R. Marshall, the Hoosier Vice President, was fond of telling about two brothers who ran away to sea, the other was elected Vice President, and nothing was ever heard of either of them again. Alben W. Barkley, the Kentucky Vice President, enjoyed that story, too, and told it more than once. But Richard M. Nixon, the California incumbent, is a man who has wanted to be heard of again and again and again.

He could not have liked it when the Republican Governors, in their Atlantic City resolution demanding the renomination and re-election of President Eisenhower, neglected entirely to mention the running mate already selected by the President. This may have been an unintentional oversight resulting from the Governor's haste to get off a message of confidence to Mr. Eisenhower in the hospital. Or the omission may have been deliberate, indicating that the Republican nabobs are not as unassuming about Richard as they are about Ike. In any event, as far as the governor's resolution was concerned, Mr. Nixon might as well have been the brother who ran away to sea.

Between Book Ends

The Kagans and Cohens

AN ENJOYABLE, BY Sam Arkeshan. (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, 344 pp., $3.50.)

This novel is the history of the Kagan-Cohen family, and the first half of the book deals mainly with the earlier generations and their way of life in old Russia under the rule of the Czar. The second half of the story is concerned with the members of the family who migrated to America, and of their struggles at making their way after their arrival in New York.

For those who came to America in the early years of this century, it was the stories of the fabulous Jacob Kagan, the oldest of eleven brothers, that could recapture for them the sense of size and power, and the excitement of the life they had experienced in Russia. In spite of oppression, Jacob managed to amass a fortune in the lumber business, and was a member of the cultured and moneyed society of St. Petersburg. When the October Revolution bankrupted the family and the Bolsheviks took over, the migration of the family began, but Jacob remained in Russia.

The narrator, Sam Slar, was born in New York, and while his parents were natives of Russia, Sam's attitudes and outlook are far removed from those of his father and mother. The new generations were inclined to give up the history of their fathers, and in place of the real faith of their people, were Jews only in the ways they made their living. The Jewish customs transmitted to Sam through his grandfather, his parents, and his uncles, became almost entirely social, and hardly religious. But, when Sam visits Europe, he begins to understand the culture of his forebears and to gain a measure of appreciation for his heritage.

On first acquaintance, the structure of this novel may appear confusing; the inserts of the past into the present tend to interrupt one's chain of thought. But, in the main, the book holds the reader's interest, and the ideas expressed reveal a depth of feeling and thought.

Austro-American Romance

LAZARUS IN VIENNA, by Alfred Slote. (McGraw-Hill, 343 pp., $3.95.)

In this novel of intrigue in postwar Vienna, a United States Army lieutenant is assigned to organize groups of distinguished Austrians and send them to the United States to see democracy in action at first hand. The officer who had the job before said, while describing his duties, "Right now we're trying to make the Germans—and when I say Germans I include the Austrians—boo the umpteenth ad apple pie and live and let live."

On the train to Vienna, Lt. Whitney meets Brigitte von Kunstler, a young matron with whom he soon falls in love. Brigitte's husband was wounded on the Russian front and is now at home, a wheelchair cripple, engaged in writing speeches for a neo-Nazi movement, the Heimkehrerbund. Almost by accident it seems, the most effective aspect of this competently written novel is the tender romance that develops between Frau Kunstler and the American lieutenant, as apparently Mr. Slote was attempting to write an American suspense story complete with Russian villain.

The "Lazarus" of the novel is a Soviet prisoner who had been the Director of Internal Security for Vienna under the Nazis but who is now suffering from complete amnesia. Brigitte's father is a specialist in diseases of the memory on the staff of a famous Vienna clinic and the Russians pressure him to treat their prisoner in order to reach the wealth of secrets that lie locked in his brain. The doctor finally restores Lazarus to life even though he knows the secret that will be unearthed concerns himself, and it turns out to be a rather good suspense story as well as a romance.

Special mention should be made of the author's effective use of the Vienna background and the people who live there because he has recorded them as faithfully in words as if he had used kodachrome slides.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Fizzle of a Dixie Revolt

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the return here of still-convalescent President Eisenhower, which really marks the opening of the 1956 Republican campaign, the party's management saw the fizzling out of one maneuver which they had hoped would materialize and disrupt the Democrats.

Timmerman.

This happened at Atlanta, Ga., where Democratic state chairmen of seven Southern states did the unusual by calling for party harmony and proclaiming: "We do not favor any bolts, walkouts or third parties."

This climax of their weekend meeting seemed to end any prospect of a dramatic party split at the Chicago Democratic convention in mid-August, such as occurred at the 1948 and 1952 conventions.

What was supposed to be something that might have been celebrated as the "second battle of Peachtree Creek" against the Yankee wing of the party turned out entirely different from what Republicans had wished for and what originally had been planned by Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr., of South Carolina.

Gov. Timmerman's idea was to lay the basis for a possible third party movement like the 1948 Dixiecrat spectacle. But the Governor learned he was on the wrong track.

Cool Response.

He learned this, first, in the discouraging response he got from other responsible Southern leaders to his feelers of a few weeks ago and, second, in the coolness among other Southern Governors at their June conference in Atlantic City.

He squirmed out of his self-created dilemma by passing the buck to the state chairmen, of whom four out of 11 did not turn up at Atlanta. And Gov. Timmerman was not even present himself for the event which he had started.

Why was the South Carolina Governor so miffed in his new back-to-Fort-Summer movement in this year when tensions over the Supreme Court's public school integration decision and the threat of civil rights legislation in Congress would seem to make the situation ripe for "rebellion"? What has happened among Southern leaders?

Practical Reasons.

What we are seeing is the result of efforts on both sides of the Mason and Dixon line to keep the party as united as possible this year.

Soundings among both Southern and Northern leaders here in Congress offer an analysis of what inspires the anxiety for harmony. There are two practical reasons.

MRS. ARTHUR C. GARRISON TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Graveside services for Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison, widow of a retired real estate dealer and member of a pioneer St. Louis family, will be at 10:30 tomorrow at Bellefontaine Cemetery, with burial there.

Mrs. Garrison, 81 years old, died yesterday at Barnes Hospital.

WASHINGTON.

1. They see a fine chance of holding control of both branches of Congress in November's election, whatever happens about the presidency, and a divided party could muss up that opportunity.

Continued Democratic control of Congress means continuation of Southerners in key places of power—and that, of itself, means not only the prestige and perquisites so dear to men in politics but also influence upon national policy.

2. By staying in the party and working from within, responsible Southern leaders see a much better chance to get the party to espouse an integration policy shaped for gradual accomplishment then by huffily walking out and making a lot of noise.

Wary of G.O.P. Hopes.

Democrats, both North and South, also have learned from Republican promptings and from the party's avenues of publicity how much the Republicans want to promote a Democratic party split. That has stiffened Democratic determination to avoid a schism this year if at all possible.

One Northern Democratic leader explained that members of his party in Congress are so constantly conscious of this Republican divide-and-conquer strategy that they are on a continuous "alert" to keep from even saying anything that might stir up trouble among themselves.

One thing that has moderated Southern leaders is the confusion about how they should proceed in a way for their own people, white and Negro, and for the national interest in what they now recognize is the biggest problem that has confronted them in their entire political careers.

Within the Party.

There is much soul-searching and many heart-to-heart talks among responsible leaders trying to find the way.

"We are going to Chicago in a spirit of moderation to seek some way out of our problem without acting violently," one thoughtful Southern leader said. "We want to stay in the party and to settle this problem within the party, if it is possible. We are frankly playing it by ear as we go along, hoping for the best. We are trying to keep our minds open."

"And we hope that the lightning may strike there at Chicago and make an insoluble problem soluble," he added, chuckling at his own phrase.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Horace W. Davis, and a grand-daughter, Mrs. Michael J. Gluck, both of New York.

COUNTY COUPLE WILL ADOPT TWO GERMAN CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. Hans F. Jacoby, 1013 Donnell avenue, Bellefontaine Neighbors, will adopt two German children whose father in Berlin is unable to care for them, it was learned today. Since their mother died in childbirth, the children, Ingo, 2 years old and his sister, Mais, 1 year old, have lived in a Berlin orphanage.

Mrs. Jacoby, who is head of the research library at Anheuser-Busch, Inc., will resign her position Aug. 3 and leave here Aug. 11 from Lambert-St. Louis Field for Berlin. There she will sign the necessary adoption papers, tour Europe and return with the children Sept. 18. Mrs. Jacoby said the children will be named Paul and Helen.

Her husband, a chemist, is vice president and part owner of Private Formula, Inc., a chemical firm here. He immigrated here from Berlin before World War II and served with the Army's Counter Intelligence Corps in Germany during the war.

The Jacobys were married six years ago and have two children. "We are looking forward to becoming parents," Mrs. Jacoby said. "I hope Paul and Helen like music because my husband is an accomplished pianist and there always is music in our home."

ST. LOUISAN HONORED IN ARMY CEREMONY

Master Sgt. Lee A. Nichols Cited for Flood Relief Work in California.

Master Sgt. Lee A. Nichols of St. Louis, who rescued a soldier from a burning tank in France in August 1944, was honored today for his outstanding devotion of relief and rescue operations in the Christmas floods last year in northern California.

Nichols, son of William Nichols, formerly of 4351 Cook avenue, received the Army's Commendation Ribbon with medal pendant at a formal 800-man parade and review on the main grounds at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Without sleep for 76 hours beginning at 7 p.m. last Dec. 22, he distinguished himself in "displaying outstanding ability and resourcefulness in organizing crews to combat the floods raging in the Marysville-Yuba City area in the absence of his company officers," a citation said in part.

At the time of the disaster, Nichols was assigned to a company of an engineer aviation brigade at Beale Air Force Base which had about 350 enlisted men and two officers. Fifty of the men and one officer had left on Christmas leave. His company commander was cut off from the unit by the flood.

Nichols organized the men in 24-hour details to insure that operating staff sections of the brigade would have enough men at all times. He detailed others to sandbagging details, issuing supplies and equipment to troops, setting up and maintaining communications and transportation and caring for refugees coming to the base.

"Through his immediate and effective response to a critical situation, Master Sgt. Nichols reflected great credit upon himself and the arms forces of the United States," the citation said.

For heroism in rescuing the soldier in France, he was awarded the Soldier's Medal, and received the Purple Heart for being wounded in action in the Battle of the Bulge.

Nichols enlisted in the Army here in January 1943, and served with an anti-aircraft battalion in France, Belgium, Germany and Austria in World War II. After the war, he served on Okinawa.

The School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout, Mo., will receive $145,000 from the estate of Miss Elizabeth Gertrude Garvin of 245 Union boulevard, it was learned yesterday when an inventory of her estate was filed in probate court.

The entire estate was valued at $174,390. Miss Garvin died last May 3. She was 81 years old. Principal assets included shares of stock with a current market value of $146,495; bonds $21,203 and $6239 in cash.

Under terms of a will filed previously, the school also will receive 196 shares of stock in the First National Bank in St. Louis, valued at $11,662, to be added to a scholarship fund in memory of a brother, William E. Garvin.

The larger bequest to the school was stipulated in the will to be used for construction of a building or as the school otherwise wished.

Other bequests included shares of stock in two St. Charles banks valued at $4960 to the First Presbyterian Church of St. Charles; $3000 each to Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and the women's auxiliary of the Westminster Presbyterian Church here; $1000 each to the Presbyterian Orphanage at Farmington, Mo., and Bethesda General Hospital here, and $500 each to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children and the Salvation Army.

Under terms of the will of another brother, Alexander Boyd Garvin, retired Wellston banker, one third of a $400,000 trust left to Miss Garvin was to go to Westminster College on her death.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

W. G. McLaughlin

Patterson's Manager Looks Forward to '57.

WHEN Floyd wins the championship of the world in '57, he'll be the youngest champion in history, younger than Louis.

That's the rather surprising statement which Constantine (Cus) D'Amato, manager of Floyd Patterson, makes to Murray Olderman, in a story in the August issue of True magazine.

It has been the general impression that Patterson is running hard for a fight with Archie Moore in September and that the victor would get recognition as the successor to the retired Rocky Marciano.

Patterson recently had the east removed from the hand he broke in defeating Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and announced that he would start light training for the match with Moore.

Cus often thinks differently or made a slip of the tongue.

Anyway, D'Amato, sturdy handler of boxers with his white hair cut crew style, is rather bitter in telling the story of his life and of Patterson's, as written by Olderman.

Cus has a small gymnasium in lower New York which is not attended by the sons of the best families in New York. His boys are more of the "dead end" variety and he is thoroughly familiar with doings of thugs and toughs. Of these he has met plenty and has no fear of them.

His experiences in boxing, too, have left him with some bitter memories.

He says he started Rocco Barbell (Rocky Graziano) on his career, handled him through his amateur days, then got the boot from Rocky when the latter entered the professional game.

He is not friendly with the International Boxing Club, either. That is something which has been general knowledge for sometime.

"The I. B. C. wouldn't give me dates," he says, and tells of a conversation with Jim Morris, president, when he gave Jim a piece of his mind.

"They got millions but I got the fighter," he declares. He tells of his efforts to get fights for Patterson and how he had to go to the Pacific Coast and elsewhere when he couldn't be accommodated closer to home.

"If some of Patterson's opponents didn't sound like much, remember the I. B. C. has got most of the good fighters tied up," he said.

D'Amato told of the troubles in keeping "the boys" from muscling in on his fighter. He says that a veteran manager recently offered him $100,000 for 50 per cent of Patterson's contract, the tenth offer he has had.

He turned it down, as he did all the rest.

Boxers Not Cattle.

THEY'RE (boxers) not cattle. With me managing a fighter is an emotional experience. Every time he goes into the ring, he takes a little bit of me with him."

He tells of Patterson's boyhood when Floyd was a problem child and was sent by his mother to a school outside of New York where they try to straighten out emotionally disturbed youngsters.

"He was only there a year and loved it. Some are ashamed to admit they've ever at that school," D'Amato said. "Not Floyd. He's so grateful for the new outlook on life they gave him, and he's proud of the experience."

Sometimes, during a fight, I have a talk with those ideals of sportsmanship he learned as an Olympic boxer. He had Tommy Harrison hurt real bad in the first round and I yelled at him to 'Move in, finish him off!'

"I heard Floyd mumble through his mouthpiece to the referee 'I don't want to hit this man again. Stop it. He's badly hurt.'"

"In the fight with Jacques Boyer-Crechy, Floyd was knocked off his pins in the first round. It's the only time in his life Patterson was ever knocked down. When he came back to the corner we tried to play it down and told Floyd 'You slipped. He never touched you.'"

"But he answered 'Oh, he knocked me down.'"

"In the seventh he had the Frenchman badly cut over the left eye. It was the perfect opening for him to end the fight quickly. But he refused to hit him in the face even though I bawled him out. Later he told me, 'That was a real bad cut, Cus, and if I kept banging away at it, I might have damaged his sight permanently. I knew the ref would have to stop it, anyhow.'"

"Patterson has a lot of ideas about boxing and when he gets to talking he doesn't need me or anybody else to prompt him. A good punch is something you're born with," he told me one day. "Anybody can throw a hard blow if he lets go with all his might, but the trick is in the timing, to beat the other fellow to it. I set my eyes on his chest. That way I can tell every move my opponent is about to make. There's no sense looking at his fists, because that's the last thing he moves. You have to anticipate his punch. By watching his chest, I can see the punch before it starts."

"So this young man is, apparently, on the threshold of greatness and he has a good solid manager to go along with him."

Victory Goes Down Outfield Drain, Cards Salvage Tie

Bucs Tie In Ninth, 1-1; Rain Does Rest

By Bob Broeg

En route to his masters' degree at Texas A. & M., Wallace Wade Moon must have cut a class here and there or missed a lesson now and then, because the bushy-browed ball player still flunks his baseball tests at times.

Moon, a personable young man with a lean and hungry look, is one of baseball's budding hitters, even though he's been slumping sharply until last night, and he's a determined athlete eager to win. But despite his education and his experience, he suffers lapses that would make a bush leaguer blush.

If this seems an unkind size-up of a sad situation, it's no kinder than mental mistakes that invariably do more damage than enemy bats and gloves, opposition arms and legs.

Take last night's game at Busch Stadium for contrasts. Pittsburgh's pesky Pirates, who'll finish ahead of the Cardinals if the Redbirds don't watch out, played almost perfectly again, throwing up a splendid defense behind George (Red) Mueger, former St. Louis right-hander.

The Knuckler Road Back.

Big Red, 37 now and graying at the temples, left the majors in 1952, apparently for good, but, like many another gaffer whose best ball was gone, he tinkered with the knuckler until he could control the flutter pitch adequately. And when Bobby Bragan came up from Hollywood to manage Pittsburgh this year, he brought the long-time Redbird along.

"His record is unspectacular, but he's done a good job for us," Bragan volunteered before last night's ball game, which wound up in a heavy rain that really could have been tears shed by Fred Hutchinson, Vinegar Bend Mizell and a miserable-feeling Moon, too.

Despite Mueger's skill, the veteran would have been scored upon two or three times if it hadn't been for Pittsburgh's outfield, which, as Bragan proudly proclaimed, now is the slickest fielding sentry trio in the National League. And not only are Lee Walls, Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente fleet, strong-armed and ballhawking, but they're also hitting consistently. Walls is at .302, Clemente .300 and Virdon, recovering from the slow St. Louis start that prompted his hasty trade to Pittsburgh, now is up to .291.

It was defensively, however, that the three meadow men truly shined. Fielding strutted their stuff this time at smaller Busch Stadium and, in fact, the Cardinals wouldn't have scored with 11 hits—if the Pirate catcher had held an outfielder's throw.

The Deciding Touch.

As it was, the Redbirds failed to tally on three successive two-out safeties in the eighth, an inning in which Hank Sauer delivered a line hit to right-center with Moon on second. Wally dug for the plate, certain all possible, the extra base hit that would permit the tying run to score and/or the winning run to reach scoring position. It's a time for safety-first baseball, but, as Manager Hutchinson recalled, Moon has had trouble remembering his axioms.

So instead of easing over and giving ground, hoping to play the ball off the right field wall for a single that would permit pinch-runner Johnny O'Brien to go no farther than third base, Moon shot the works in a reckless and unsuccessful bid for a catch.

Too Eager, Too Bad.

Rushing straight over, Wally flung himself toward the foul line. The ball whizzed by his glove and hit the wall for a double. Moon scrambled to his feet, retrieved the ball and then threw wild to cutoff man Stan Musial, who had rushed into the outfield for the relay.

Even with all the bungling, mental and physical, swift little O'Brien just beat the play as Second Baseman Don Blasingame fetched home the loose ball.

But the game suddenly was tied, 1 to 1, and that's the way it ended as a heavy rainstorm prevented further play just as the tenth inning began.

With one away in the final frame, Frank Thomas singled to right, but Clemente flied out.

Disputed Run: Musial Scores for Cards

Catcher HANK FOILES of the Pirates covers home plate as STAN MUSIAL slides in with the Cardinals' only run of the game at Busch Stadium. The ball is shown popping away from Foiles' glove; he recovered and tagged Musial, claiming Stan had not touched the guarded plate. Umpire FRANK DASCOLI, on top of the Day, ruled Musial safe. He had come in from second base on Whitey Lockman's single. The game ended in a tie when rain came in the tenth inning.

Red Sox Winning Streak Makes Williams Good Prophet; Marion's Un-Merry Men Lose 11th in Row

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—After a false start, it looks as if Boston's Red Sox are on their way at last, just as Ted Williams predicted a couple of weeks back. Trouble is, they're sprinting on a treadmill in that American League race.

Williams, blaming early Sox disappointments on injuries, illness and sore arms, figured the Bostonians were healthy and ready to go. And after being side-tracked by New York, the Red Sox now have won 10 of 12 skippering past Chicago into third place and to within six points of runner-up Cleveland.

They closed in on the Indians yesterday, beating Kansas City 7-3 as Mel Parnell followed up his Saturday no-hitter with a seven-hit job that was good enough.

The Yankees, however, still lead the pack by a plucky 9 1/2 games—even after Detroit ended their winning streak at 11 games with an 8-4 and 4-3 doubleheader sweep. Cleveland split at Washington, losing 7-5 and winning 11-1. Marty Marion's White Sox were knocked off by Baltimore 4-3 for their eleventh straight defeat—longest slump in the majors this season.

In the National, there wasn't one sign of a player brawl as Milwaukee re-established its two-game lead with a 7-3 decision over the New York Giants. Brooklyn defeated second place Cincinnati 6-3. Rain held Pittsburgh and St. Louis to a 1-1 tie, called in the top of the tenth. And Philadelphia swept the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-1.

Yanks Keep Distance.

The Red Sox, enjoying their best surge since winning 14 of 16 in June of 1955, have gained only a half game on New York but have packed away 8 1/2 games against Chicago and 4 1/2 against Cleveland.

A four-run eighth inning against Troy (1-9) Herriage kept them going yesterday. Jackie Jensen's single broke a 3-all tie and Don Buddin added a two-run double in the rally. Parnell won his fourth, but lost his no-hit touch quickly—the first two men he faced singled.

Paul Foytack and Frank Lary, right-handers, chilled the Yankees with Lary beating them for the fourth time among his eight victories. Al Kaline made a leaping stab of Mickey Mantle's two-out, two-on liner in the ninth inning of the nightcap to protect the slim lead he had provided with his fourteenth home run in the sixth off Maury McDermott.

Mantle, playing without a brace on his right knee for the first time since July 4, hit his thirty-first home run in the first inning of the opener. It put him eight games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927. But the Tigers wrapped up the streak breaker with six runs in the sixth against Tom Sturdivant, now 8-3.

The Indians swung free and easy in the nightcap, but lost right-hander Early Wynn in the second inning when he was socked on the chin by Jose Valdivielso's line drive. Sixteen stitches were needed to close the gash. Pete Runnels and Jim Lemon homered for a 4-0 lead before Herb Score could get a man out in the opener and Ed Fitz Gerald then homered in a two-run seventh that won it against reliever Bob Feller. Vic Wertz hit his twentieth and twenty-first home runs for the Tribe.

A bases-loaded, two-out error by Third Baseman Fred Hatfield gave Baltimore the winning run in the ninth for the Birds' sixth straight victory. Morrie Martin, late of the White Sox, won in relief after stopping a tying Chicago rally in the ninth. The Chicago slump is the longest in the American League since Baltimore lost 14 in a row during August of 1954.

Braves Go Over Million.

Bobby Thomson drove in four runs — two on a first-inning double and two on his twelfth home run in the sixth—as the Braves made it eight out of nine. Lew Burdette breezed for his eleventh victory. Al Worthington lost it. A crowd of 32,960 pushed the Braves' home attendance over 1,000,000 for the fourth straight season.

Four runs in the first, with Sandy Amoros' homer scoring two, won for the Braves and Carl Erskine, who needed Clem Labine's relief help. Wally Post, who contributed a two-base error in the quick Dodger start, homered in the first. Johnny Klippstein, who had beaten the Dodgers four times, lost within five points of the fifth place. The Braves' one-time one-two knockout pitching punch of Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons clicked again. It was the Phils' eighth victory in 10 games and their first doubleheader sweep in 14 tries this season. Roberts, now 10-and-10, made it on a four-run rally in the seventh. Simmons wrapped it up with a six-hitter, not walking a man and fanning five. Jim Greenburg drove in four runs in the nightcap.

Wednesday's Stars.

PITCHING—Curt Simmons, Phillies—Set down Cubs 6-1 with a six-hitter, walking none and striking out five, to wrap up Phils' first doubleheader sweep this season after Robin Roberts won opener 6-4.

Schedule Says Open Date, Hutchinson Says 'Batter Up'

The schedule called for an open date for the Cardinals today, but Manager Fred Hutchinson called for special batting practice because the Redbirds have scored only three runs in their last three games and, as a result, have been forced to settle for two defeats and a tie—even though their pitchers have yielded just seven tallies.

In tomorrow night's opener of a four-game weekend series with Brooklyn's defending champion Dodgers, Tom Poholsky will pitch for the Cards.

Last night's tie game immediately was rescheduled to become part of a 6 o'clock twilight doubleheader with the Pirates Thursday night, Aug. 23. . . . Charley Peete played center field and went back capably for two long flies, but at bat he was hitless in two official trips and walked once before he was lifted for a pinch-hitter against southpaw Fred Waters. . . . Al Darling's first-inning single extended the shorstop's hitting streak to 13 consecutive games.

Play was suspended with one out in the Pittsburgh tenth and a "2-0" count on Eddie O'Brien. Because an earlier rain had weighted the tarpaulin and several members of the ground crew were absent, the tugging rain-soaked men available were unable to cover the first-base half of the infield. It's fortunate, therefore, that the rain continued heavy enough to result in a decision to call the contest after a 32-minute wait. The groundkeepers would have had a difficult—and embarrassing—time getting the field playable if the umpires had wanted to continue.

Jackie Price, baseball trick artist who threw three balls accurately from contorted positions, hits pitches while hanging from his heels and shags bazoorka-propelled flies in a jeep, entertained the 15,195 crowd before the game. . . . Howard Pollet, former Cardinal slapper, lefthander signed by the Pirates as a free agent, joined the Pittsburgh club from his Houston home. . . . When Peete misjudged a short fly, then slipped, Don Blasingame became a fourth outfielder as he ranged back for pinch-hitter Jack Shepard's hoist in the eighth.—B. B.

Eddie Cole Moves Up to Challenge for Fairmount Trainer Honors

Three Wins Give Him Tie With Lemons at 26 Each

With two more nights remaining on Fairmount Park's 1956 racing calendar, youthful Eddie Cole of Harrisburg and C. C. Lemons, veteran Carlock, Ill., horseman, are tied for the leadership in the trainer standings, each having saddled 26 winners.

Cole, who could pass as a teen-ager because of his young appearance, saw three of his horses reach the finishing line first in the fourth, seventh and eighth races last night to enable him to move into a dead-lock with Lemons, who is looked upon as the dean of trainers at the Collinsville course.

Hanley Rides Winners.
Lady La Rue, jointly owned by Cole and L. Cobb, captured the fourth race and refunded $6.40, $3.60, $3.00. H. H. Rendleman's Tiger Bee was Cole's second winner, and Derby Play of George Fink's stable enabled the baby-faced handler of runners to come up with No. 3. Tiger Bee beat a classy mid-week field in the mile and 70 yard feature and had fifty prices of $12.20, $5.20, $3.80. Derby Play's mutual figures were $21.20, $7.20, $4.80.

Jack Hanley, who has enjoyed only so-so success at Fairmount, has won only three of his runners triumphing during the last five nights he rode. Lemons has been the leading trainer for the past six weeks has seen only three of his runners triumph during the last five nights he rode. Lemons has scored 13 firsts in the last five nights he rode. Delahoussaye was up on juvenile Lady La Rue, pacemaker in the fourth, and Charlie's Gem, short-priced leader in the sixth.

Short-Prized Gem.
Charlie's Gem, a regular campaigner on Chicago's Arlington and Washington tracks last summer, recently won at Fairmount in his first start this year. Quite a sum was wagered on Charlie as he also made his second race at Fairmount a success and his supporters collected only $3.00, $2.60, $2.60.

Pat Lesser the Greater

Turley, Almost Psychic on Other Pitchers, Is Open Book Himself

NEW YORK, July 19 (UP)—Bob Turley, an out-and-out flop on the mound this season, was credited today as "the man most responsible" for the Yankees' runaway lead in the American League race.

Sounds incredible, doesn't it? But Yankee players, to a man, swear it's true.

Turley, owner of an unimpressive 5.32 earned-run average, has started 11 games this season and failed to finish nine of them, but he has discovered so many giveaway signs from other pitchers in the league that the Yankees are breezing to victory after victory on his information.

"He's positively uncanny," said one member of the Yankees. "Turley knows what more than half the pitchers in our league are going to throw. On some clubs, he has told us what they're going to throw before they let the pitch go."

One of the Yankees who has profited considerably from Turley's advance information is Mickey Mantle.

"When Mickey knows beforehand what pitch is coming, he's the murder," put in another Yankee player. "And Mantle has admitted that Turley's calling the shots has helped him plenty."

Turley doesn't talk much about his unusual talent but he does grin and say, "I guess that's about the only thing that's keeping me around here these days."

"It only goes to show what you can pick up if you keep watching those pitchers long enough," he adds. "Now if I could only find out what my trouble is, I'd be okay."

The Yankees have tried every possible means of getting to the root of Turley's pitching trouble but nothing seems to help. First, Casey Stengel used him as a starter, then he put him in the bullpen and finally he used him as a batting practice hurler.

But Turley's chief value to the Yankees remains his extraordinary ability to detect those tell-tale tips of opposing pitchers.

"He's funny about it all is that almost everybody in the league can 'read' Turley's deliveries, too—and he knows it but he can't do a thing about it."

Mims 'Tired,' Discounts Loss To Newcomer
CHICAGO, July 19 (UP)—Spider Webb, a hard-punching middleweight with only 16 pro fights, rated consideration for a "top ten" ranking today, even though his first major victory, over Holly Mims, was over "a tired old man."

Webb, weighing 157½ pounds to Mims's 157, punched out a convincing 10-round decision in the television battle from the Chicago Stadium, even though it was the first time he ever has gone that distance.

"I never got tired," Webb said, "I thought I would and I guess it was a mental block all through the fight, but I never did. He never hurt me in trouble and I learned a lot."

Mims discounted the result, chiefly because he complained that "I was tired from the first round on."

"He only had three days' notice of the fight," Manager Nick Trotta said. "They called us Sunday and we left right away. Didn't have any boxing. Just work on the speed bag and shadow boxing, and he just was tired out."

Mims agreed that he never had power or strength. "He never hurt me, but I was too weak to hurt him. If I'd been in shape, I would have knocked him out."

It was Mims's fifteenth loss in 60 pro fights and the fifteenth win for Webb in 16 outings. His only defeat was a four-round decision to Red Elby in Webb's third pro venture. It was the third fight for Webb since his discharge from military service in March.

"We did the I.B.C. a favor taking this fight on such short notice," Trotta said. "It was the first fight for this boy, except for the (Bobby) Boyd fight, in a year. Now let's see if the I.B.C. will do us a favor. We want a rematch with Webb, with notice so we can get in shape."

Webb had no comment about whether he'd grant his victim another chance. "That's up to them," he said, pointing at Manager Nick Knowles and Trainer Carl Nelson.

"I didn't win the fight," he said. "They did. They taught me how to fight and I fought the way they told me to. Like I said when I got out of the Army, if Nelson wasn't going to train me, I wasn't going to fight."

Both scrappers got $4000 for television last night plus 25 per cent each of the net gate of $1,313.62 paid by 1478 fans.

Nan Berry Is Beaten, 5-3, in Western Golf

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 19 (UP)—Defending Champion Pat Lesser, who has not shot a birdie during the first three days of the Fifty-sixth Women's Western Amateur golf tournament, said today "my game is coming back" as she entered the quarter-final round.

The Seattle, Wash. champion, who also won the 1955 National Amateur, may have to call on all her skill against Louise Cament, Louisville, Ky., a virtual unknown who scored the only upset yesterday.

While Miss Lesser was carried 18 holes in downing pretty Barbara McIntire, Toledo, O., 1-up, in the second round of match play, Miss Cament came through with a 3-2 win over favorite Ruth Jensen, Kenmore, Wash.

Medalist Anne Quast, Everett, Wash., met Ohio State champion Ann Richardson and former National champion Mrs. Mark Porter, Philadelphia, took on Mary Patton Janssen, Charlottesville, Va., runner-up in this year's British Amateur.

Miss Quast, continuing to shoot outstanding golf, was only one over par for the 16 holes it took to win a 3-2 verdict over former Indiana champion Mrs. Paul Dye, Indianapolis. She had two 15-foot putt birdies. Miss Richardson registered a 6-4 victory over Betty Kerby, Akron, O., and Mrs. Porter had to go to 18 holes to defeat Marjorie Lindsay the day before.

The 19-year-old local favorite has won five consecutive West Virginia titles and was a semi-finalist in this tournament at the age of 16.

All of the quarter-final matches were set for the afternoon.

Papai Winner for Southern All-Stars
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 19 (AP)—The Southern Association All-Stars defeated the Birmingham Barons for the second straight year last night, 10-0.

The Stars punctured the Barons' defense with seven runs off eight hits and an error in the fourth inning.

New Orleans slugger Emil Panko led the Stars with a homer, a double and a single.

Winning pitcher was Al Papai, Memphis ace.

Atlanta's Corky Valentine, a pitcher, contributed two-run homer in the fourth inning.

150-Yard Putt in Golf's Biggest Cup
TOKYO, July 19 (AP)—An American newsmen who bet on the wrong baseball team (the American League All Stars) teed off at the base of Mt. Fuji at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Ten hours, 50 minutes, 27 golf balls and 1275 strokes later, former Floridian Don Schuck sank a 150-yard "putt" in the crater of the famed 12,395-foot dormant volcano.

"It was the best drive of the day," Schuck mused as he nursed his blistered hands, "and the one putt in my life. I knew I couldn't miss—that's the biggest golf cup in the world."

Mt. Fuji's almost perfect circle crater is 2000 feet across.

Amazed Japanese climbers shook their heads and muttered about "those crazy Americans."

Bardstown, Victor in Equipoise Mile, Hailed As Real Star of Turf
CHICAGO, July 19 (INS)—Turf followers hailed the arrival of another handicap star on the racing scene today—Calumet Farm's Bardstown, which won the $60,400 Equipoise mile at Arlington Park yesterday.

Bardstown, a four-year-old dark bay gelding which never raced until this year because of injuries, ran away from a class field of 14 other stakes performers to gain permanent possession of a huge silver trophy worth $37,300 for his owners.

Skipper Bill was second, two lengths behind Bardstown and five lengths ahead of the third horse, Sir Tribal, Dogoon, which set a scorching pace for six furlongs, faded to fifth behind Delta.

The winner's time of 1:35.3-5 was 13.5 seconds off Equipoise's track mark, but the manner in which Bardstown won indicated he could have done much better if pressed.

It was the fifth victory in eight races for Bardstown and his first stakes triumph. He never has been out of the money.

The royally bred son of Alibhai-Twilight Tear by Bull Lex is being hailed by some horsemen as another Armed, great Calumet gelding of a decade ago.

One veteran turf follower said flatly: "Of all the up and coming horses this observer has seen in the last 25 years, Bardstown looks as good as any."

Some Improvement Made in Final Half Hour - A Few Wide Movers.

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Selected issues made some fairly wide moves in a consistently irregular stock market today. Improvement in the last half hour gave the list a firmer tone before the close.

For the most part the gains among leading stocks kept within a 2-point range and the losers a point or so.

More widely moving stocks fluctuated 3 or 4 points. No division provided leadership. Attention remained on American Telephone which improved 3 1/2 following its dip yesterday on news of a record-breaking stock issue.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 513.86, up 47 of a point at the close, the 20 rails 168.75 down .45, and the 15 utilities 69.71, up .06.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $188.30 with the industrials and rails unchanged while the utilities were up 20 cents.

Of 1131 issues traded, there were 422 advances and 430 declines. There were 42 new highs for the year and 16 new lows.

Volume totaled 1,950,000 shares compared with 2,530,000 yesterday.

The market was mixed from the start and remained that way although on average it seemed gently up or down.

Stocks were practically unchanged at a point but news that President Eisenhower would intervene in the strike if it remains stalemate, then turned narrowly mixed with Bethlehem and Youngstown posting slight gains.

Aluminum was down 4 points at one time and recovered a point of this. Cessna Aircraft went ahead around 2 points on a much-improved earnings report.

Amerasia held on to a gain of around 2 points and Texas Co. about a point but Sinclair drifted off fractionally. Rohm & Haas, which fell about 4 points early in the session, chiseled down its loss to a point or so.

Gainers in the point zone included U. S. Hoffman Machinery, Chrysler, Anacostia, Kennebec and Johns-Manville. Rails were mixed with Santa Fe up a fraction and Union Pacific off a fraction.

London stocks were higher. The financial Times daily index rising 2 1/2 points to 184.1.

BEER STAYS COOL 93% LONGER

IN NEW NO-DEPOSIT QUART BOTTLES

For flavor protection... for just-right coolness—new Party-Size Quarts are one of the nicest things ever to happen to beer and ale. Here's why:

Stays Cooler! Beer or ale in new quart bottles stays cool 93% longer than in a 12-ounce can, far longer than in any other non-returnable container.

Better Flavor! Glass is unmatched as an inert protector of beer's sensitive flavor. Glass has no taste of its own.

More Convenient! Party-Size No-Return Quarts are the "life" of the party—5 full glasses of your favorite beer at its best.

The Party-Size Quart Bottle is sure to be your favorite for serving guests because it keeps beer within the just-right 40- to 50-degree temperature range far longer than when each guest has a separate small container.

Look for the words—
NO DEPOSIT—NO RETURN

How pouring through a "Bottle Neck" aids beer's flavor peak

Make your own test. Just let your favorite beer or ale aerate freely down the neck of the bottle, over the bottle's clean lip, straight into a glass. Let it form its natural head. You'll notice the difference in flavor with the very first sip.

Buy your favorite beer in the new Party-Size Quart Bottle—stock up for the weekend.

Pilseers illustrated are from the beautiful Libbey Home Barware line.

Americans Buying More Groceries

Five Per Cent More Spent on Food in First Six Months of 1956 Than in 1955.

By Dorothy Brainerd
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

HAS your market basket been piled a little higher in recent months? If so, don't be too concerned. You are just in step with the times, according to an interesting report which reached our desk this week.

If you aren't buying more groceries these days, you aren't keeping up with all of America's Joneses, says Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, who points out that with the continuing high level of incomes, food store shoppers spent five percent more in the first half of 1956 than they did in the first six months of 1955. This trend may add up to an all-time annual record for retail food store sales.

According to Willis, retail food prices averaged about one per cent less than last year—which means that not only were more dollars spent, but a greater volume of goods was purchased.

Interesting sidelight: homemakers are going for "convenience" products in a big way. Statistical evidence proves that a selection of representative time-saving groceries scored a sales increase four times as large as their "regular" counterparts within the past year. In other words, we are eating and being merry—a mighty happy situation. If you ask us.

AND what will we put into these well-filled market baskets this week? Melons, by all means. Watermelons are coming down in price steadily; are now in the low-to-medium range.

Honeydews, with their delightfully delicate flavor and aroma, are so delectable that it always seems to us they must be a luxury. But they aren't—as a matter of fact, they are pretty good buys right now.

Cantaloupes from Arizona and California are moderately priced; there are some Persian and Casaba melons around, but they are on the expensive side.

Citrus fruits also make the "good values" parade this week. The small sizes of California Valencia oranges are cheap, although you will pay more if you insist upon larger fruit.

Lemons and limes are both wearing attractive price tags—welcome news on any July day, for what quenches the thirst quite as satisfactorily as lemonade or limeade what is more refreshing than a lemon ice or a cool-to-behold lime chiffon pie?

California and Arizona grapefruit are quite good; however, they are not inexpensive.

There are handsome strawberries from California, but not for the budget-conscious. Also available but high in price are the small fruits from Michigan such as raspberries (red and black), currants, blueberries, gooseberries and dewberries. Western apricots and cherries are still expensive, but plums are working downward.

Keep your eye on peaches, the Elbertas are starting and it won't be long before you may find some values.

VEGETABLE VALUES: Iceberg lettuce, carrots (see story on this page) and squash. The last item is really a bargain whether you choose acorn, white scallop, yellow straight neck or zucchini.

Celery is a buy when you consider that the crop is running to large sized stalks, so you are getting a lot of celery per stalk.

Cabbage is in the moderate category as are peppers, okra, leaf lettuce, endive and escarole.

Tomatoes are apparently over the peak of those very high prices, but onions and potatoes are still staying up there.

LOOK for bargains this week in light-weight hams, those weighing between eight and 14 pounds. They have come down substantially within the last week or two, and you should be able to find some real buys.

Hot dogs, pork butts for barbecues, the various luncheon meats are worth serious consideration.

Chickens continue to be well worth the money, although they have advanced just a fraction. There isn't too much good veal around town, we are sorry to report.

NEW in Local Markets: Several new frozen items have made their appearance. One is a pre-cooked, ready-to-eat French fried seafood dinner consisting of shrimp, scallops, fish sticks and codfish cakes, which have been rolled in toasted bread crumbs to insure that crunchy-crisp coating which is so delicious.

In the same line, also cooked and ready to eat, are crab sticks, crab cakes and French fried onion rings, and a half of a Southern fried chicken which may be eaten either hot or cold. Nice to have in the freezer for impromptu picnics—just take the frozen chicken along with you and let it defrost on the way.

Twice-as-Tender Barbecued Chicken

Extra convenience and extra flavor are attributes of this barbecued chicken, which is both marinated and basted in a spicy sauce. Quick-frozen chicken parts are partially cooked indoors, covered with barbecue sauce, and allowed to marinate in the refrigerator for several hours. They are then basted with the sauce as they finish cooking over the barbecue grill.

WHAT is the most popular spot around the house these days? The barbecue pit, of course. It is the center of activities, the focal point of social life for St. Louisans during the summer months. And so it is that news about barbecuing is welcome news indeed.

Here is a brand-new method of barbecuing that is excellent if you are feeding a crowd—or if your family grows too impatient waiting for the food to finish cooking. Also, it simplifies life for the hostess, since part of the work is done in the morning.

Barbecued Chicken.

One package (one pound) quick-frozen chicken breasts, partially thawed.

One package (one pound) quick-frozen chicken drumsticks, partially thawed.

Three-fourths cup salted water.

Barbecue sauce (see below).

Thaw chicken just enough to separate the pieces. Add to salted water in skillet and simmer 15 minutes, turning once.

Remove chicken to bowl or glass dish. Allow to cool slightly. Then pour barbecue sauce over chicken, cover and allow to marinate a few hours or until ready to barbecue. (Be sure to keep in refrigerator.)

To barbecue, arrange chicken, skin side down, on greased grill over glowing coals. Baste with barbecue sauce. Barbecue until tender, about 15 to 25 minutes, frequently turning the chicken and basting with the sauce. Serve with remaining sauce. Yield: four to six servings.

Barbecue Sauce:

Three-fourths cups (six-ounce can) tomato paste.

Three-fourths cup water.

One-half cup vinegar.

One-fourth cup chopped onion.

One-fourth cup minced green pepper.

One-fourth cup worcestershire sauce.

One tablespoon brown sugar.

One and one-half teaspoons dry mustard.

One teaspoon salt.

One teaspoon garlic salt.

One-half teaspoon black pepper.

Combine all ingredients in saucepan and cover. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Stir occasionally to prevent scorching. Yield: about two cups sauce.

Of course, to many folks nothing takes the place of a hamburger at the barbecue pit. So let Dad take over the broiling of these He-Man Hamburgers, jumbo burgers basted with tangy barbecue sauce. Rolled oats inside keeps the juices from sizzling out.

And while they broil to juicy perfection, re-heat frozen French Fries over the grill (the old-time popcorn popper is the perfect utensil for the operation).

A platter of thick slices of tomato and onion—and dinner is served.

He-Man Hamburgers.

Two pounds ground beef.

Three-fourths cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked).

Three teaspoons salt.

One-half teaspoon pepper.

Barbecue Sauce.

One cup catsup.

One-fourth cup vinegar.

Two tablespoons brown sugar.

One-half teaspoon garlic salt.

Two teaspoons dry mustard.

One-fourth teaspoon ginger.

One tablespoon worcestershire sauce.

10 drops hot spicy sauce.

Combine all ingredients for barbecue sauce.

Combine all ingredients for hamburgers. Add one-half cup of the barbecue sauce to hamburger mixture, mixing well.

Shape into six jumbo-sized hamburgers.

Arrange on hot out-of-door grill or range boiler pan. Place about one tablespoon barbecue sauce over each hamburger. Broil until crusty brown.

Turn, spoon about one tablespoon barbecue sauce over each hamburger. Continue broiling to desired doneness.

If you eat out-of-doors frequently, that old question of what to serve may bother you. Here is an easy menu with the always-popular franks and 'burgers.

Grilled Franks and Hamburgers.

Sandwich Buns

Canned Pork and Beans

Carrot Sticks, Green Onions

A Radish Roser

Chocolate Nut Brownies

Iced Tea

Many kinds of meat can be grilled out-of-doors, so don't get into the rut of serving just one or two favorites. Tender beef steak, slices of canned meats, cold cuts, bacon, Canadian bacon, ham steaks, lamb chops, all are "grillable."

The success of cooking meats over a grill depends largely upon the bed of coals. Charcoal and hardwoods are good fuels for grilling and impart wonderful flavor to meats.

Let the fire, whether it be wood or charcoal, burn down to a bed of hot embers before starting to cook the meat.

Rub the grill with a little beef suet or some melted fat to keep the meat from sticking.

Although many chefs have their own special marinades and sauces for meat, others prefer only salt and pepper with perhaps an onion ring or tomato slice for a little additional flavor.

Tongs are a good utensil for turning the meat, and a pastry brush is a "must" for slathering on a basting sauce.

When buying meats remember to buy enough for "seconds"—your guests are almost sure to come back for more.

A good general rule is to allow one-fourth pound of boneless cuts or ground beef per serving; one-third to one-half pound or more per serving of meat with bone in it.

Pilaff:

One cup chopped onion.

One clove garlic, minced.

Three-fourths cup margarine or butter.

One pound (two cups) uncooked rice.

One teaspoon salt.

One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Three cups water.

One-fourth cup seedless raisins (optional).

Two tablespoons blanched, toasted almonds.

In deep heavy pan saute onion and garlic in margarine or butter for five minutes. Add rice and cook five minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Add seasonings, water and raisins. Cover tightly and cook over very low heat about 15 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Serve garnished with almonds. Yield: six to eight servings.

THIS DISH CAN BE SERVED AS EITHER SALAD OR DESSERT

VERSATILE is the word for this delicious concoction; serve it for salad, serve it for dessert, or team it with hot muffins and coffee for a bridge luncheon. Just for variety, cut it in wedges like pie instead of slices.

Frozen Fruit Cheese Loaf.

One cup canned cling peach slices.

Two-thirds cup cubed canned pineapple.

One-half cup halved marshmallows.

One teaspoon plain gelatine.

Two tablespoons cold water.

Two (three-ounce) packages cream cheese.

One fourth cup milk.

One third cup mayonnaise.

One-half cup whipping cream.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoon dry mustard.

Two tablespoons lemon juice.

Salad greens.

Drain fruit thoroughly. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve over hot water.

Whip cream cheese with milk; fold in mayonnaise, whipped cream, seasonings and lemon juice.

Stir in dissolved gelatine. Dice peaches and fold into gelatin mixture with pineapple and cherries. Pour into loaf pan (eight and one-half by two and one-half inches) or refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature.

Freeze until firm without stirring. Reset temperature control to normal. Cut into slices and serve on salad greens. Yield: 10 to 12 servings.

Carrots in Raisin Sauce.

Give new flavor to canned carrots. Drain the carrots and mix seedless raisins with the liquid; simmer 10 minutes. Add the carrots, a little butter or margarine and lemon juice, and cook five minutes longer until carrots are heated.

Never Underestimate Glamor of Carrots

This Humble Vegetable All Too Often Known Only for Nutritional Qualities.

THIS is a plea for the down-trodden carrot. It is the victim of bad publicity. For years it has been looked upon as one of the less glamorous vegetables—something junior was urged to eat because "it's good for you, dear."

Everyone knows that carrots contribute to healthy skin, bright eyes, sound teeth, tranquil nerves and good growth, but too few persons give this colorful vegetable credit for its flavor and texture possibilities.

The carrot deserves, and can live up to, such gracious presentations as Savory Carrots, cooked in chicken broth, seasoned with melted butter or margarine, dusted with ground black pepper and garnished with chives.

Savory Carrots.

12 medium whole fresh carrots.

One-inch beef or chicken broth.

Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

One tablespoon fresh lemon juice.

One-fourth teaspoon ground black pepper.

One tablespoon chopped chives.

Wash and pare carrots. Place in saucepan with one inch of beef or chicken broth and one-half teaspoon salt. Cover and cook until tender, 20 to 25 minutes; drain.

Mix together butter or margarine, lemon juice, remaining one-fourth teaspoon salt and black pepper. Pour over carrots.

Savory Carrots

Because the carrot is such a dependable standby, it is too often taken for granted and served just boiled. It deserves better treatment. These savory carrots are cooked in chicken broth, seasoned with melted butter or margarine, then dusted with black pepper and garnished with chives.

rots. Toss lightly. Arrange on serving dish, sprinkle with chopped chives. Yield: six servings.

A little thyme brings out the flavor of these.

Lyonnais Carrots.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

One-fourth cup chopped onion.

Three cups very thinly sliced fresh carrots.

One-fourth teaspoon whole thyme leaves.

One te spoon sugar.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Dash ground black pepper.

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add remaining ingredients; cover. Simmer until carrots are tender, turning occasionally. Serve hot. Yield: four servings.

Sautéed Carrots With Onions and Green Pepper.

One-half cup sliced onion rings.

It Can Be One of Most Flavorful Dishes if It Is Prepared With Imagination.

One-half cup diced green pepper.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Three cups sliced carrots, parboiled.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One-eighth teaspoon ground black pepper.

Saute onion rings and green pepper in butter or margarine for two to three minutes, or until onions are transparent.

Add drained parboiled carrots and salt. Cover and cook over medium heat until tender. Sprinkle with black pepper. Serve hot. Yield: four servings.

To Parboil: Cook carrots in one inch boiling water and one-half teaspoon salt until almost tender, 10 to 12 minutes. Drain.

Here is one the youngsters will enjoy:

Shredded Carrot and Banana Salad.

Four medium bananas.

Two tablespoons mayonnaise.

One tablespoon milk.

One teaspoon fresh lemon juice.

One and one-half cups finely shredded carrots.

Head lettuce.

Three teaspoons peanut butter.

Mayonnaise.

Peel bananas and cut into one-inch chunks. Dip in mayonnaise mixed with the milk and lemon juice. Set aside for 10 to 15 minutes.

Roll bananas in shredded carrots. Serve on lettuce leaves. Top each serving with one-half teaspoon peanut butter. Serve with additional mayonnaise, if desired. Yield: six servings.

BOY HAMMERS CARTRIDGE, BROTHER WOUNDED IN LEG

Dennis, 4-year-old son of Mrs. Frances Wilson, 1383 Shawmut place, is in Homer G. Phillips Hospital with a bullet wound of the right leg, suffered yesterday when his 8-year-old brother, Wavely, discharged a .38 caliber cartridge by hitting it with a hammer.

Mrs. Wilson said Wavely found the cartridge in the basement and took it to the rear yard at their home. He hit it with a hammer as Dennis was standing by watching.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO REVISE CUSTOMS LAW

Eisenhower 'Must' Legislation Is Aimed at Encouraging World Trade.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower's long-sought customs simplification bill was passed by the Senate yesterday, almost a year after it had been approved by the House.

The Senate approved the measure on a voice vote and sent it to a conference with the House to iron out differences. Under the Senate version, the Treasury estimates that losses in customs revenue will not exceed $300,000 a year.

Mr. Eisenhower has been plugging for customs simplification since he took office. The bill, aimed broadly at encouraging world trade, is on the President's "must" list for this session of Congress.

The key provision of the Senate version would change the present law requiring that import duties be charged on the foreign value of the goods or the export value, whichever is higher.

On Export Value Alone.

Foreign value is the going domestic price in the exporting country. Export value is the price on the goods for sale in the United States.

Mr. Eisenhower requested a simplification basing import duties on export value alone. The Treasury said this would enable it to wipe out a huge backlog of customs investigations.

The House passed the bill in the form Mr. Eisenhower requested, but in the Senate it ran into opposition from protectionist interests, who said that it would lower the value of many import items for customs purposes, some as much as 80 per cent.

The measure remained in the Senate Finance Committee until the Administration came up with a compromise included in the bill passed by the Senate. Under this, any item on which the cut in valuation would be more than 5 per cent would remain subject to the dual valuation system.

House Rejects Barrier Plan.

The House rejected Administration pleas to permit barter of American farm surplus with Soviet satellite nations yesterday.

Then it passed, 389 to 6, the bill increasing from one and a half to three billion dollars the amount of surplus commodities which may be sold to non-Communist nations in return for their own currencies.

Payments by foreign nations in their own money go toward construction of military housing at United States installations abroad, to pay for construction of United States overseas bases, and to defray other United States expenses like embassy costs.

Immigration Laws.

Meanwhile, Mr. Eisenhower urged that his proposals for liberalizing present immigration laws be enacted before Congress adjourns. The proposals have been bottled up in Senate and House committees.

The President's appeal for action was made in a letter to Senator Arthur V. Watkins (Rep.), Utah senior G.O.P. member of the Senate Immigration subcommittee.

Mr. Eisenhower asked Congress in a special message last Feb. 8 to revise the controversial McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, passed in 1952 over former President Truman's veto.

The program submitted by Mr. Eisenhower would increase the present annual immigration quota of 154,657 by about 65,000, permit a limited pooling of unused quotas, and make changes in the administrative provisions of the law.

The heart of the dispute over the McCarran-Walter act is its retention of the national origins quota system first adopted by Congress in 1924, which assigns immigration quotas on the basis of the racial makeup of the United States population in 1920. Opponents contend that this favors northern and western European nations and discriminates against other countries.

Reactor Program.

The House Rules Committee approved by a split vote a bill authorizing a $400,000,000 reactor construction program to spur development of atomic power for civilian use.

The bill was passed by the Senate over opposition of the Eisenhower Administration. Funds to implement it are provided in an appropriation bill now before the House Appropriations Committee.

The Rules group also cleared for House action bills providing for Government-backed insurance against flood damage and to exempt from the 10 per cent amusement tax admission tickets costing $1 or less. The flood insurance measure already has cleared the Senate.

The atomic reactor bill is opposed by the Atomic Energy Commission as unnecessary.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill designed to relieve a shortage of nuclear scientists and engineers. The measure would permit the Atomic Energy Commission to help colleges and universities buy nuclear reactors and other equipment for training purposes. The bill would make it a federal offense to trespass on atomic energy installations or to smuggle weapons, explosives, or other dangerous devices or materials into such areas. Violators would be liable to fines up to $5000. Another provision would bar unauthorized photographing or sketching of atomic energy installations.

The bill would also give the AEC control over a 200-acre tract of land at the Weldon Spring (Mo.) ordinance works where the AEC is to have a feed-material plant.

Bar on Eavesdropping.

The House Judiciary Committee approved a bill to prohibit eavesdropping on juries, with penalties up to one year imprisonment and $100 fine for violators.

The bill already has been passed by the Senate. It resulted from disclosure last year that federal jury deliberations had been recorded with hidden microphones, as part of a research project.

The Department of Justice recommended enactment of the bill, saying any invasion of the privacy of juries, "however well intentioned" would inevitably stifle discussion and free exchange of ideas among jurors.

President Eisenhower signed a bill to award special medals to the four living veterans of the Civil War. The medals, estimated to cost about $3500, would go to Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., who served in the Union Army, and to three Confederate veterans, William A. Lundy of Laurel Hill, Fla.; John Salling of Slank, Va.; and Walter W. Williams of Franklin, Tex. Each is now more than 100 years old.

Drowns as Another Is Saved.

CLEAR LAKE, Ia., July 19 (UP)—An onlooker saved a girl from drowning in a swimming class at Clear Lake yesterday, but in the excitement another child, Harry Brunsvold, 7 years old, drowned. No one noticed that Larry was missing until chaperones counted the children to take them home.

Fort Dix Crash Deaths Reach 46

FORT DIX, N.J., July 19 (UP)—Deaths in the crash of a military transport plane last Friday have risen to 46. Army specialist third class Jesse Banks Jr. of Navasota, Tex., died yesterday at Fort Dix base hospital. His death leaves 20 survivors.

AIR-CONDITIONED ROOM ASSIGNED TO UNION CLASS

Union members will be among the first Washington University students to enjoy an air-conditioned classroom when they meet to discuss current labor problems, under direction of Mrs. Margaret Dagen, lecturer in labor history and economics, next Monday.

The course, like others for which the air-conditioned classroom was designed, is an intensive week-long institute, running from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Air-conditioned a year ago on an experimental basis, the room, Sever 106, has already paid for itself, "especially in terms of students' morale and learning," reported Dean Earliest Brandeburg of University College.

One other university classroom has been air-conditioned. This is Cupples 1, Room 3, where the equipment was put in by Emerson Electric Co. for use by its students attending classes there eight hours a day. A number of university offices, mostly those in use all summer, were air-conditioned last week.

Rubirosa Injured in Fall.
PARIS, July 19 (UP)—Dominican diplomat-playboy Porfirio Rubirosa broke a bone in his neck in a fall from his horse three weeks ago but is fast recovering, a spokesman said today. The spokesman said Rubirosa fell in a polo game in the Bois de Boulogne.

ALDERMEN PLAN TO QUERY AIM OF MISSOURI HILLS

Will Ask Board of Guardians Why Boys' School Lacks Vocational Training.

Officials of the Board of Children's Guardians will be asked to explain why a vocational training program has not been provided at Missouri Hills, the city's school for delinquent boys, Alderman Louis Aboussie announced today.

Aboussie heads an aldermanic committee which inspected the correctional institution yesterday in the course of a general inquiry on juvenile delinquency.

"Missouri Hills is a beautiful place overlooking the Missouri river," Aboussie reported. "We found buildings and grounds well kept and physical conditions excellent. But the 78 boys committed there have nothing to do but sit around, play pinch and checkers or watch television."

"The kids complained about this. One of them said, 'If they'd only give me something to do with my hands.'"

Improvement of the program at Missouri Hills, formerly known as Bellefontaine Farms, has been under discussion for years. In 1952 the Board of Children's Guardians decided that operation of a farm at the institution was poor training for city boys, and a dairy herd was sold. Plans called for substitution of woodworking, shoe repair and other vocational training.

The aldermanic committee will recommend that sheet metal, carpentry and other shops be set up, and that social workers be provided to help youth following their release, Aboussie stated.

"We found quite a number of repeaters at the institution," he reported. "I feel that some of them were there because they didn't learn anything the first time they were committed. With proper training, some of them might not have come back."

CHILE PRESIDENT CENSURED FOR NOT CURBING PERONISTS

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 19 (UP)—The Chamber of Deputies voted, 61 to 20, to censure President Carlos Ibanez last night for failing to curb Peronist infiltration of Chile.

A measure assailing Senator Guillermo Izquierdo and deputies Sergio Ojeda, Galvarino Rivera and Ruben Hurtado as active aids of ousted Argentine President Juan D. Peron, was approved 51 to 32. The Chamber decided to study the possibility of dismissing the three deputies and referred the case of Izquierdo to the upper house for action.

$1,168,000,000 STILL OWED TO U.S. UNDER LEND-LEASE

WASHINGTON, July 19 (UP)—President Eisenhower told Congress yesterday that foreign governments still owe the United States $1,168,000,000 under the lend-lease program.

In a report on lend-lease operations, Mr. Eisenhower said that scheduled repayments by foreign governments were generally satisfactory.

He reported that in 1955 the Soviet Union returned 89 naval vessels borrowed from this country in World War II. He said negotiations still were under way for the return of an additional 59 lend-lease ships from the Russians.

Communists Fire on Quemoy.

DULLES, EGYPT ENVOY MEETING FOR SHOWDOWN

U.S. Not So Sure Now That It Wants to Help Finance Aswan High Dam.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—United States relations with Egypt approached a showdown today in a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein.

The immediate issue is the long-standing United States offer, made in co-operation with Britain and the World Bank, to help finance a gigantic dam in the Nile river. American officials are no longer certain that they want to go through with this project because they fear Egypt may be developing a pro-Soviet line.

Calls Idea Unfair.

Ambassador Hussein calls that idea unfair and says that his government's policy is one of trying to preserve our independence.

Hussein returned here Tuesday after consultations with President Nasser in Cairo. He immediately declared that his purpose was to speed a final agreement on assistance by the West in constructing the $1,300,000,000 Aswan high dam. He said there never was any question of Egypt's desire to obtain assistance from the West.

The offer last December provided that the United States and Britain would provide an immediate $70,000,000, and an eventual total of $200,000,000, to help finance the project along with a $200,000,000 loan from the World Bank. Egypt was to pay the remainder of the cost.

Dulles was asked yesterday whether the United States was prepared to go ahead with the offer.

"I would not want to answer that question," he said, "in advance of seeing the ambassador. . . . All I can say is that quite a lot of things have happened since the offer was made and those would have to be taken into account and will be taken into account in my talk with the Egyptian ambassador."

Ability to Pay Questioned.

Meanwhile in London the Foreign Office expressed some doubts about Egypt's ability to pay for its share of the project. A spokesman said the United States, Britain and the World Bank have to review the financing with Egypt.

However, he stressed that Britain's offer to help finance the dam's construction "still stands."

"Since December officials here and in London have considered various moves by Nasser displayed some antagonism toward Western interests and in some instances furthered Soviet purposes in the Middle East. Recently Nasser entertained the new Soviet foreign minister, Dmitri Shepilov, and earlier this year recognized Communist China. Considerable opposition to the project has arisen in Congress, where some effort has been started to cut off all aid to Egypt."

SENATE GROUP WON'T ACT IN WISCONSIN G.O.P. DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The special Senate lobby committee announced last night it had decided, at least for the present, to keep hands off a dispute over campaign funds in the Wisconsin Republican senatorial race.

Representative Glenn Davis (Rep., Wis.) urged the committee in a telegram two days ago to conduct public hearings on what he called "serious charges" placed in the Congressional Record by Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.)

Davis was endorsed by the state Republican convention last May for the Senate seat now held by Wiley, who is seeking a fourth term. The party's primary election is to be held Sept. 11.

Wiley has accused party

"kingmakers" in Wisconsin of trying to purge him. On June 4 he placed in the Congressional Record a news story about a reported plan of four Wisconsin Republican leaders to pledge $150,000 to Davis's primary campaign. Three of those named have denied it and the fourth, Thomas Coleman, has demanded that Wiley retract his statements.

The Council meeting was requested by France, former protectorate ruler in the two North African realms.

CHIEFS OF STATE CHECKING IN FOR PANAMA PARLEY

Paraguayan Is First of 16 Presidents to Arrive — Eisenhower Due Saturday.

PANAMA CITY, July 19 (AP)—The first of 16 American presidents and presidents-elect coming to Panama this week arrived today to celebrate hemispheric solidarity and incidentally get acquainted.

Gen. Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay flew in, two days before President Eisenhower is due to reach here to complete the list of guests for the week-end meeting.

Scheduled to arrive before Mr. Eisenhower Saturday morning were the presidents of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Uruguay, Venezuela and the presidents-elect of Bolivia and Peru.

President Hector Trujillo of the Dominican Republic last night canceled his trip because of illness. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla of Colombia, Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra of Ecuador and Oscar Osorio of El Salvador also have said they will not attend.

The news that Argentina's Pedro Aramburu was coming was received with enthusiasm by diplomats of the Organization of American States already here. Some took it as an indication that Aramburu is confident he is in control at home after persistent trouble from the followers of Juan Peron, whom Aramburu helped overthrow last fall.

There also had been speculation Aramburu would not attend the conference because Peron now is living in exile in the Panamanian city of Colon, on the opposite side of the isthmus from Panama City.

By the time Mr. Eisenhower arrives his fellow presidents will be getting acquainted and talking over their problems. A reliable source said he hopes to have a half-hour talk with each of his fellow presidents. With schedules for Saturday and Sunday largely taken up with ceremonies, luncheons and dinners, a busy Monday was indicated for Mr. Eisenhower.

The English language Daily Journal of Caracas, Venezuela, said in an editorial that persons who have seen Mr. Eisenhower's speech to the conference report it reaffirms hemispheric solidarity but contains no surprises.

The paper added: "We hope Eisenhower can offer something more inspiring than banal declarations of a principle that already has been reaffirmed in countless speeches in recent years."

30 CATHOLICS FLEE REDS FOR REFUGE IN SOUTH VIET NAM

SAIGON, Indochina, July 19 (UP)—Thirty Viet Namese Roman Catholics, including two priests and three nuns, have fled Communist-run North Viet Nam by boat and landed in South Viet Nam, reports reaching here said today.

The largest group to escape the Communist north in nearly six months landed Tuesday in Quang Tri province just below the seventeenth parallel dividing the two sections of the country.

According to reports, the refugees were fired on but not hit as their boat left a North Viet Namese river and put out into the Gulf of Tonkin.

The little band boarded the boat last Friday midnight and worked down the Song Gianh river under cover of darkness.

The Viet Namese priests and nuns were members of the Catholic order of Amante de la Croix.

The others aboard—10 men, four women and 11 children—are being questioned by provincial authorities. The men are mostly fishermen and small business men.

ROBBERS THREATEN WOMAN WHILE RANSACKING HOME

Mrs. Robert Rath, 25-year-old mother of four children, was threatened with a knife by one of two men who entered her home at 2426 (rear) McNair avenue early yesterday, while his accomplice ransacked the home, she told police. Rath was not at home at the time.

Mrs. Rath told police she was awakened by a noise and saw a man climbing into the bedroom window from the roof of an adjacent shed. She ran toward the kitchen, she said, but the man grabbed her and threatened her with a knife.

She said a second man climbed through the window and ransacked the home while the first man guarded her. The robbers took a wristwatch, shotgun, a 22-caliber rifle and $14 from a jewel box.

ULBRICHT MIFFED BY THIN WELCOME HOME TO E. REICH

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Staff.

BONN, July 19—Walter Ulbricht, head of the East German Communist party, was displeased when he flew back from Moscow to East Germany yesterday and found there were no "workers' delegations" on hand to greet him.

Ulbricht and other top-ranking East German leaders landed at Schoenefeld outside East Berlin after their two-day talks in the Kremlin. The only public delegation awaiting them consisted of about 30 East German "Pioneer Youths."

Ulbricht looked around with a frown as he stepped out of the plane and within the hearing of westerners present at the field, he angrily asked the East German protocol chief where the workers' delegations were. The protocol chief was heard to reply that none had been available.

BLAIR PLEDGES 'FAIR' ACTIONS ON STATE LAWS

Candidate for Governor Says He Will Show
No Favoritism in Enforcing Statutes.

Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, last night pledged a "fair and complete" enforcement of all Missouri laws, and nonpolitical administration of the state mental health program.

The 54-year-old candidate outlined his platform and answered some criticism directed at his candidacy, in a talk before an overflow gathering of his supporters at a campaign dinner given by the St. Louis County Blair-for-Governor Committee at Chase Hotel.

More than 700 Democratic leaders and backers paid $5-a-plate to attend and hear Blair make his first major St. Louis speech of the campaign. Virtually all the members of the St. Louis Democratic city committee, who are backing him solidly for the nomination, were on hand.

In discussing labor-management problems, Blair made it clear that he would enforce the controversial King-Thompson act barring work stoppages in public utilities, as long as the law is on the statute books.

No Favoritism.
"As for labor and management and the public, what, my friends, would you have me say?" he began. "I know you would not have me say that on any issue or in any controversy the authority vested in me will be bent in favoritism toward any one."

"What more can an honest candidate for Governor say than, in his dealings with all, his authority of law will be exercised in a manner that is just to all."

Blair, who has been charged with being unfriendly to Missouri's nonpartisan court plan for the appointment of appellate judges and circuit and probate judges in St. Louis and Kansas City, declared that if elected he will faithfully fulfill the duties of the Governor in regard to the system.

"I shall adhere to this plan to the letter and always examine the qualifications of the three nominees submitted to me, without any regard to their political affiliations, and I shall appoint the nominee I conscientiously believe best fitted for the judgeship," he said.

Discussing the state's mental health problems, the candidate declared the administration of mental hospitals "must be free from politics."

Unreserved Promise.
"I pledge without reservation that it will be free from political interference, and I will not forget this pledge," he asserted.

Blair said he did not know everything about the problem, but said he would "call on the men and women who know the answers, and utilize the best brains and abilities of professional people to set up a real constructive mental health program."

He renewed his promise to appoint persons of "ability and honor" to the St. Louis police board and to the election boards of St. Louis and St. Louis county. He said that as Governor he would co-operate in helping to solve the complex problems of the St. Louis metropolitan area, and assist in obtaining state and federal support for its needs.

Blair urged improvements in Blair Sr. of Jefferson City, wife of the late Missouri Supreme Court judge; his wife; his daughter, Mrs. Winston Cook of St. Louis; his son, Jim Tom Blair III; two sisters, Mrs. Lynn Ewing of Nevada, Mo., and Mrs. Chapman Turner of Atlanta, Ga., and two brothers, Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair and Probate Judge William C. Blair of Jefferson City.

POLICE REVOLVER STOLEN

Patrolman Alexander Paradowski of the Lynch street district reported last night that his .38-caliber police revolver was stolen from the dresser in the bedroom of his home, 4610 Leona street.

He said he came upstairs from the basement shortly after 9 p.m. to get ready to report for work on the night shift and noticed the front door of the home open. The revolver was missing from the top of the dresser where he had left it, he said.

RETIREMENT PLAN COVERS G.O.P. COMMITTEE WORKERS

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The Republican National Committee said yesterday it had put into effect a retirement plan for its approximately 90 regular employees. The voluntary arrangement, with committee and employee each contributing, went into effect last June 1.

Headquarters workers with two years' service are eligible. The plan guarantees to those who work a maximum of 30 years between 55 and 60 per cent of their working pay when they leave. The retirement benefits will supplement social security payments for which the employees are eligible.

The Democratic National Committee said it has no supplementary retirement plan for its workers who now are eligible only for social security benefits.

THOREZ ASSAILS STALIN, ALMOST FAINTS IN PROCESS

LE HAVRE, France, July 19 (UP)—Ailing French Communist boss Maurice Thorez got so wrought up at the idea he has been a Stalinist guilty of one-man rule that he nearly fainted yesterday in the middle of a speech to the fourteenth French party conference.

Thorez, who suffered a stroke in 1950 and has been in poor health ever since, was forced to take a 30-minute breather in his long opening address to the assembled party brass.

Husky aids helped the one-time coal miner from the platform in the city hall of Le Havre, a city with a Communist mayor.

In his speech, Thorez, an old follower of Stalin, denounced the "cult of the personality." He added that the French party has "scrubbed away the traces of the cult."

Thorez addressed 1800 delegates to the conference, representing 500,000 party members.

PARTY FIGHTS OVER DELEGATE SEATS UNLIKELY

Democrats Have No Rival Convention Factions This Year, Republicans Only Two.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The major party national conventions next month are going to be unusually free of delegate seating contests of the explosive variety involving potential presidential candidates.

Thus far the Republicans have turned up only two relatively timid tussles and the Democrats none.

Rival factions seeking party control in their states will go to the G.O.P. convention from Mississippi and South Carolina. All four delegations favor the renomination of President Eisenhower, although one group in each state is pledged and the other is not.

Four years ago the G.O.P. convention had half a dozen sizzling scraps between rival Dixie delegations. They were ended only when the convention itself resorted to roll call votes to settle them. The decisions seated several key groups, especially from Texas and Georgia, favoring the nomination of Mr. Eisenhower over the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

The 1952 Democratic convention also had its southern "loyalty" and anti-Truman seating battles. Anti-Administration delegations from Texas and Mississippi were finally seated and their votes went to Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia on all three convention ballots.

This year Texas is sending only one delegation, pledged solidly for Senator Lyndon B. Johnson as a favorite son. Mississippi also is sending only one delegation, free to maneuver for southern principles and candidates.

The Texas delegation this time is pledged to support the national candidates finally chosen. Gov. Allan Shivers, who led the bolt to Eisenhower four years ago and wanted freedom of maneuver again this year, was beaten at the state Democratic convention in May.

Albert K. Mitchell of New Mexico will head a G.O.P. national committee group meeting in San Francisco Aug. 15, five days before the party convention, to take evidence in the Mississippi and South Carolina contests. The full national committee and convention credentials committee then will pass on them.

POPE TALKS WITH POULADE, FRENCH ANTI-TAX CRUSADER

CASTELGANDOLFO, Italy, July 19 (UPI)—Pope Pius XII granted a 12-minute private audience today to France's rightwing anti-tax crusader Pierre Poujade.

The meeting between the Roman Catholic spiritual leader and the controversial French politician took place in the private library of the Pope's summer residence here, 15 miles south of Rome.

Poujade has been seeking an audience with the Pope since his success in the last French parliamentary elections. He came to Rome especially for the brief meeting with the Pope.

U.S., SPAIN AND PORTUGAL
COMPLETE TALKS ON DEFENSE

MADRID, July 19 (AP)—Three-power military talks of Portugal, Spain and the United States on means of defending the Iberian peninsula place in Western strategy ended yesterday.

The delegations will report to their governments and receive new instructions. A communiqué said the present talks would be the basis for future negotiations.

The two-day meeting followed similar United States-Spanish discussions last week in which reliable informants said the Spaniards reported Spain and Portugal could assure defense of the "Iberian redoubt" if they were supplied proper war material.

U.S. LABOR PRESS CALLS KHRUSHCHEV
TALK RIDICULOUS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, July 19—A spokesman for the combined American labor press, with more than 15,000,000 circulation, yesterday told Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev he didn't know what he was talking about in Moscow Tuesday.

The Soviet leader said in a speech that workers in the free world do not have a free press. Bernard H. Mullady, secretary-treasurer of the International Labor Press Association, in a statement broadcast over the world, by the Voice of America, promptly called the Khrushchev statement "ridiculous."

"Mr. Khrushchev may not know it," he said, "but the trade unions of the United States are taking full advantage of the opportunity to reach their members through their own free press and the radio."

"We have some 250 newspapers and magazines in the International Labor Press Association (AFL-CIO) with a total circulation of well over 15,000,000," Mullady said, and pointed that unions sponsor radio and television commentators.

SCRUB DUTY ALOFT

HOMES WRECKED IN BLAST

Street in Long Island City, N. Y., is littered with wreckage from three houses blasted yesterday in a gas explosion. One child was killed and five persons were injured. One of the injured was William Kulka who was charged with manslaughter. Police said he apparently tried to commit suicide by turning on four gas jets in his home, leading to the explosion.

Life, full of uncertainties at best, is at one of its lower moments for stray dog as James Ray of the Animal Protective Association of Missouri ponders problem of freeing the animal from oil drum. Trapped last night when it poked its head through hole in search of food, the dog and drum were brought from St. Charles by truck today. Working carefully, Ray gradually eased the head out of the trap and made arrangements to keep the animal for treatment at the association's shelter.

Help Wanted 10,000 Women Needed For Jobs in Science

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP). WOMEN make up nearly one-third of the nation's working force, but only one out of 20 scientific workers is a woman.

—and more in the future.

One of America's top industrial scientists said today the field of research is wide open for women — and that thousands are urgently needed. The pay range is from $4000 a year to $12,000 or more, depending on ability.

"If we want to continue to be the scientific leader of the world, we are going to have to increase the size of our technological force," explained Dr. A. B. Kinzel. "Women are a factor, and we can't overlook them."

"Industrial research right now could use 5000 to 10,000 women a year

DR. KINZEL, at 56 the holder of more than 40 patents, is vice president in charge of research for the giant Union Carbide and Carbon Corp. He supervises 23 laboratories.

"We have 330 ranking scientists engaged in basic research, of whom only 23 are women," he continued. "But we'd like more. If we could find them, our firm alone could make room within a year or two for 500 young women with a B.S. or Ph.D."

Dr. Kinzel is a stout believer that women are just as brainy as men, and says the reason America has produced so few outstanding women scientists is simply because so few women in the past entered the field.

But more are needed now. Only 183 women were engaged in chemical research in 1941. Now there are about 1000.

"WHEN IT COMES to science," said Dr. Kinzel, "women may seem a bit more emotional and less objective than men. But they are also more intuitive and less inhibited in their thinking."

"Invention this is a great help. Inhibition of thought is a real block to inventiveness."

"Intelligent women are less likely than men to take it for granted that a thing can't be done. They are more likely, therefore, to come up with a fresh approach to a problem."

A GIRL with a Ph.D. today can get $600 a month in research, twice the salary of a secretary. But Dr. Kinzel pointed out she also works in surroundings more pleasant than those in an average business office — and has more opportunity to meet and marry a man of her own professional and cultural class. A lot of her male co-workers in the test and bunsen burner set are still bachelors.

"Scientific work is no deterrent to romance," said Dr. Kinzel emphatically. "And marriages between two people interested in science seem to work out better on the average than between people who don't share a similar interest."

"Nor does marriage need to terminate a woman's career. She can return to her job. If she's a good scientist, she can also at the same time be a good housewife and mother."

"There is no basic conflict. In fact there is less conflict, because in true science you don't work under a time pressure. No boss is standing over you demanding an immediate result."

DR. KINZEL feels that in addition to the high pay, scientific work is attractive to women because it is peculiarly rewarding in terms of a feeling of service and personal achievement.

What about it, girls? Science helped free modern women from drudgery. How about the women pitching in now and helping free science?

Friend of Boys

By Angelo Patri

BOYS who are 11, 12, 13 years old are leaving childhood and taking their first tentative steps toward maturity. They have begun to feel vague longings to do something they have not been able, have not been allowed, maybe have not thought of doing. They are looking over the fence of home protection toward adventure on their own.

These boys are timid about doing the things they feel they'd like to do. They still have one foot set firmly on home base while the other is feeling about for a foothold on new ground. They need a friend who will help them to explore the new experiences with them. They feel very insecure, and a friend they can lean on while they explore a bit lends them the courage they need.

ANGELO PATRI

IF THIS FRIEND-IN-NEED happens to be an older boy who has broken loose from approved ways, defying law and order and risking what no boy can afford to lose—his good name among his brothers—there is danger. What is needed is the leader who, understanding the boy's state of mind, guides him through the experiences he craves without endangering either his body or his character growth.

Fathers, willing as they may be, do not, as a usual thing, serve well here. They are emotionally concerned. They cannot help feeling, "This is my son. I must protect him. I know what he needs to do and I know the best way for him to do it."

The boy at this stage of development wants to try new ways, experiment with ways of doing new things new to him, like making a campfire, catching a fish and cooking it.

THIS IS WORK for the Scoutmaster. This friend of boys understands his job and his boys. He is the safe base the boy feels under his venturing feet. He will help when needed and stand back out of the way when the boy can manage by himself. He will not become emotionally concerned about the boy's trials and errors. He will laugh off his clumsiness, encourage another try, and be the leader the boy needs.

Boys need the Scoutmaster and the Scouts need Scout leaders. They need, too, the cordial support—spiritual and material—of all thoughtful citizens, especially fathers and mothers of boys 11 to 13.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"THE AVERAGE WOMAN," says a prominent analyst who obviously is looking for trouble, "is too inquisitive to play poker well. In an evening's play she'll have a dozen hands where 'calling the bet' displays a suicide complex. Yet she no more can resist throwing in the chips than she can help looking at the label in a friend's new coat."

MAN WITH A TELESCOPE at the Battery in New York had this sign attached to his instrument: "For one slim dime you can see an all-star cast. They work for nothing—and keep their sparkle straight through the night."

There's More to It Than Slapping Bread in Dish of Eggs and Milk

By Hoyt Alden

WELL, we came up with a recipe recently for a type of pickle made out of cucumbers which we called sempt dorken. We got the recipe from an excellent cook, and we asked her to spell the name. She did, s-e-m-p-t d-o-r-k-e-n. Having little or no knowledge of German, we went along.

The first repercussions came from one of our copy readers whose grandfather was a German, and he said it ought to be sempt gherkin. We stuck to our guns, because the woman who gave it to us was also of German descent, and we figured she knew as much as the next German descendant.

But the next thing we knew the letters started coming in, and they said there was no sempt to it, the word was sent, and the second word was gherkin, and that was according to the old German speller.

We went to a man who knew a little German and who owned a German-English dictionary. He pointed out that sent means mustard, or mustard-type pickle, or a pickle flavored with mustard seed, and so sent must be the first word. We couldn't find dorken anywhere in the book, but we did find gherkin, which means a cucumber, so that's where the situation stands today. If there are Germans reading this, or authorities on German pickles, we would be glad to hear from them. But whatever it is, sempt dorken or sent gherkin, they're still mighty good pickles.

FRIEND HUSBAND SAYS TO HIMSELF, "IF THAT'S FRENCH TOAST, THEN I'M NAPOLEON."

to stick to the bread, then she slaps it in the skillet.

She lets it burn a little on one side, and then on the other. She puts it on a plate and says to Friend Husband, "Look dear, I made you some nice French toast."

Friend Husband says, "If that's French toast, then I'm Napoleon," but you can be sure he says it to himself.

What the French had in mind when they invented the dish was not that, but something like this:

Take 12 slices of bread which have been allowed to get a day or two old and spread them with soft butter. Sprinkle half the slices with brown sugar, using two tablespoons to a slice, and cover them with the other six slices. Cut them in quarters.

Now sift together one and three-fourths cups of flour, a half teaspoon of salt, and one and one-fourth teaspoons of baking powder. Drop the yolks of two eggs on this and add a cup of milk and three tablespoons of melted butter. Beat it until it's smooth. Beat the whites of the two eggs, and fold them in.

Now dip each sandwich in the batter until it is well coated. Have a half inch of grease good and hot in the skillet and fry the sandwiches until they're brown on both sides. Turn them only once. When they're done, sprinkle them with powdered sugar, serve them with crisp bacon and tart jelly, and you've got a breakfast.

While we're on the subject of breakfast, did you ever try cranberry muffins. Well, you should, and here's how:

Combine a cup of chopped cranberries with a half cup of sugar. Sift two cups of flour, measure it and sift it again with three tablespoons of baking powder, a half teaspoon of salt and two tablespoons of sugar.

Beat an egg, add a cup of milk to it, and beat it again. Add half a cup of melted shortening, and beat it once again. Add this to the dry ingredients. Mix it until the dry ingredients are just dampened. The batter will not be smooth.

Stir in the cranberries, but only long enough to get them well distributed. Quickly dip the batter into well-greased muffin tins, filling them only about two-thirds full. Bake them in a hot oven about 20 to 25 minutes.

Now that tomatoes are at their best, you should do more than just slice them or cut them up in salad. Try tomato halves baked with cheese.

Take one tomato for each person. Cut them in half crosswise and lay the halves face up in a buttered baking dish. Spread them lightly with prepared mustard, season them well with salt and pepper.

Now put small squares of cheddar cheese on each half, a small dot of butter on top of that, and a sprinkling of pepper. Bake them for half an hour in a 350-degree oven.

And for a good dessert, wash eight ripe pears and put them in a deep baking dish so they'll stand up. Moisten a cup of brown sugar with a cup and a half of water; add three tablespoons of butter and bring it to a boil. Pour it over the pears. Sprinkle on a little grated lemon peel.

Cover the pears with foil and bake them in a 375-degree oven about two-thirds full. Bake for an hour. Serve them hot with thick cream or ice cream.

If it is your appearance, improve it; if education, take an extension course or two; if your background, find out more about it—you're sure to discover many good things there. If you lack poise throw yourself into some activity which demands poise, no matter how your knees may knock. Get out among people. Recall something you do well. Stop comparing yourself with others. ## A Mighty Motion Picture

JOHN HUSTON, the director-writer, has hewed to the mark in making Herman Melville's classic, "MOBY DICK," into a motion picture, now at the FOX THEATRE. He has captured the profound mysticism, the sense of doom and supernatural fury, in the old whaling captain Ahab's fanatic search over the seven seas for the white monster of a whale who for years defied all harpoons and lances and chewed off Capt. Ahab's leg. Huston and Ray Bradbury, in their screen play, have retained the grandeur of the great speeches, the terrible obsession of the vengeful captain as, inculcating his men with his own madness, he drives them on to inevitable death.

There is poetry here, the great tragedy of puny man hurling himself headlong to destruction fighting mighty forces that overwhelm him. This fate, in the person of the cold-eyed monster, sends Ahab and all his crew, save Ishmael, to their deaths in a thunderous climax that can but leave the spectator stricken with awe and horror. Ahab disappears spread-eagled to the whale's side by tangled harpoon ropes and the great creature buffets the ship Pequod until it sinks in a sucking maelstrom, and all is still on the vast deep except a few screaming small fowl. "The great shroud of the sea rolls on," and the moment is one of dreadful majesty. And so ends one of the great pictures of the years.

Melville saw beyond the simple old legend of the knight and the dragon and made it a profound allegory of man fighting malignant fate. Capt. Ahab sees in Moby Dick, the white whale, the symbol of all that is evil. But Starbuck, the Quaker mate, is a man of reason, and sees Ahab being consumed and destroyed by his own hate, and that is evil in itself. Vengeance is not for man, it is divine, says the pious Starbuck. "Let Ahab beware of Ahab," he warns.

BUT AHAH PAYS no heed. "I'll chase him round Good Hope, and round the Horn," he growls savagely. "And round the Norway Maelstrom and round perdition's flames before I give him up. . . and over the sides of earth, till he spouts black blood and rolls fin out."

The Shakespearean magnificence of language rolls on. "Talk not to me of blasphemy, man," Ahab snaps to Starbuck. "I'd strike the sun if it insulted me. All visible objects, man, are but as pasteboard masks. But in each event, there some unknown but still reasoning thing puts forth the mouldings of its features from behind the unreasoning mask. If man will strike, strike through the mask. . . I see in the white whale outrageous strength, with an inscrutable malice sinewing it. That inscrutable thing is chiefly what I hate."

Ahab, in a soul-searching moment, wonders if he is a divine instrument. "What is it?" he soliloquizes. "What nameless, inscrutable, unearthly thing is it; what cozening, hidden lord and master, and cruel remorseless emperor commands me; that against all natural lovings and longings, I so keep pushing and crowding and jamming myself. Is Ahab, Ahab? Is it I, God, or who, that lifts this arm? But if the great sun move not of himself. . . how then can this one small heart beat unless God does that beating, and not I?"

Huston has put into this towering tragedy the symbols of mysticism that are inherent in it. The prize doubloon glitters with an unearthly glow on the mast waiting to be claimed by the man who first sights Moby Dick; and the sun glitters blindingly back. Ahab calls the blacksmith to forge a lance that will be tempered in the blood of the harpoonists to dedicate it to the slaughter of Moby Dick. Sulphurous fire in the howling fury of the typhoon lights the masts like candles and bathes the lance, held like a knight's cross-handled sword, with a phosphorescent glow. The huge white whale, sounding and breaching in the savage battle, is seen through spray and mist and foam, so you are never quite sure it is real, and not a demon of malice.

BY OVERPRINTING a regular Technicolor film with black and white, Huston has given this the delicate tints of faded old prints, some of the half-lit hues and tones of the Flemish painting masters, so there is mood and beauty in all the camera work.

As Capt. Ahab, Gregory Peck is not as old and white-haired as one might expect, but the bearded figure with the top hat, the livid scar and the whale-bone stump of a leg is a powerful one and a terrible one, dedicated to his quest with demonic fierceness. His handling of the dialogue gives it a Jovian force. Leo Genn and Richard Basehart are perfectly cast as the devout Starbuck and the gentle, happy Ishmael. The rest of the motley crew is nicely done, too. Some of them are Friedrich Ledebur as the tattooed cannibal, Queequeg, Harry Andrews as the merry mate Stubb, Bernard Miles as the gloomy Manxman, Tom Clegg as Tashtego, the Indian. Orson Welles is the leonine Father Mapple, who delivers the baleful sermon that lends the first note of foreboding, and Royal Dano is the demented wharfed prophet Elijah, who proclaims the doom of Ahab and his men.

Just as the novel is an American classic in literature, Huston's work has realized all the mighty possibilities (which John Barrymore's two diluted screen versions did not), and it will stand as a classic milestone in motion pictures.

Family Co-ops

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MANY a family might make life more comfortable by a little more co-operation with others. Such mutual help was common in the pioneer days and on the frontier. It would be worthwhile to give it a fuller trial under the conditions of modern life.

As an illustration, many neighborhoods in recent years have built co-operative swimming pools. Not many families can afford one of their own; but if 50 or 100 families get together, they can put up a good one and perhaps have even more fun with it than if it were a private pool. Instead of an investment of several thousand dollars, they may have an investment of $100 each.

SUCH AN ENTERPRISE is best suited to a fairly settled community or to a new development or subdivision, where there are many persons with a community of interests. Of course, there must be a businesslike handling of the finances so any family which moves away can sell its share, which will be passed on to some new arrival in turn. There are many smaller projects that might be considered more practically. The home-owner with a small lawn may consider a power mower too expensive for him. If half a dozen buy it together, they can get it and each pay no more than for one operated by muscle power. Since the lawn mower is not likely to be used more than once a week, it makes an ideal investment on such a basis. Similarly, a washing machine, drier and ironer might be a co-operative enterprise among three or four families.

EVERYONE COULD tell of some such project that was a dismal failure. One member refused to do his share in keeping the machinery in good order and making repairs. I must admit that not everyone is a good enough citizen to be a satisfactory risk in co-operative ownership. But there are enough persons who are intelligent and responsible enough to make them good partners in any enterprise.

Baby Clothes for Needy Families

St. Louis Women Assemble Layettes in Project Sponsored by Board of Religious Organizations

By Clarissa Start

MANY downtown offices are air-conditioned, but not the office of the Board of Religious Organizations at 707 Market street. It was one of the hottest mornings of the summer. And yet five faithful volunteers and the office secretary had come downtown to assemble layettes for newborn infants whose parents cannot afford clothes for them.

Providing baby clothes for needy families is a regular, long-established practice of the BRO, which is made up of 131 member churches and organizations, with more than 4000 women volunteers. Last year, 361 layettes were distributed by the 15 public and private agencies, clinics, centers, churches and hospitals which make requests of the BRO. Although the BRO is made up of representatives of 10 religious faiths, persons of any or no religion are helped by them.

"We don't ask about the background," says Marie Bleibtreu, BRO secretary. "We only know there's a baby who needs clothes."

Most of the time the aid is routine, sometimes more dramatic, as in the recent case of a Marine's wife stranded here at the time her child arrived. On at least one occasion, volunteers have done a special emergency assembly job for triplets, in which they made up three identical layettes in three different colors.

"Usually all our day's work is done in the same color," explained Mrs. I. S. Rose, chairman of the layette committee, on the hot morning we visited the project. "Today we're working in pink."

Neatly stacked on chairs were the baby garments, predominantly pink. Other committee members had sorted and stacked them previously and the assembly line was ready to take over. Articles for the layettes are obtained from several sources. Some are purchased, usually at annual sales. The owner of an infants-wear shop in Brentwood periodically donates merchandise. Individual chairmen from churches take up collections of used clothing, accepting any infant clothing in good condition.

On a table in the front of the office assembly room are listed the items to be included in every layette. They are:

One quilt, four receiving blankets, one dozen new and one-half dozen used diapers, two shirts, one pad, one soaker, two bibs, one pair socks, two pairs booties, four kimonoes, four saques, one sweater, one cap, one pair mittens and any miscellaneous on hand.

Layette varies with the season. Winter ones include more bunting, quilts and blankets. Summer ones have emphasis on crinkle crepe and lightweight clothing. Moving quickly from chair to chair, two volunteers assembled the layettes, then took them to the two women at the desk, who wrapped them in a quilt secured by diaper pins. These neat bundles went to the fifth volunteer, who put them in paper sacks, labeled "S" (for summer) and stacked them on shelves.

Members on duty that day included Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Tonino C. Vogt, Mrs. J. S. Bradford, Mrs. T. M. McVey and Mrs. C. W. Brandhorst. Others on the committee are Mrs. Lee Beckel, Mrs. G. H. Hartwein, Miss Mary Nickel, Mrs. U. Gudger, Mrs. Jack Brown, Mrs. C. Kipp, Mrs. Ben Gutman, Mrs. Joseph W. Weiss and Mrs. Roy Kern. A volunteer of many years' service, Miss Nancy Williams, died recently.

The same women usually work on assembling layettes as there is a certain routine to be learned. Ordinarily they do not work in summer, but an emergency call for 60 layettes had come from a county agency and they had to meet the need. Recipients of layettes are carefully screened by the various agencies, and the need often is beyond question.

"Sometimes mothers come to the agencies with a baby wrapped in a blanket and not another piece of clothing for him," Mrs. Rose says.

Usually the volunteers work a morning only but sometimes their day runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. All of the volunteers on duty this particular morning were grandmothers and they chatted as they worked, about their own families, their work.

"Are you knitting cancer dressings in your church group?" one of them asked.

"We're doing that now and it's nice pickup work while you're watching television."

"My husband likes to hold my hand while we watch TV," said another of the grandmothers. "He says it's the only time he ever gets to see me."

From time to time the volunteers paused to admire some item going into the layette, especially the extras, which are contributed. A tiny crocheted bib. A quilt embroidered with chicks saying "Peep," and lambs saying "Baa." A ruffled nylon dress, pink smocked in blue. Price tags were removed from new items as carefully as if they were gifts.

Knitted garments, provided primarily by one of the Jewish membership groups, were especially lovely, hand knits in shell stitch and popcorn stitch and cable patterns, each set protected by a piliot cover.

"Some of the women who work on this program aren't even able to get out of their homes," Mrs. Rose said. "Several churches have groups of women who have heart conditions but get together to knit and crochet for us. Many shulins in homes and institutions place quilts for us. There's a woman in Florida who knits constantly and sends her work to us."

THE layette program is supported by private contributions and membership dues. One "angel" has given a tea each year for 27 years and at her twenty-fifth tea, many of her friends gave contributions of $25 each. Mrs. Rose herself has a benefit luncheon each July at her 700-acre farm near Pacific, Mo., where board members and guests gather to admire her husband's gladiolus specialties, and to talk over plans for the coming year. In addition, many of the churches use their own ingenuity to raise funds and collect layette articles.

Mrs. Keen led the six of spades and the five went on from dummy. Now, on the bidding, it was clear to Mr. Champion that his partner held no quick entry of any kind.

Therefore, if Mrs. Keen was going to run her spade suit, entry to her hand for that purpose could be gained only in the spade suit itself. So Mr. Champion made the very fine play of the queen of spades. If Mr. Muzzy had the guarded king, as seemed likely, he could hardly duck since, as far as he knew, the ace of spades was on his left.

If Mr. Champion played the ace of spades at trick one, Mr. Muzzy could duck the second lead of the suit, win the third, and break the connection between the defending hands.

But Mr. Muzzy serenely played the deuce of spades on the first trick. Startled by this development, Mr. Champion decided his partner must have the king.

He proceeded to lay down the ace and another one. But Mr. Muzzy won the third round of the suit, lost a trick to the king of diamonds, but romped home with nine tricks.

Mr. Champion demanded: "Why didn't you win the first trick with the king of spades, Muzzy?"

"How many tricks would I have won then?" asked Mr. Muzzy. Eight, he was told.

"I don't get it," Mr. Muzzy replied. "How can it be better to win eight tricks than nine. Isn't this what you were telling me about—the holdup when I have only one stopper in your suit?"

"But how did you know you had any stoppers when you let my queen of spades hold?" Mr. Champion said.

It's an Idea

Fabric draperies should be used for functional as well as visual improvement of the home. Hang cafes and draperies in checkered fashion for light control, quick changes.

Summer Jewelry
Low necklines for midsummer call for attractive jewelry. A Paris inspiration, chunks of cloudy moonstones are strung together on golden wire in the design of one attractive Coro necklace. Pastel enamel in light and airy shapes looks light and weighs very little. Pearls, too, are popular for summer.

U.N. Technical Aid

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

AN amendment to the foreign aid bill in Congress, which has been introduced by Senator Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, and will have bipartisan support of some leading Senators, is of vital importance. These leaders feel strongly that in a bill carrying billions for foreign aid it seems shortsighted, indeed, to cut appropriations for United Nations technical assistance from $15,500,000 to $10,000,000, or a cut of more than one-third.

Since our contribution to technical assistance in the U.N. is on a voluntary and matching basis, this cut could mean to the U.N. program a loss, not of $5,500,000, but of $11,000,000. This is a sizable enough sum to make a real difference in the whole program.

There are, of course, arguments made against technical assistance administered by the U.N. I have heard people say: "Why should we contribute to a program in which the Soviets also have a part and, therefore, may share in influencing how the money is spent?"

I THINK it can be proved that the Soviet influence is small, since out of 1000 experts, only five are from the Soviet Union. So I do not think that we really need to worry about carrying out any programs that are inimical to the interests of the United States.

Secondly, I have heard it said that it is better to give technical assistance directly to a country and control it entirely ourselves.

Anyone who has traveled throughout the world will, I think, agree with me that there are many countries that are suspicious of aid that is given by one country alone. But they are more than glad to receive this aid through the U.N. since it makes them feel that they have a part in the U.N.

THE THIRD REASON given me for cutting down our contribution to the U.N. is that last year the other nations failed to match our gift and $1,000,000 of our appropriation remained unused. It was unfortunate that the U.N. was not able to get the full amount, but it lost only $1,000,000, not $11,000,000.

Technical assistance also is of actual value to every one of the U.N.'s specialized agencies. These agencies, of course, carry out their own particular projects and have specialists in the field. But often, through collaboration, they can extend their own program by co-operating with the technical assistance projects and getting additional help from them.

We in this country know progress is made largely by having men who have the "know-how." And that is what technical assistance is trying to provide and encourage.

I hope very much that the people of this country will tell their Senators at once that they want to reinstate the cut of $5,500,000 made in the foreign aid appropriations bill.

"HE'S GETTING ALTOGETHER TOO BIG FOR THAT ATTIC ROOM."

July Visitors Include Former St. Louisans

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

AN unusually large number of former St. Louisans has been visiting here, some with their families, others briefly en route to other places. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Augustine, who for the past two years have lived in Cambridge, England, while he studied a variety of subjects, including English literature, at Cambridge University. They left a day or two ago for New York, where he will study at Columbia University to prepare further for a teaching career in the fall.

While here the Augustines divided their time between her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom of Rott road, St. Louis county (Mrs. Augustine was Miss Betsy Stockstrom) and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Augustine, 5537 Waterman avenue.

Mrs. Augustine stayed here for a few days longer than her husband in order to see her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. David W. Skinner (Margaret Stockstrom) who have returned with three of their children from Sayner, Wis., where they had a cottage on Plum Lake, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom Jr., who were at Ed Gabe's Resort, also at Sayner. The fourth Skinner child, Miss Carolyn, is at Camp Minnewanica, Shelby, Mich.

Two families of former St. Louisans have departed for the West after short visits here. Mrs. Corning Pearson (Marion Davis) and her son and daughter, Corning Jr., and Mimi, and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Thomas and their children, Michael and Beth, left Tuesday for White Grass Ranch, Jackson, Wyo., for the rest of the summer. Friends at Chestnut Hill, Pa., where both families live, they met here Tuesday morning. Mrs. Pearson and her children had been visiting her mother, Mrs. Kenneth M. Davis, 6366 Wydown boulevard, Clayton. Mr. Thomas is the brother of Mrs. Arthur C. Hoskins.

Another recent visitor was Mrs. Rogers Shapleigh, a former St. Louisan now living in Claremont, Calif., who spent several days with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Galt, 4505 Pershing avenue, on her way to Europe. She departed a week ago for the East and is making another brief stop in Buffalo, N.Y., before sailing to visit another brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Galt.

Mrs. Shapleigh's first stop abroad will be England where she will attend a meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Later she plans to tour the Scandinavian countries after which she will go to Abo, Finland, where she will visit her niece, Mrs. Per Johan Aschan, and Mr. Aschan. Mrs. Aschan, the former Miss Anne Kennett Galt, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galt, and has been living in Finland since her marriage two years ago.

Mrs. John F. Donovan Jr., 7261 Greenway drive, University City, and Mrs. Tobin Carlin, 5376 Waterman avenue, will go to New York early in September to sail Sept. 5 on the Queen Mary for a six-month holiday in Europe. After a short time in Paris, they will tour Italy, Belgium, Holland and England.

Mr. and Mrs. William King Gardner, 5333 Waterman avenue, and their son, Frederick D. Gardner, will leave St. Louis early next month for Osterville, on Cape Cod, for a late summer vacation. They will be at East Bay Lodge there. Before returning to St. Louis, the Gardners will visit in Canada.

City Chairmen Named for United Fund.

MRS. RICHARD ARTHUR BULLOCK has been named chairman of the city division for the second United Fund campaign this fall. Her appointment, along with four women who will serve with her as co-chairmen, was made by Charles P. Whitehead, general campaign chairman. The others, who will supervise the efforts of approximately 7000 volunteers, are Mrs. George Noble Bishop, West Central section; Mrs. G. Fred Driemeyer, North St. Louis; Mrs. John W. Calhoun, South St. Louis, and Mrs. J. Norman McDonough, who will aid in the solicitation of small firms.

Closely associated with three United Fund agencies, Mrs. Bullock is chairman of the St. Louis National Support Committee of the Y.W.C.A.; a board member of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, and board member and chairman of the finance committee of the St. Louis League for the Hard of Hearing. Mrs. Driemeyer is active in the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Society, the U.S.O. and Washington University clinics, the last two United Fund agencies.

Mrs. Calhoun, active in many past Community Chest campaigns, serves as vice-chairman of the finance committee, Girl Scouts of Greater St. Louis, a United Fund organization. Mrs. McDonough is active in the St. Louis City-County co-ordinating committee.

WEDDING plans are complete for the marriage Friday, July 27, of Miss Patricia Leon Bauman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John LeGale Bauman, 27 Algonquin Wood, Webster Groves, and C. Malcolm Sullivan of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Edward L. Nolting at 8 o'clock in the evening in the prayer chapel of First Congregational Church in Webster Groves. Mr. and Mrs. Bauman will give the reception at Algonquin Golf Club, of which he is former president.

Miss Bauman has asked Mrs. William Sullivan (Valerie Blaes) to serve as matron of honor and Mrs. Austin L. Dalton of Skokie, Ill., to be bridesmaid. The prospective bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Sullivan of Broomall, Pa., will have his brother, J. Stewart Sullivan of Drexel Hill, Pa., as best man. The bride-to-be has been honored at a series of pre-nuptial parties, beginning July 7 when Mrs. Rodney M. Fairfield, 24 Algonquin Wood, gave a luncheon. Last week three parties were scheduled: a breakfast and miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Jerome F. Bernoudy, 36 Algonquin Wood; a luncheon and kitchen shower at Old Warren Country Club at which Mrs. C. M. Charles and Mrs. Arthur R. Peat were co-hostesses, and a luncheon at Algonquin Club given by Mrs. A. E. S. Schmid.

The spinster dinner will be an event of Tuesday night with Mrs. William Sullivan as hostess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Blaes, 412 Newport avenue, Webster Groves. The bridegroom's mother will come to St. Louis for the wedding and the night before will be hostess at the rehearsal dinner at Chateau de Normandie.

In the brain's hypothalamic region, the appetite control center acts, in normal people, to increase your appetite... or... to reduce your appetite.

Eating some carbohydrate and protein-containing food 30 to 60 minutes before your regular meal is an effective way to reduce your appetite. Protein helps appease your appetite longer.

The less you crave food... the less you eat!

PROFILE SPECIAL FORMULA BREAD DOES JOB FOR LESS

Two slices of Profile Special Formula Bread 30 to 60 minutes before lunch and dinner should appease your appetite control center.

OPINION

Dear Martha:

IN regard to Uncertain, who complained about the appearance of the neighbor's elderly aunt, I would say that she herself may not be fortunate enough to die young. She may live to see the day she would be happy to shuffle along as this old soul does.

How many shut-ins would be glad to get up from their beds and shuffle out for a breath of fresh air. And what a wonderful niece she has to help her. Come out from behind those windows you are peeping through and give a helping hand. You will be happier for it.

LOVE TO THE NIECE.

Dear Martha:

I SHOULD LIKE to say to Uncertain, as you did, that she should have some sympathy and compassion for the old lady and extend some kindness to her. Let's she forget, she too will grow old and may long for a kind word. On the other hand, why should this writer apologize to her friends for the old lady's appearance? Why doesn't she attend to her own business? Her attitude is that of the ill-bred and uncouth and her sense of values is greatly distorted. I am glad I was given a decent upbringing and respect and consideration for the aged. I sincerely hope that when my eyes grow dim, my reflexes slow and my heart saddened, there will be one person around who will have received the same training as I and find it in his heart to say a kind word.

FINE FEATHERS.

Dear Martha:

TO UNCERTAIN: I wonder just who you think you are. You had better check. We all come to the earth the same and if a few clothes can mean so much to you, it is all wrong. I would invite this little aunt in on your porch sometime and talk to her. Old people like to be noticed.

NOT SO OLD.

IN ANSWER TO Mixed Up: It would be impossible, of course, for me to say whether he loves you, but if he makes no more effort to see you than for a few minutes once a week—assuming he can see you more often if he cares to—I would have to say that he doesn't act as though he loves you very much. It's natural, of course, to want to kiss you, but if there is nothing more than a physical attraction for one another, if there is nothing deeper than a shallow demonstration of affection, then your engagement is weak and meaningless.

Write today for Martha Carr's free leaflet of parties for the small fry, "Let's Have a Party." Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Beauty and Job

By Ruth Millett

"If you can't be a good secretary, at least be decorative." That bit of advice was recently given to a group of secretaries by a University of Texas professor. It's practical advice, of course, and it goes for any woman, no matter what her job.

To the men who hire and fire it is never possible to separate wholly the woman from the secretary or the file clerk or the assistant.

The woman and the worker are seen as one. So the girl who isn't quite as quick as she could be, or quite as efficient or quite as bright can detract a great deal from her shortcomings by being easy on the eyes.

TO THE GIRL who is just entering the business world, though, a word of warning. Make the most of your looks, be as decorative as possible but don't try to trade on your looks.

The job you are being paid to do has to be done and unless you put your mind to it and do it to the best of your ability your looks won't save the job for you for long.

ALSO, IF YOU know you are good at your job don't think you don't have to bother looking your best day after day. For a combination of efficiency and good looks will pay off far more handsomely than just efficiency alone.

A woman always makes a mistake if she thinks her looks don't matter. But she makes just as big a mistake if she thinks her looks are all that matter.

The way for a girl with a job to look at herself is the way her employer is bound to look at her as a woman and a job holder. She can't afford to neglect either herself or her job if she wants to get ahead.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

GIRL writes: "A man I know spent a weekend at my married brother's house. My sister-in-law had let me ask him so that my visit would be more pleasant. She and my brother went all out to entertain us. I feel that the least my friend can do is write her a note, which I happen to know he hasn't done. Is there a way I could remind him to write her, because his thoughtlessness certainly puts me in a bad light?"

He should have written, but since he hasn't you can certainly write and tell them how much he enjoyed their hospitality.

DEAR MRS. POST: Is demitasse ever served at the table in the dining room, or is it always served in the living room? Should cream and sugar be served with it, or is it always served black? There has been some discussion also as to whether it is proper to eat block ice cream with a fork or a spoon.

Answer: Demitasse is served more often at the table than in the living room. Either is correct, whichever the hostess chooses. Sugar is always served; cream is seldom served, but it is not incorrect to serve it if the hostess wishes. Either a spoon or fork is correct; or you can use both and let the guests choose whichever one they like.

DEAR MRS. POST: When an acquaintance comes to visit and brings her young child with her, may the hostess, when she sees the child going for her best ornaments, ask her please not to touch them when the mother sits by and says nothing, or does politeness demand that she stay silent and hope that nothing gets broken?

Answer: It is entirely right for her to say something in a polite voice.

DEAR MRS. POST: When served a paper napkin, what does one do with it after one has finished eating? Is it put at the side of the plate as a linen one, or is it crumpled together and put on the plate?

Answer: You lay it aside exactly as you would a linen one.

Glamour in Age of Exploitation

'What Is It and How Can I Get It' Is the Big Problem

By Phyllis Battelle
NEW YORK (INS).

THERE is one great stumbling block facing the chic sex. It is: "What is glamour—honest, now—and how do I get it?"

The whole picture is most confusing in this age of exploitation, when there are dozens of types of feminine exhibitionism being flaunted and none is particularly consistent with another.

For example the fashion dress houses and the reducing salons, two powerful commercial forces with a lot of money to throw away on trend-setting, want a woman to be slim unto gaunt. They hint, in their ads for malnutrition, that a woman is somewhat of a sow if she allows herself to outgrow a size 10 sheath.

They differ, however, on how she should carry her underweight . . . with the reducing people suggesting an upright, shoulder-blades-back sort of posture, and the fashion folks urging a hip-bones-out slouch (or "the sophisticate sag").

THE MOVIE GLAMOUR

is, in many ways, more broad. Particularly above the waist, Hollywood is plumping for the hour-glass figure as opposed to fashion's fencepost look. And they release (from the confinement of girdles, among other things) such personalities as Marilyn, Jane and Diana to prove how allegedly alluring this wavy torso can be.

Television has yet another approach to glamour. They go for either the "extraordinary ordinary" girl, like the girl next door with neuroses; or for the slick homespun type (the Betty Furness bubbly) who wears cute aprons while giving formal dinner parties. On the fringe of this glamour-whatsit picture are outfits like the "Miss America" contest managers who say that talent is a girl's real source of loveliness, and the "Mrs. America" people who hint that the true secret of charm lies in a fast, lighthearted darning of socks.

AND THROUGH IT ALL, men continue to marry women like Barbara Hutton who neither waves nor slouches, recites Shakespeare or darts. What precedent is a girl who is seeking a place in the sun, or even better the moonlight, to follow?

There are many who would give advice. Lilly Dache says glamour is simple self-assurance or lack of self-consciousness—the ability to make others feel at home around you.

Elsa Schiaparelli says it is a flair. Marlene Dietrich knows it as daring. Most men probably would say glamour in a woman is her ability to make a man feel he is the only He in the world.

Achieving An Inner Maturity

By Adele Starbird

IT often happens that a boy who has been a problem to himself and his family suddenly straightens out, develops a purpose in life, begins to study seriously, and accepts responsibility.

It looks like a miracle. And from one point of view, it is. The old saying that every grown man is a miracle was originally a comment on boy's recklessness in play and adventure, one wondered how he ever survived to grow up. But the achievement of inner maturity despite all hazards—that too seems miraculous.

Teachers and family ask themselves what caused it. They talk about motivation, a good word which explains nothing. One year a boy doesn't care, and the next year he does care, and the battle is won. Obviously something has occurred within him which gives him a motive to do well, but what caused the occurrence?

If only we knew, if we had a sure-fire formula which could be given like a vaccine, youth problems would be solved. But we don't know. Each boy is unique, with his own responses and incentives. What motivated your neighbor's son may fail with your own boy, and you will have to seek a different formula.

Some boys never are motivated; nobody has succeeded in finding and touching the secret spring, and they became wasters and drifters.

A FATHER said to his son on his twenty-first birthday, "Your mother and I are very proud of the way you have developed. When you were a little boy, we worried about you; you had some personality traits and attitudes which were undesirable, but you have overcome them all and grown into a fine man. Do you have any idea what changed you?"

The young man answered promptly that three influences in his life had brought about the change. (He had evidently given the matter thought.)

The first influence was the Boy Scouts.

The second was a long stay in a hospital following an operation; his own suffering and the suffering he saw around him made him tender.

And the third influence was a friend of the family whom he named. His father expressed surprise. "I didn't know that you had any conversations with him."

"I didn't," answered the boy. "But just seeing him occasionally, seeing the kind of man he was, made me want to be like him."

SOMETIMES military service brings motivation. Many a young man comes out of the service better than he was before induction—though this, I realize, is not a popular assumption.

Sometimes a serious love affair motivates a boy. He wants to make something of his life for the sake of the girl he will marry.

But sometimes it is a kick in the teeth that brings him into line. A shock or disappointment or tragic failure gives him a new look at himself, and he doesn't like what he sees.

Whatever the cause, I think that there is no joy or satisfaction so great as seeing a boy find himself. Teachers and parents rejoice that at last his feet are set upon the right path.

Few men have that joy so often as William James, who with eight other young war veterans, founded Boys Town of Missouri in 1909. The horse show which is now being held at the St. Charles County Fairgrounds is for the benefit of Boys Town. I can't imagine a better investment than a flock of tickets for the horse show, or a direct contribution sent to the office of Boys Town of Missouri at 7727 Clayton road.

Grave Injustice

A GRAVE injustice is an act committed by one person against another. It should not be taken lying down. One grave injustice accepted without protest will lead to others.

No better way of protest could be found than writing a letter to the person who has committed it. An inspiration may come in the middle of the night or while digging in the garden or mowing the lawn.

The proposed letter will, in eloquent language, call attention to the grave injustice. It will show that it is reprehensible and inexcusable. It will express surprise that such an outrage could be committed in a supposedly decent community.

It will point out that the perpetrator no doubt supposed there would be no protest. But he misjudged the person against whom the grave injustice was committed. That person does not hesitate to express his righteous indignation.

If his protest is ignored he will not let the matter drop. He will take it to the courts. Or, if it is not something that is handled by the courts he will take it into his own hands.

The more he reflects on the letter the more pleased he is with it. It is a composition that will reveal courage and wisdom, and is calculated to put the perpetrator of the injustice in his place. If more such letters were composed there would be fewer grave injustices.

Such being the case, how sad it is that after the letter has been worked over in the middle of the night or while digging in the garden or mowing the lawn, it so seldom is either written or sent.

CHRISTOPHER BILLOPP.

Innocent Victims of The Auto

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

Many people have been the innocent casualties of the automobile. For example, here is a letter from a woman that underlines the fact that you can get into trouble even when minding your own business.

"My husband is a salesman," she said, "and his territory is within a 50-mile radius of where we live. About 10 days ago I went along with him on one of his customer-calls. He is a careful driver and when he got to his destination he drew up, off the road, parallel to it. I remained in the car.

"I was perfectly relaxed, not thinking of anything special, when suddenly I thought the world came to an end. I thought my head was surely snapped off. I almost blacked out with the pain and fright of it all. I found out later that a drunken driver had veered off the road and smashed right into the rear of our car.

"I am in so much pain I can hardly write this letter. I guess my only purpose is the hope you will reprint it in your column and warn innocent people that they can get hurt sitting still as well as when they are speeding. I don't know how you can prevent this kind of accident. Perhaps pulling into a parking lot or way off the road might be worthwhile. I had a friend whose car was hit while she was sitting in a car waiting for the red light to change. Boom! And she got a fractured neck. These injuries are more common than people think and it will help if they are at least aware of the possibility. Sincerely, Mrs. L. L."

ANSWER: In these days of machines all of us live dangerously. This is so whether we want to or not. We are hostages to the bad judgment of other-wise sensible people and to the poor luck of being at the mercy of some road-moron. The point is that neck injuries of this type can sometimes be serious. When you sit in your car completely relaxed and unaware that a sudden force will strike the back of your car, your neck is at the mercy of Lady Luck. You may come out of it with a little discomfort for a few weeks; or you may get a broken neck.

I have been reading an informative article in Modern Medicine. It is a condensation of a piece by E. G. Lipow, M.D., in the Southern Medical Journal. It is called: "Whiplash Injury of the Neck." This, of course, is the injury Mrs. L. L. was subjected to. When the sudden force strikes the rear of the standing car, the neck and head are suddenly thrown forward and then as quickly and forcibly thrown backward. (Like the lash of a whip.) When this terrific force is so exerted you can imagine the strain put upon bones, muscles, nerves, tendons and blood vessels. If the injury is severe, there may be rupture of muscles and tendons. There may be bleeding and adhesions which later cause nerve pain. Fracture of the cervical vertebrae is not uncommon. You may get a "cervical disc" or even have a brain concussion.

I THINK every such patient should have an X-ray of his neck. Although there may be no evidence on the plates of recent injury, finding an old arthritis may reveal the reason why the patient continues to suffer.

The symptoms vary: Immediately after the accident the patient may be dazed, or actually lose consciousness. He may have persisting headaches with pain in the back and front of the head. He may not be able to turn his head from side to side. Pain may extend down to his shoulders. Sometimes there is numbness in the fingers. And to round it all out, people who are especially apprehensive become anxious and psycho-neurotic.

If you ever have such an accident, early treatment is important. Don't wait until the following day or week to check on it.

Double Drop Shortcake

Ingredients: Two cups prepared biscuit mix, three-fourths cup light cream, five teaspoons butter (soft), one quart strawberries (sliced and sugared), three-fourths cup heavy cream (whipped and sweetened and flavored with vanilla).

Method: Stir together biscuit mix and cream with a fork until well mixed. Drop half the dough in five mounds on cookie sheet. Flatten slightly with back of spoon. Spread each biscuit with a teaspoon of butter. Drop another mound of dough on top of each and spread again with back of spoon. Bake in hot (450 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until browned. Remove top biscuit and place bottom biscuits in individual serving dishes. Spoon berries over biscuits, replace tops and spoon on more berries. Top with whipped cream. Makes five servings.

Coral Spread

Ingredients: One package (three ounces) cream cheese; one container (eight ounces) cream-style cottage cheese, one 136, Old Chelsea Sta., New mon roel.

Method: Soften cream cheese by heating with spoon; stir in cottage cheese well but do not try to make smooth. Stir in red caviar. Turn into serving container and chill for an hour or two. Makes about one and one-half cups. Serve with small squares of pumpernickel bread. If weather is warm, insert container of spread in bowl of crushed ice. Serve spread shortly after chilling; if kept overnight it develops a bitter flavor.

Proposed Picnic

JUST as they expected, they have only to say the word "picnic" and he gets excited.

They tell him he needn't repeat all his arguments against picnics. They know them by heart already. The ants, the heat, the uncomfortable seats, the difficulty finding a place that is not strewn with orange peel and broken bottles and contending with the holiday traffic on the highway.

There is no use his going over all the reasons why it is more sensible to stay at home. They are familiar with them, too.

Well, they assure him he doesn't have to go. They point out that this is a free country where it is customary to let everybody do as he pleases. And the family can get along very well without him. In fact, they would rather not have him with them if he is going to spend the day complaining.

They tell him he can stay at home. There he will have nice, soft chairs to read in and beds and lounges to lie on when he gets sleepy. The refrigerator is stocked with soft drinks and plenty of things to eat.

If, they say, the refrigerator does not hold everything he wants he will find canned goods in the pantry. The television is in working order and he can enjoy interesting programs throughout the day.

Then, they point out, at the end of the day, instead of being exhausted he will be relaxed and rested. And he will not have insect bites or a painful sunburn. And, when the family returns from the picnic worn out and irritable, he can look at them sympathetically and think how much wiser he was than they. In such matters, they concede, nobody need make any personal sacrifices.

Thus they leave the picnic issue, knowing full well that in the morning, when the family starts out, he will be going alone.

MAKING his way to the edge of the village, Mungo Park halted again before a humble hut. Then he dismounted and stumbled toward the doorway. He asked an aged woman for something to eat, and this time he was made welcome.

Much refreshed after a meal, Park gave the old woman one of his pocket watches as a gift. He then continued with the journey. The next day he reached a small oasis, and there he met a shepherd who gave him water and a dish of boiled dates.

Park had been a desire to learn more about the geography of western Africa. In the year 1796, he was held a prisoner by a Moorish king for a period of five months.

After escaping from that king, the white man was on his way to the coast, a long and arduous journey. He was drawing near to the Niger river.

Days of thirst and hunger were passed while he crossed a desert, but the desert was small. On the other side was the Negro kingdom of Bambara, where, for a time, he found plenty of food. The Negro natives were hospitable people.

Making his way toward Sego, the capital of Bambara, he fell in with two natives who were going to the Niger.

Late in July, he caught sight of the Niger. The Negroes told him that the name of this stream was Joliba, meaning "the river."

The Niger is one of the main rivers of Africa, and ranks eleventh among the rivers of the world. Its length is about 2600 miles. Curving through western Africa, it empties into the Gulf of Guinea.

Long before this time, the mouth of the Niger had become known to white travelers, but it was not until 1893 that men had seen the head waters which were reached by Mungo Park
